City Manager gets hefty increase

Council approves salary hikes

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

A pay increase ordinance for all city employes, which included a healthy wage hike for the city manager, was approved by members of Washington C.H. City Council at Wednesday night's regular meeting.

See additional City Council coverage on page 18 of today's Record-Herald.

Twenty pieces of legislation, five dealing with the pay increases for city employes, were handled by City Council members in a meeting which lasted just over an hour.

AS NEAR as can be determined, all of the nearly 70 city employes received identical $800 annual wage increases, retroactive to Jan. 1 of this year, with the exception of City Manager Dan Wolford.

Wolford received a increase of approximately $3,000. The city manager previously had been receiving an annual salary of $13,000.

The pay increases were formed by Council members in closed work sessions, but no mention was ever made of an increase of Wolford's salary at any of the private meetings attended by members of the local news media. The pay hike for the city manager was not even mentioned at Wednesday's meeting as Council rapidly read and approved all the ordinances dealing with the pay increases by title only.

Council members unanimously agreed to prepare the legislation during a work session held May 29, but the measure has been displeasing to members of the Washington C.H. Police Department.

The city's legislators, who have been especially finance-minded since proposing the salary hikes, reached agreements with all city departments, except the police officers.

POLICE OFFICERS, in a revised proposal at the May 29 meeting, had requested a $600 cost of living increase, retroactive to April 1; a one-range step (five per cent) pay increase for all police officers which would have amounted to approximately $300 per man, and a $100 uniform allowance increase. The total city police proposal would have amounted to $1,000 per police officer.

The package formed by City Council members included uniform allowance increases for both the police and fire department officers. Emergency ordinances dealing with allowances for both departments were approved.

Under the guidelines of the ordinance, the city will provide for the purchase of the first issue of clothing for uniformed members of both departments and establish an annual allowance thereafter.

Police officers received a $100 increase. The department's annual clothing allowance is now $250. The firemen will receive $150 annually, a $50 increase.

An emergency ordinance establishing overtime pay policies for city employes was approved.

Wolford explained that as a result of the 1974 amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act, minimum wages and overtime wages must be paid to most

Assembly quits without action

Spending measure in limbo

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 110th General Assembly called it quits early today, leaving in limbo an $81.8-million supplemental appropriations bill and a host of other measures.

Left hanging when adjourned were bills defining landlord-tenant relationships, Atty. Gen. William J. Brown's drug reform proposal, no-fault insurance and a change in probate court procedures.

All of the measures are technically still alive since the legislature plans to meet at least once a month until final adjournment in December.

The House and Senate had different versions of Gov. John J. Gilligan's $43.5-million appropriations bill. Senate Republicans added $37 million, setting the stage for the deadlock.

The legislature approved a bill extending for four years the ban on drilling for oil and gas in Lake Erie. It will run July 1, 1974, to July 1, 1978.

The landlord-tenant bill passed the Senate earlier in the day, but the House paved the way for the deadlock by rewriting it to conform with a similar bill it passed a week ago. It was put in conference committee.

The drug reform bill, written primarily in the attorney general's office, was left in the Senate Rules Committee, which schedules measures for floor votes.

Also left in Senate Rules was a bill that would have provided for no-fault auto insurance. It was a rewrite of a no-fault bill that had passed the House.

The House adjourned at 1:12 a.m. The Senate followed at 1:20. The two bodies will return for at least a skeleton session July 9.

At least three dozen bills, most of them minor, were passed during the final day and sent to Gilligan for signing.

The probate court reform bill, like the supplemental appropriations and landlord-tenant bills, was assigned to conference committee.

A bill that would allow persons injured while assisting crime victims to collect up to $10,000 from the state was one of those given final approval.

Its Senate sponsor, Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus, estimated there would be about 10 claims a year, averaging around $2,500 apiece. The new state Court of Claims would make ruling.

Also headed to the governor was a bill regulating fishing on Lake Erie and increasing license fees for commercial

Legal logjam broken in Ehrlichman case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge apparently has decided that a White House concession on executive privilege may enable John D. Ehrlichman to face an early trial in the Ellsberg break-in case.

After two weeks of legal drama, which cast doubts on whether Ehrlichman would stand trial at all, U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell appears to have struck a last-minute agreement with President Nixon over access to White House files.

Gesell has scheduled a hearing with defense and prosecution lawyers in his chambers today, at which time he is expected to clear up the final details. The accord still denies Ehrlichman the right to take his attorney into the White House vault that houses his files.

Nonetheless, Gesell said in a hurriedly called hearing Wednesday: "We have progressed substantially. The claim of perpetual executive privilege has been removed."

At issue was the question of whether Nixon or Gesell would decide what documents in the President's control would be admitted as evidence in the trial, scheduled to begin Monday.

Although Gesell said Wednesday there has been a "substantial change" from what Nixon previously had permitted, the President still is retaining direct control over the files Ehrlichman left in the White House when he resigned as a presidential assistant.

Gesell, in courtroom hearings, has described Nixon as "bordering on obstruction" and accused him of using offensive tactics in the White House response to subpoenas Ehrlichman issued for the files.

Claiming executive privilege, Nixon has said Ehrlichman alone may view the material and that his former aide could not take notes.

Gesell had said in pretrial hearings that it was unacceptable to deny Ehrlichman the right to have his attorney accompany him in reviewing 28 months worth of notes.

But the key element was Nixon's insistence that even if Gesell was allowed to view some of the notes privately, the President would retain the ultimate authority to decide whether Ehrlichman could use the material in his defense.

When the White House turned over some of the material to the judge last week and, on Wednesday, surrendered any claim of executive privilege, the legal log jam was broken.

One of Ehrlichman's attorneys, Andrew Hall, said Ehrlichman wants at least two documents that the White House has not provided. Gesell said that matter would be thrashed out in his chambers.

Ehrlichman and three others are accused in the so-called plumbers case of conspiring to burglarize the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding.

The plumbers were a special White

Impeachment data may be made public

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plagued by leaks, the House Judiciary Committee is considering making public most of the evidence it has received in its impeachment inquiry.

Meanwhile, the Nixon administration is renewing calls for the committee to open up its proceedings.

The committee's staff is screening the evidence, packed in 26 thick looseleaf notebooks, to determine what should still be kept secret, but a committee majority appears ready to release the rest quickly.

The proposal to do so came Wednesday at a meeting of committee Democrats hastily called by Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., after news stories based on committee leaks appeared.

The leaks dealt with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's role in the wiretapping of government officials and newsmen.

Meanwhile, Vice President Gerald R. Ford and presidential counselor Dean Burch accused the committee of damaging Kissinger's reputation.

Ford said "this leak process in the House Judiciary Committee is a very strong argument for ... the committee to open up its hearings and let the public see first-hand, not through the leak process, the information they're getting."

Burch said Rodino "seemed to have lost control" over the committee and accused him of failing to carry out a pledge to work expeditiously and fairly.

At the Democrats' meeting, Rodino said he regretted the leaks and thought they were coming from only a few of the 38 members.

Republican members were harsh in denouncing those responsible for the leaks. Rep. Charles Sandman, R-N.J., said any member found to have leaked the evidence against Kissinger should be suspended from the committee.

Rep. Joseph Maraziti, R-N.J., sought a call for a special meeting to take a vote of confidence in Kissinger, but Rodino ruled him out of order.

The Democrats also want to release the impeachment evidence so it will be known to the public before White House lawyer James D. St. Clair presents President Nixon's defense.

St. Clair already has prepared a brief answering charges raised during the presentation of Watergate evidence but Rodino will not let him provide it to members. He said Tuesday individual members could get it, but changed his mind Wednesday and ruled it would violate committee rules for St. Clair to release anything before being invited to by the committee.

At the Democratic caucus the question of calling witnesses was discussed, and members reported there definitely would be some. They would not be called until after next week, when presentation of documentary evidence is to be completed.

Rodino said the staff still has not interviewed Charles W. Colson, former White House aide who has pleaded guilty to a felony charge of obstructing justice and who has said he is willing to tell all he knows.

The committee wants to know what Colson plans to say before determining whether to call him as a witness.

President continues tour

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Thousands of Egyptian workers, peasants and schoolchildren cheered President Nixon today as he and President Anwar Sadat traveled to Alexandria by train.

Nixon and Sadat sat on the open end of a century-old coach once used by Khedive Ismail, who opened the Suez Canal. An American helicopter circled over the train, and some 10,000 Egyptian troops were deployed along the route, primarily to keep the surging throngs off the tracks.

Egyptian security agents predicted as many as 10 million persons would turn out to see the flag-decked, 13-car train as it moved through the fertile Nile delta to the ancient port the Greeks founded on the Mediterranean.

Nixon and Sadat were relaxed and obviously enjoying the clear weather, enthusiastic crowds and happy children running alongside the train.

After their midafternoon arrival, Nixon and Sadat were to talk at the Ras el Tin Palace. After an early-evening reception President and Mrs. Nixon were giving a state dinner, reciprocating for the banquet the Sadats gave for them Wednesday night in Cairo.

The two president return to Cairo by helicopter Friday to visit the Pyramids. Nixon leaves for Saudi Arabia Friday afternoon.

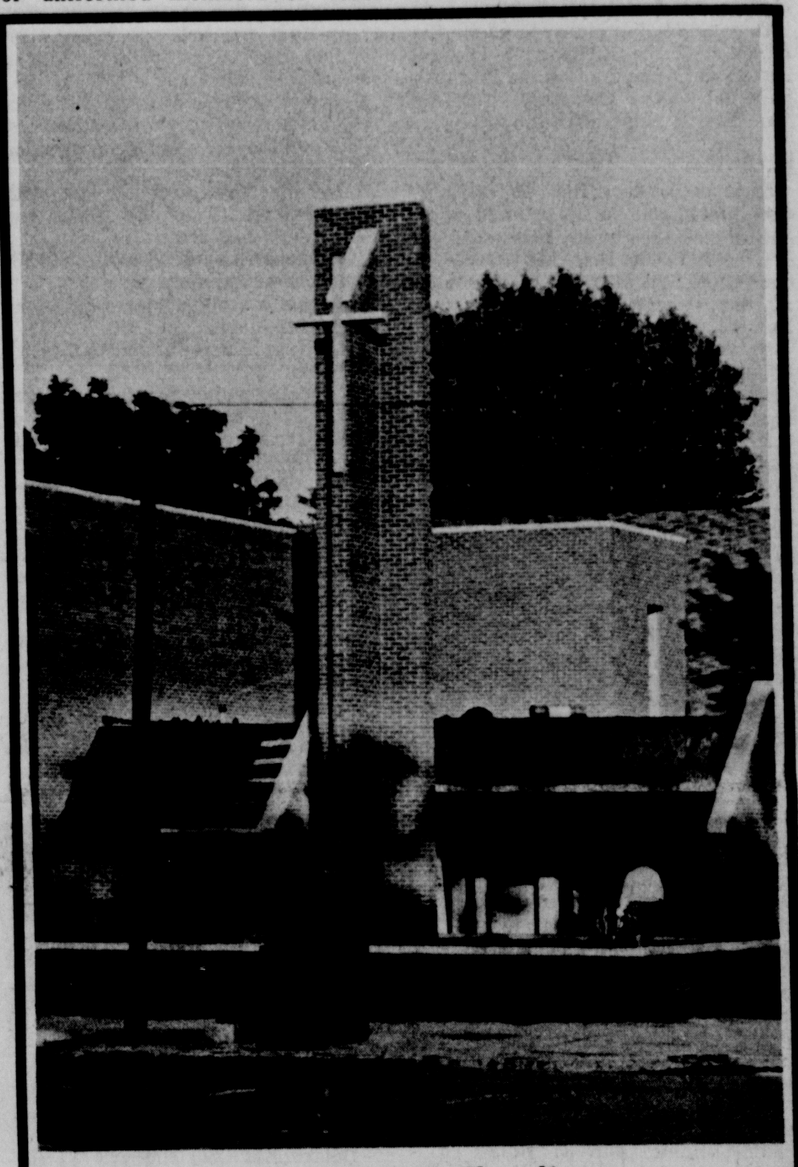

For Nixon's arrival from Austria Wednesday, the Egyptian government turned out huge crowds to cheer the two presidents as they took the seven-mile drive from Cairo's international airport to the Kubbeh Palace. Official estimates of the welcoming crowd ranged from hundreds of thousands to 2 million.

They screamed, they chanted and they waved signs reading "God Bless Nixon," though some spelled it "Nikson." A few tried unsuccessfully to break through the police lines to touch the visiting President.

Sadat tempered the enthusiasm a bit with his toast at the state dinner in the garden of the Kubbeh Palace.

He told the 600 guests the cease-fires arranged with American help between the Arabs and the Israelis are precious

$8.7 million in new building under way

New construction activity in Washington C. H. is at a record high and the dollars invested by developers continues to swell.

Figures provided by City Manager Dan Wolford disclose that over $8.7 million in construction activity is presently under way in Washington C. H.

The hefty figure includes eight commercial-industrial projects, topped by the construction of two new plants in the city's Industrial Park and the giant Kroger Co. complex on Clinton Avenue in Washington C. H.

Israeli forces kill 3 Arab terrorists

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Security forces killed three Arab guerrillas today who had murdered three women hostages taken in an attack on a tiny farm settlement below the Golan Heights, the Israeli state radio reported.

The terrorists apparently slipped across the Lebanese border to attack Shamir. The raid obviously was intended to cast a cloud over President Nixon's tour of the Middle East, which the Palestine guerrillas oppose. The President, now in Egypt, is due in Israel on Sunday after visits to Saudi Arabia and Syria.

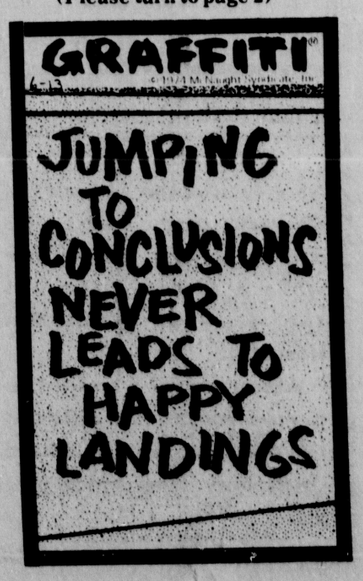

Terrorists now have killed 49 persons in Israel, including 31 children, in the past two months.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine—General Command announced in Beirut that the Shamir raiders were its men. It demanded the release of 100 Palestinians from Israeli prisons within six hours, but shortly after the demand was delivered to newsmen the guerrilla squad was reported wiped out.

Three guerrillas from the same terrorist organization raided the Israeli town of Qiryat Shmonah, several miles west of Shamir, on April 11 and killed 18 Israelis and themselves when the government refused their demand for the release of Palestinian prisoners.

Armed residents of Shamir opened fire on the raiders after they were spotted near a swimming pool, the Israeli radio said in a broadcast from the kibbutz. The Arabs returned the fire, wounding one man.

Residents of the kibbutz said the terrorists apparently were trying to attack the communal dining hall where many of the 470 residents of the settlement were having breakfast.

Wholesale prices zoom

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite falling farm and food prices, widespread increases on a broad range of industrial products pushed wholesale prices up sharply again in May, the government said today.

The Labor Department reported that wholesale prices rose a seasonally adjusted 1.3 per cent last month, about the same as the rates in March and April but not as much as in the December-February period. Unadjusted, the increase last month was 1.5 per cent.

Prices for farm products, processed foods and feeds fell 2.2 per cent in May, the third consecutive monthly decline.

Industrial commodities were up 2.7 per cent.

Consumer finished goods rose six-tenths of one per cent.

The rise in the industrial prices was described by the government as "substantial and widespread." It seems to promise for consumers a continuation of double-digit inflation for at least the next few months since higher wholesale prices usually are quickly reflected at the retail level. However, the decline in wholesale food prices frequently is not passed on to consumers in full as middlemen seek to retain profits.

Jackson pushes full employment

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson says he hopes to drum up public support to convince Congress to approve a full-employment bill that can work.

"We cannot depend on Congress," Jackson, national president of People United to Save Humanity (PUSH), told a news conference Wednesday.

Jackson said a full-employment bill would have to save the jobs of those now working, find employment for those without jobs and organize unorganized workers so that they can receive higher pay.

High court upholds rights commission

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday upheld the Ohio Civil Rights Commission in a discrimination case, but denied what the commission considered to be an important lever for its enforcement efforts.

The high court ruled that a trailer park is a place of public accommodation and the owner of a Kent park had violated a resident's civil rights by evicting her because she entertained a person of another race.

But the court disallowed $1,650 in compensatory and punitive damages that the commission had ordered the owner to pay, saying the commission did not have authority to levy the damages.

It was that authority which the commission considered significant in its efforts to enforce civil rights laws.

The Supreme Court reversed the Portage County Common Pleas Court, which had set aside the commission decision, and an appellate court, which had affirmed the lower court ruling.

Linda Beeler said she was ordered to leave the park owned by Ostep Lysyi after a white person, accompanied by a black, visited her trailer Dec. 12, 1969.

In another action, the Supreme Court found invalid the oral suspension of Lawrence County's assistant prosecutor, Charles Cooper, by Common Pleas Judge Kenneth B. Ater.

The judge suspended Cooper Jan. 11, 1974, after he allegedly disobeyed Ater's instructions by showing a murder trial jury a photograph of the murder victim.

Ater told Cooper he no longer would be allowed to practice in Ater's courtroom. The order was not journalized.

The Supreme Court held that a court of record "speaks only through its journal and not by oral pronouncement."

The high court ordered Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court to reverse the first-degree manslaughter conviction of a woman whose 18-month-old child was found dead in the basement of an abandoned building.

The trial record failed to prove that the mother, Laverne Manago, had anything to do with the infant's death, the Supreme Court said, adding that a defense motion for dismissal at the end of the trial should have been granted.

During the trial, a deputy county coroner testified that the child could have sustained the fatal injuries by falling downstairs.

Ehrlichman case

House unit charged with investigating news leaks of national security information.

Gesell had said Tuesday he would have to order a separate, delayed trial for Ehrlichman while the White House files dispute continued. The other three defendants were to be tried as scheduled Monday.

"Now it appears we are in a position where we will be able to go ahead with all the defendants," the judge said Wednesday.

The trial still could be delayed to allow defense attorneys time to review the White House-released material.

The issue of executive privilege arose in another courtroom, before U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

Sirica is to hear the trial of six men accused in covering up the original Watergate breakin.

Wednesday he suggested that two of the defendants, Ehrlichman and former chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, have a "heart-to-heart talk" with Nixon about what White House evidence they may need for their defense.

Sirica said both men are held in high regard by the President, who should be willing to allow them access to material that proves their innocence.

Sirica wound up three days of pretrial hearings in the case Wednesday and took various motions for dismissal under advisement, with no indication when he might rule on them.

The other defendants in the plumbers case are G. Gordon Liddy, Eugenio R. Martinez and Bernard Barker.

In the cover-up trial, scheduled to begin Sept. 9, the other defendants are former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, Robert C. Mardian, Kenneth W. Parkinson and Gordon Strachan, all former officials of Nixon's re-election committee. Charges in the case against Charles T. Colson are expected to be dropped because of his guilty plea June 3 in the plumbers case.

Nixon visit

and important, but they are not enough.

He warned that if there are to be no future misunderstandings, it must be realized that a just peace in the Middle East depends almost entirely on a settlement of the Palestinian question.

Signaling strongly that the United States must face up to this "crux of the whole problem," Sadat declared: "There is no other solution on the road to a durable peace."

The Egyptian leader said Nixon's visit signifies a change in the traditional American policy of virtually unqualified support for Israel. "We welcome this change, with all its political and psychological significance," he said.

But he added that "we are facing a turning point" that will determine if cease-fires can be turned into real peace —and that will be accomplished only by a redress of the wrongs done the Palestinian nation by Israeli aggression.

Nixon in response praised Sadat in ringing phrases but gave no answer to his bid for support of the Palestinians.

Fred Buzhardt hospitalized

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House counsel J. Fred Buzhardt, one of President Nixon's closest advisers in the Watergate case, was hospitalized early today with a suspected heart attack, a spokesman at Fairfax Hospital in suburban Virginia said.

Buzhardt, 50, was admitted to the hospital with chest pains at 12:23 a.m.

I want to thank all those who sent the beautiful flowers, cards, and gifts and those who visited me while a recent patient at the Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Also thanks to the nurses and nurses aides in the 400 wing for their kind care. May God bless you all.

Clear skies and light winds Wednesday night allowed temperatures to drop to record or near record lows for this date in Ohio.

In Cleveland, at 46 degrees, a record that has stood for 99 years was tied. The last time it was so cold on this date was in 1875. Toledo dropped to 45, only two degrees above the record which was also set in 1875.

High pressure over the East Coast has dominated the weather pattern for the state, and this will continue through Thursday. Despite sunny skies, temperatures are expected to remain eight to ten degrees below normal today and Friday.

There was some scattered shower activity over Lower Michigan Thursday morning, but these are not expected to reach Ohio.

A chance of showers Saturday or Sunday, clearing Monday. Highs in the low 80s Saturday and in the 70s Sunday and Monday. Lows in the 50s.

Rain, wind hammer Great Plains

By The Associated Press

Rain and high winds swept storm-weary Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska today as severe thunderstorms roamed the Great Plains.

West Texas and extreme eastern New Mexico also were hit by thunderstorms overnight, and tornadoes churned into rural Texas west of Lubbock and east of Hobbs.

Several power lines were downed northwest of Kearney, Neb., apparently by a tornado, and hail fell north of the city.

Thundershowers continued in eastern South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota, the Great Lakes region and central Rockies. Rain also persisted in southern Florida and parts of the central Gulf Coast states.

Over most of the nation, however, fair to partly cloudy skies prevailed.

non-supervisory state and local government employes.

He said law enforcement officers and firemen will be included under the minimum wage standards, effective Jan. 1, 1975. Time and a half will be paid to persons working over 60 hours per week.

IN OTHER ordinances dealing with salary hikes, Council adopted an integrated table of rates and salary ranges for city employes; approved assignments of classification and pay ranges for employes; fixed the compensation of various positions, and authorized the payment of salary and wage increases due retroactively from Jan. 1 to all employes.

The city lawmakers also unanimously approved two sets of ordinances that deal with renewal of notes and employing special counsel to prepare necessary proceedings.

A note renewal on a completed project which included the expansion and widening of Elm and Temple streets was approved so that the city will be able to pay the interest on the borrowed funds.

The same type of procedures were approved for the renewal of note in order that the city may pay its share of the costs of improving and expanding the sewage treatment plant. Wolford explained the city borrowed $100,000 last year in order to comply with Ohio Environmental Protection Agency rulings for improvements at the facility. The temporary improvement project has been completed and the legislation was required for the note renewal.

An ordinance to accept the application for the annexation of a 0.94-acre tract of land in Union Township was placed on first reading by Council members.

Larry Chrisman, of Washington C.H., owns the tract of land, which is located on the east side of N. North Street between Gibbs and Earl avenues. The Fayette County Board of Commissioners approved the annexation March 25.

The annexation action apparently involves the development of a business since two representatives of the Lawson Dairy Co. attended the meeting along with realtor Tom Mark and Washington C.H. attorney Omar A. Schwart.

Stock prices irregular

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the big-name issues advanced in an otherwise flat and lethargic stock market today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, buoyed by gains in a scattering of blue chips, was up 4.69 at 853.25. But advancing issues overall slightly trailed declines in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said most investors were holding back commitments while awaiting the weekly figures on money-market and interest-rate trends due after the close from the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Rio Grande Industries preferred, down ½ at 8¼, was the Big Board's most-active stock, the market-value index was off .10 at 84.88.

The market was unruffled by the Labor Department's report that its wholesale price index had jumped at a 15.6 per cent seasonally adjusted annual rate in May.

Brokers said most investors had expected a bulge in the price index after the lifting of government controls April 30.

The NYSE's noon composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .20 to 48.58.

Arab detente worries Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israelis will greet President Nixon next week as one of their best friends, but they are apprehensive about the effect on them of the new Arab-American rapprochement.

Henry A. Kissinger's adroit diplomacy has not only disengaged the warring Middle East armies—it has revolutionized America's standing in the Arab world.

The grass-roots fear in Israel is that the Jewish nation will have to pay for this new standing in the form of territorial and diplomatic concessions to the Arabs.

"Why else does Egypt suddenly love Nixon?" one Israeli argued. "Because it knows that only Nixon can squeeze concessions out of us."

A senior Israeli official, sounding more reserved, said the new friendship between the United States and the Arabs "might cause difficulties for us, but in the final summary it is a positive development.

"I'd rather have America giving the Arabs military aid than the Soviets," he added.

Relations between the U.S. and Israeli governments have blossomed anew since Nixon took office. But now "a new chapter has begun," the official said, "and it is not yet clear where we are going."

Differences may arise, he continued, especially over Washington's reported wish to have Israel negotiate directly with Palestinian leaders. The Israeli government refuses to deal with those it refers to as "terrorists."

"But we have a vital interest in continuing relations with the U.S. government," he added. "For us, President Nixon's visit is an outstanding event.'

Retail sales up in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Retail sales in Ohio increased by 1 per cent in April, the Center for Business and Economic Research at Ohio State University reported today.

The increase over retail sales for March maintained a string of 1 per cent jumps that began in January, the center said.

The center said sales for April 1974 were 12 per cent ahead of those for the same month a year ago—despite a 10 per cent dip in automobile sales.

All major cities in Ohio reported gains between April 1973 and April of this year except Toledo, which showed a decline of 3 per cent, the center said.

TV Viewing

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barbara Feldon divides her time among her home in the Hollywood Hills, her boat, her studies, writing and television.

Barbara, who was Agent 99 on "Get Smart" for five years, is doing hostess duties on "Dean Martin's Comedyworld," a Thursday night summer show on NBC.

She taped her appearances in such places as London, San Francisco and Great Gorge, N.J. "Comedyworld" features comedy performers from around the country and in London.

Since leaving "Get Smart" in 1970, Barbara' made numerous appearances on series, TV movies, specials and game shows. She says she doesn't miss the regularity of a series at all.

"It's the best of all possible worlds," she said. "Consistency is not something I'm fond of. I love variety."

It permits her to pursue a life style suited to her interests. Last summer she bought a 43-foot cabin cruiser, Ciopinno, and took up the study of navigation. That is in addition to her study of art and history.

She lives part of the time on the boat, anchored at Marina Del Rey, and it is there that she does her writing. With actress Joan Darling, she wrote for a Dinah Shore special and for the Public Broadcasting System.

She said she's been writing for years.

Most of her work has been in comedy — "It's my favorite" — but Barbara doesn't consider herself a comedic actress.

She said, "I began as a dramatic actress. The first thing I did was opposite George C. Scott in 'East Side, West Side.' When 'Get Smart'came along I fell into that and I'm thought of as a comedic actress.

"It's fun to do. Dramatic acting can be great but you can't spend the whole day weeping in your bandages. Comedy has a pace and a style to it. You can improvise like musicians. I love the energy and vitality of it."

Strike doesn't faze small city

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Tough-minded residents of the Sayler Park area, fresh from the battle of the April 3 tornado, which included all manner of bureaucrats and insurance adjusters, vow they won't let a little thing like a teamsters strike throw them.

"One way or another," said George Nose, "we're going to rebuild our homes for our families whether we do it like gentlemen or like animals."

Sayler Park, which, on a city map, looks like a tail on the city of Cincinnati, is populated by rugged, individualistic Germans who are used to handling their own problems.

The city's annexation of the area a half century ago gave Cincinnati control of the Ohio riverfront nearly to the Indiana line.

Until two years ago, there was only one police patrol car assigned from the downtown area to the 15-mile outreach of Sayler Park.

"We got used to handling our own problems," recalled one resident. "It took the policeman two hours to cover the beat. As a result, we watched our own neighborhood and over the years we turned over a lot of would-be burglars to the police."

On April 3 one, and possible two tornadoes, crossed the Ohio River from Boone County, Ky. and punched a swath through the pleasant, tree-lined suburb.

An estimated 200 houses disappeared, mainly in an area called "the subdivision." The area has small houses, many without basements, built since World War II. There was not a single death although there were a number of injuries.

It took a while for the Sayler Parkers, not accustomed to a lot of strangers to get used to the insurance adjusters, and federal, state and local officials, but not too long.

"We learned right away," recalled Nose, "that if you go in like Mr. Milktoast with your hat in your hand, they are going to push you all over the place.

"What you have to do is threaten to beat somebody up, or go and see somebody's boss about getting him fired. When you act like you're going to take the place apart, they sit down and start doing something. That's just the way it is. It isn't their fault, they're just used to doing things that way, they didn't create the system."

Now, the debris is pretty well cleaned away and new houses are going up on the sites of the old ones.

But, on June 1, some 15 building trades unions in the Cincinnati area struck for higher wages. These included the 300-member concrete drivers with Teamsters Union Local 100.

Half a dozen builders, backed by residents, went to the union with a petition asking that concrete deliveries be allowed to pour their foundations. The Teamsters refused.

Blind girl participates in Girls State

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — The American Legion Auxiliary is allowing a blind girl to participate in a state government exercise, but only after persuasion by Gov. Tom McCall and the speaker of the Oregon House of Representatives.

Donna Bell was elected by her fellow students at North Eugene High School as a delegate to Girls State, an annual legion-sponsored exercise in which students from around the state come to the capital and play out a week-long mock state government.

But the legion auxiliary rejected Donna because she is blind. A legion rule says delegates must be "physically fit" so as not to present a burden on the other delegates.

When McCall heard Donna had been rejected, he announced he would not address the 264 delegates as he had promised.

And House Speaker Richard Eymann said he would not allow the delegates to hold their mock legislative sessions in the Oregon House chamber as planned.

Officials of the legion auxiliary consulted with McCall, after which the governor announced that the rule barring delegates with physical handicaps would be ignored.

Aftermath of Colson plea

Charles W. Colson's plea of guilty to attempting to obstruct justice and influence the trial of Daniel Ellsberg came about through some plea bargaining. As their part of the bargain, attorneys on the staff of Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski will seek dismissal of criminal conspiracy indictments against the former aide to President Nixon.

To procure this arrangement Colson has agreed to testify "in any and all cases with respect to which he may have relevant information." This raises two interesting questions. One is: How much does Colson know about the Watergate coverup and related matters? The other is: How much of it will he spill?

There is reason to expect that when placed under oath he may spill quite a lot. This expectation is bolstered by the fact that Colson is explicitly not exempted from prosecution for false or misleading testimony; he will be liable to charges of perjury.

There also is reason to think that Colson has intimate knowledge about some of the matters at issue - the milk fund and ITT cases, for example. He may be asked to testify about presidential conversations in which he was involved, and reportedly can no longer claim executive privilege or national security with regard to those conversations. Thus his guilty plea has in effect opened the door to what may be significant new disclosures.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Plugging the loopholes

WASHINGTON — Throughout the country come reports that inflation, the steadily rising curve of high prices, is far more than Watergate the issue that voters put at the top of the list. This is confirmed by a Harris poll showing that by 82 to 15 per cent the sample polled gives President Nixon negative marks "on the way he has handled the economy."

Wherever you go the story is the same - we can just barely make it and then by cutting back on what we once thought were necessities. This reflects the feeling of millions of families in the income brackets up to $15,000.

The concern, the rancor, of these millions is directed not alone at the Administration but at Congress as well. Since Congress rates below the President in the polls, here is a serious challenge to demonstrate that change can be pushed through the clogged, sluggish channels of a body that drifts toward stalemate in many areas.

One of the principal pushers is Rep. Henry Reuss of Wisconsin who was chosen to deliver a radio response to Nixon's bland "all will soon be well" address on the economy.

Reuss is working to get endorsement by the Democratic steering committee and eventually by the Democratic caucus of a program calculated to send shivers down the spines of the conservatives and the rich.

He must convince that formidable gate keeper, Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means committee, and if Wilbur believes there is sufficient pressure from an aroused public, then cautious Speaker Carl Albert may also be persuaded.

The Reuss proposal calls for a federal income tax cut of $6 to $7 billion in the low to moderate income brackets. This would help those barely scraping along to make ends meet. The President has, of course, set his face against a tax cut as inflationary.

But Reuss, whose economic know-how has been repeatedly demonstrated on the joint Economic Committee and on Banking and Currency, ties in plugging tax loopholes to return to the Treasury virtually the full amount of the cut. This is where the shivers come in.

His proposal would provide for a capital gains tax on securities held in an estate. There is no such tax today, since no matter how much the securities have advanced in value, they escape when they are in the estate of the deceased taxpayer.

Reuss estimates that closing this loophole, long zealously guarded by lawyers and trust officers, would bring in $2 billion.

The oil-depletion allowance has for years been the target of reformers who have aimed particularly at the foreign earnings of the oil giants. Mills finally agreed to a three-year phase-out of this bonanza.

Reuss is urging that it be knocked out, or at least drastically reduced, at once. Depending on how deep the cut, this could bring in several billions.

Another loophole Reuss would plug is DISC, the acronym for a subsidy for exports costing about $1 billion a year. Ironically enough, DISC subsidizes exports of materials in scarce supply in this country such as scrap metal and timber. The Department of Commerce is trying to conserve these same materials for domestic use.

The hobby farm is one of the most sensitive loopholes. The rolling acres dotted with Black Angus or Herefords, the well-built barns, the handsome manor house, all this is a happy picture and if the beef cattle return no profit there is always a satisfactory tax loss. Reuss believes lugging this hole would mean close to $1 billion to the Treasury.

These all are carefully guarded sanctum sanctorums and the lobbyists will be swarming over Capitol Hill to ward off the vandals. The next days are likely to tell the tale in the steeering committee.

Whatever its ultimate fate, and with the backing of Wilbur Mills it might well get through the House, the reform program would convince millions of hard-pressed families that Congress is doing something about inflation.

Food and fuel are the two chief villains. The rise in the price of gasoline to 60 and 65 cents a gallon is contrasted with the great upsurge in the profits of the oil companies, as 15 per cent of the Harris poll sample noted.

The election is only five months away and disgruntled citizens are waiting for a signal that Washington will try to put on the brakes.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly imaginative, ingenious and versatile individual. Both intuition and memory are remarkable in the Geminian, and you have what amounts to a "sixth sense" when it comes to anticipating the future. There is nothing "supernatural" about this. It is but a result of your constant search for knowledge, keen obersvance of situations and an uncanny ability to sense undercurrents which helps you to analyze them correctly. When you take action, therefore, it is with know-how and precision. You work best when working alone but, being extremely adaptable, can produce equally well where mass cooperation is required. Fields in which you could excel: writing, music, journalism, the theater, the law and politics.

Park plan given boost by grant

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati businessman Charles Sawyer's gift of $1 million has been matched by the federal government to develop the city's planned park along the Ohio River.

The $1 million federal grant was okayed Tuesday by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

The 14.65-acre park adjacent to Riverfront Stadium will include walkways, fishing and docking piers and an amphitheater.

A multi-million-dollar hotel-apartment complex is to be built beside the park.

Sawyer, who was U.S. Secretary of Commerce during the Truman Administration, said last year he wanted to "do something substantial, that would be permanent and clearly to the benefit of the city.

"Our river is one of our city's great assets," Sawyer said. He predicted the park development "will in all likelihood stimulate added improvements in the area."

Tax changes are now law in state

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio stops collecting a tax on goods sold at auction today, except for motor vehicles and house trailers.

The exemption becomes law along with four other enactments signed by Gov. John J. Gilligan 90 days ago, the time required for a non-emergency bill to become law.

Sen. Gene Slagle, D-26 Galion, an auctioneer, sponsored the tax measure which has only a negligible effect on Ohio's revenue but could help a colorful but declining business activity.

Robert J. Kosydar, state tax commissioner, estimated the new law will cost the state only about $50,000 a year out of well over $500 million the sales tax produces annually.

Slagle's bill places into the law a new definition for casual sales that include items sold at auction as long as the sale is not made at the owner's permanent place of business.

Another one of the new laws affects many more people, although Ohioans will not feel its effects until next year when they file their 1974 state income tax returns.

It takes away the existing $3,000 limit on personal income tax exemption that can be claimed at the rate of $500 each for a taxpayer and each of five dependents.

The limit on the number of dependents for whom $500 can be claimed is eliminated, removing what sponsors of the bill said was an injustice for large families.

Voters authorized a change in the constitution last year in order to make the tax break possible.

Among the other new statutes is one that requires counties to publicize newly adopted building regulations as well as changes made in existing regulations.

It says the modifications must be published in one newspaper of general or countywide circulation within 10 days after adoption of new regulations, amendments or changes.

The other laws clarify the obligations of new corporations growing out of mergers, stating that trusts, bequests and other agreements of component companies remain valid, and permit waivers of the four-year limit for reimbursements by the tax commissioners of sales taxes collected erroneously.

Vendors would have to agree to such waivers.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Husband wants wife to pose in the nude

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am approaching 40 and so is my wife. We've been married for 22 years. Like most couples our age, our sex life isn't what it used to be. My wife can take it or leave it. I'm no sex maniac, but I'm not exactly dead yet.

Last Christmas the wife gave me a Polaroid camera, and just for the heck of it, she let me take some pictures of her in the bedroom, unclothed. That's when I discovered those pictures really turned me on.

Now, all of a sudden the wife tells me she is no striptease model, and she doesn't want to pose for any more pornographic pictures. I say it's not pornography as long as we're married because I'm the only one who sees those pictures.

We are both born-again Christians. I'd like your opinion. Am I kooky or not?

SHUTTERBUG

DEAR SHUTTER: Not kooky, just a little far out. Whatever you do behind closed doors that is mutually agreeable is all right! I'm sold. Now all you have to do is sell the wife.

DEAR ABBY: I am so upset, I don't know what to do anymore. I've called the police, military base, Chamber of Commerce, the base chaplain and three lawyers. As I write this, I am crying and have a knot in my throat.

I've been married to a serviceman for 15 years and now he is involved with a red-headed woman who works where he works. (He got her the job.) He picks her up and drives her home, and I see him only when he comes here to change his clothes.

He has told me he doesn't love me anymore and as soon as he can afford it he will officially divorce me. He's even tried to push men at me. I am so hurt I could die!

I would do away with myself, if I didn't have five kids who need me. When I complain about the way he treats me, he beats me up. I know you'll think I'm crazy, but I still love him and want to know how I can get him back.

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: Your chances for getting him back are small, and from your letter, I think you're better off without him. But if you considered doing away with yourself, you need help in handling your problems. It's available through your County Mental Health Association, and Family Service Association. Give them a call.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "AM I AN ALCOHOLIC?: That's a tough one to answer because there is no absolute definition of an alcoholic. But here's a partial list drawn up by The National Council of Alcoholism:

— Do you drink heavily after a disappointment or a quarrel?

— Did you ever wake up the morning after to discover you couldn't remember part of the evening before even though you didn't pass out?

— Do you try to have a few extra drinks when others will not know?

— Have you often failed to keep a promise to yourself about cutting down on your drinking?

If the answer is "yes" to any of the above questions, you have a problem. And the best solution for that kind of problem begins with one telephone call to Alcoholics Anonymous. They're in your telephone book. It's your move.

CONFIDENTIAL TO H. IN OMAHA: I don't recommend marrying a man for his money. You may have to divorce him to get it.

MR. & MRS. DONALD PITTMAN

Leesburg Wesleyan Church setting for June 1 wedding

The Leesburg Wesleyan Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Cindy Lea Burnam and Donald Pittman on June 1. Fern and ivy graced the altar with atanding baskets of white gladioli and pompoms with large white bows. Two seven-branch candelabra flanked each side of the altar with bows and fern. Brass candelabra lined the certer aisle for the candlelight cermeony.

The Rev. A.T.Adams performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Burnam of Highland and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tracey E. Pittman of Brunswick, Ga.

Miss Patty Hodge, organist, presented a half-hour of wedding selections, and Mrs. Dorothy Hart, vocalist, sang "I Love You Truly," "Becaues" and other wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long white formal gown of bridal satin with scoop neckline, empire jeweled waist, and bodice and with overlay of Chantilly lace. The long lace sleeves were tapered over the wrists. The princess styled skirt fell to a full circle. Her chapel length train of Chantilly lace was caught at the waist by a satin bow. A Juliet cap with lace overlay and jewel trim, held her illusion veil which fell to chapel length. The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations and pink sweetheart roses with baby's breath and greenery. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls belonging to her maternal grandmother, and a pair of earrings, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Howard Schiller, matron of honor and aunt of the bride, wore a pink flocked voil over taffeta gown with V-neckline and large ruffled collar. She wore a matching floppy hat and carried a singel rose surrounded by blue carnations, baby's breath with matching streamers.

The eight bridesmaids wore gowns identical to that of the matron of Honor, except four were in pink with matching flowers, and four wore blue gowns with matching flowers. The bridesmaids were Miss Bonnie Burns, Miss Elaine Bishop, Miss Kay Buran, Miss Connie Puckett, Mrs. Sheri Burnam, Miss Rhonda Pittman, Miss Debbie Schiller and Miss Jeanetta Huff. The gowns had low necklines with ruffled collars edged with white orange blossoms, and each wore a floppy hat. Each carried a nose gay of pink and blue carnations. They wore sterling necklaces of hearts and rhinestones, all gifts of the bride.

Kathy and Jackie Burnam and Angela Huff counsins of the bride, were the flower girls. They wore white gowns with angel sleeves, and headpieces of jeweled lace. Each carried a wicker basket filled with petals tied with pink and blue bows. Shayne Dara Burnam, nephew of the bride, was the ringbearer.

Harold Burnam served as best man for his niece. Jan and Jay Brownlee, Jeffrey Schiller, Gregg Hughs, Micahel Burnam, David Burnam and Jummy Brunam, brothers of the bride, and Gary Edwards, seated the wedding guests. Jeffrey Schiller and Jimmy Burnam lighted the candles.

The bride's mother chose an apricot formal length gown with V-neckline; long full sleeves and a beaded midriff with accordian pleated skirt. The groom's mother wore a formal length gown of peach with long sleeves, jeweled neckline. Both wore corsages of white roses. Both mothers lighted the altar candles preceding the marriage ceremony, and the young couple lighted the candle in front following the marriage.

Hostesses for the reception held at the Leesburg Federal Community room were Mrs. James Watkins and Mrs. Alice Gray. Serving at the punch bowls were Mrs.Gary Edward and Mrs. Thursa Huff, and at the silver coffee service were Mrs. Russell Ross, anunt of the bride, and Miss Pam Toon. They wore pink and blue dresses and dainty lace aprons, gifts of the bride. Miss Jana Huff and Miss Lucy Burnam presided at the guest book.

For her going away ensemble, the new Mrs. Pittman was wearing a blue and white two piece knit dress with the pink rosebud corsage from her bridal bouquet. Following a wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains, the couple is residing near Brunswick, Ga.

The bride's parents were hosts at the rehearsal dinner the evening preceding the wedding.

Out-of-town guests came from Kitts Hill, Waverly, Chillicothe, Paulding, Sandusky, Michigan and Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beers, Miami Trace Rd., attended graduation ceremonies held by the Rutherford B. Hayes High School on the campus of Ohio Wesleyan University, of which their granddaughter, Sandra Lynn Cunningham, was a member. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carol Cunningham, and was in the upper 10 of the class scholastically, in a class of 240 students.

How to stretch a pound of pork

SWEET AND SOUR PORK AND PEARS — A pound of ground meat is stretched to serve six.

BY CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

SWEET AND SOUR PORK AND PEARS

29 - ounce can Bartlett pear halves
1 pound ground pork
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground ginger
5 tablespoons soy sauce
4 tablespoons cornstarch
2 beef bouillon cubes
¼ cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons light brown sugar
2 tablespoons cold water
½ to 1 cup thinly sliced celery
½ to 1 cup thin strips green pepper
½ cup thinly sliced scallions, green tops included

Drain pear halves, reserving syrup. Cut each pear half in two lengthwise. Reserve.

Thoroughly mix together the pork, unbeaten egg, salt, ginger, 2 tablespoons of the soy sauce and 2 tablespoons of the cornstarch. Shape into 18 balls. Heat a 10-inch skillet and add the pork balls; slowly brown and cook through — about ½ hour. Remove from skillet and pour off fat. To skillet add the reserved pear syrup and bouillon cubes; heat, stirring, to dissolve cubes. Stir in vinegar, brown sugar and remaining 3 tablespoons soy sauce.

Stir together the remaining 2 tablespoons cornstarch and the cold water until smooth. Bring mixture in skillet to a gentle boil; add the cornstarch mixture and, stirring constantly, cook until thickened and boiling. Stir in celery, green pepper and scallions; add pears and pork balls and heat through. Serve with rice.

GRAPE RELISH

Adapted from an East Indian recipe.

1½ cups sugar
½ cup distilled white vinegar
¼ teaspoon cardamom seeds
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 pounds seedless green grapes

In a 3-quart saucepan over low heat stir together the sugar, vinegar, cardamom, ginger and nutmeg until sugar dissolves; bring to a boil and boil without stirring for 5 minutes; remove from heat. Wash grapes and dry on toweling; stem — there should be 5 cups; cut each grape in half. Add grapes to syrup and slowly bring to a boil; cook until grapes change color and soften slightly. Store, covered, in refrigerator. Makes 1½ pints.

RUN ON RECIPES

It really was a pleasure demonstrating some of my favorite "Lightning Meals" for 21 homemakers on May 30. They must have liked the recipes Beulah Hill, our Washington C.H. Area Home Economics Agent and I prepared, for all 50 of the recipe sheets disappeared. If you couldn't make the meeting, but would like a recipe sheet, call our office, we just made some more.

HOW TO PRESERVE A HUSBAND

This recipe was passed on to my by a friend. It's one I thought worth sharing. "Be careful in your selection. Do not choose too young. When selected give your entire thoughts to preparation for domestic use. Some wives insist upon keeping them in a pickle, others are constantly getting them into hot water. This may make them sour, hard, and sometimes bitter; even poor varieties may be made sweet, tender and good by garnishing them with patience, well sweetened with love and seasoned with kisses. Wrap them in a mantle of charity. Keep warm with a steady fire of domestic devotion and serve with peaches and cream. Thus prepared, they will keep for years."

FRESH STRAWBERRY JAM

A real favorite for the men is the new recipe for fresh strawberry jam. It's excellent as an ice cream topping too.

Fresh Strawberry Jam

1 quart fresh strawberries
1 box powdered pectin
¾ cup water
4 cups sugar

Completely crush the berries, one layer at a time. Measure sugar, ¾ cup water, and powdered pectin into sauce pan and bring to boil for one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat and add the strawberries and stir gently for 3 minutes. Pour into clean glasses or freezing containers. Cover and let stand at room temperature about 24 hours or until jelled.

Store either in refrigerator or freezer. If jam is to be kept for longer than three weeks, freeze and store in the freezer.

TLC (TENDER LOVING CARE) FOR STRAWBERRIES

Proper care actually begins when selecting the berries. Make strawberries your last purchase so that they will not be squashed. Sort berries, removing any that are soft or show indication of decay, before storing them. After you sort them, spread them on a flat dish or pan, cover with wax paper, and refrigerate.

Do not wash berries until just before you use them, and use them within two or three days. Prepare fresh strawberries just before you plan to serve them. Wash them gently and quickly in cold water. Lift the berries from the water, letting the sand and dirt stay in the water. Then remove caps after the berries are clean and dry.

HOW MANY TO BUY

1 quart - 3 cups capped berries
1 quart - approximately 5 servings
1 crate (16 quarts) - 20 to 24 pints frozen strawberries

For more details on freezing strawberries and other fruits call the Extension Office at 335-1150.

You'll want to sign up now for our Canning Clinic from 1 to 3:30 p.m. on June 25 at the Extension Office Auditorium.

Woman becomes helper at 100

PARK FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Never able to have children of her own, Ida Lewis at the age of 100 is a foster grandmother of two retarded children at the Elizabeth Ludeman Center.

She says it is the happiest time of her life.

"All I ever had was somebody else's children so two years ago I volunteered in a foster grandmother program and now I've got two that I feel very close to," said Mrs. Lewis, twice a widow.

When her health permits, Mrs. Lewis commutes five miles from her home at Robbins, a suburb south of Chicago, to the Ludeman Center here, where she is in charge of the two children under the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity's Foster Grandparent program.

Women and Class unite for meeting

The combined meeting of the Willing Wokers Class and the Staunton United Methodist Women took place in the home of Mrs. Wanita Wikle Wednesday. The Methodist Women's meeting was called to order by Mrs. Alice Bush and devotions were presented by Mrs. Jed Stuckey. She read "Flag Day" and "Father's Day." Other appropriate readings were "Dad," "I Love My Dad," "Ten Little Christians," and "Prayer for Fathers," given by Mrs. Addie Barger.

The history of the American flag and the Christian flag was given by Mrs. Florence Bethards; "The Pictured Father" by Mrs. Wilbur Hidy; "The Man we Call Dad," by Mrs. Walter Parrett, and "The Flag," by Mrs. Donald Pemberton.

Reports were made by Mrs. Pemberton and Mrs. J. O. Wilson, and cheer cards were signed for Mrs. Harry Hyslip Jr., Mrs. Bessie Kemmey, Mrs. Emma Haines, Miss Blanche Roberts, Mrs. Dorothy Brannon and Miss Ethel Hidy.

Plans were made for the sales table to be featured during Old-Fashioned Bargain Days, of which Mrs. Barger is chairman. The Methodist Women will not meet in July.

Mrs. Hidy opened the Class meeting of the Wiling Workers by reading the poem, "Old Friends." Reports were made by Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Elza Smith. New officers elected were Mrs. Smith, president; Mrs. Walter Parrett, vice president and news reporter; Mrs. Wilson, secretary; and Mrs. Barger, treasurer.

There will be no meeting in July, but a picnic is planned for 6 p.m. August 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hidy.

Those present were Mrs. Pemberton, Mrs. Maude Shubert, Mrs. Jed Stuckey, Mrs. Wikle, Mrs. Parrett, Mrs. Barger, Mrs. Homer Wilson, Mrs. J. O. Wilson, Mrs. Alice Bush, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Florence Bethards.

AIRPORT NEWS

By SANDY WOODMANSEE

Hi from the Fayette County Airport. This is my first try writing a newspaper article so please bear with me. As most of you may know, my husband John, and I have taken over operations here the first of June. Believe me, its been an exciting and busy first few days. To catch up on some previous activity, last Saturday, we had two gliders land and were interested to learn they were members of the Soaring Society of Dayton and were taking part in the Wright Memorial Glider Meet. The pilots told us there were more than thirty entries from as far away as New York, Tennessee and Pennsylvania. This was a two-day event and that day's contest involved distance. They had been in the air for approximately five hours. The pilots were Tom Stoops and Tom Hansen both from the Waynesville area. It was quite a thrill to see thse gliders flying and also landing. Their wives drove in a short time later hauling the trailers which they loaded the planes into to drive back to home base.

The day before, a Beechcraft Stagger Wing from Pennsylvania, vintage 1941, stopped in for oil on his way to Hamilton, Ohio.

ON MAY 31st, two gentlemen flew in from Elyria, Ohio in a Cherokee 150 Warrior under IFR conditions (instrument flight rules). Columbus Flight Service vectored them in on radar right to the airport.

A twin engine landed from North Carolina and discharged passengers for a meeting at Mac Tool here in Washington C.H.

Now a little news on our local pilots - Jim Adair made his first solo flight on May 26th. His wife, Peggy was here rooting him along. Congratulations, Jim! Mike Putnam completed his first dual cross country and Tom Pfaff also completed his. Tom is our line boy out here and we really appreciate all the help he's given us. Maurice Hopkins (also known as "Hoppy") is one of the early birds completing his bi-annual flight review. Eddie Pendergraft has also completed his bi-annual.

Bob and Helen Woodmansee flew to Alabama Memorial Day weekend. They took Bob's mother and dad, Mabel and Everette Woodmansee of Sabina along with them. Bob was working on his long cross country flight which is part of the training required to obtain his Commercial rating.

Randy Smith soloed on June 3, 1974. Good for you, Randy! Walt Gooldin took his mother-in-law, Mrs. Emegene Swain of Gallopolis, Ohio for her very first plane ride. Walt said she really loved it. Bill and Judy Dennis have been real busy with their agriculture spraying business.

The column heading which you see above was designed by Robert E. Forrest of 385 Rose Avenue, Sabina. Bob donated the "smiling airplane" to the Pilot's Association and everyone is very appreciative of the work he's done. It is fast becoming our motto out here and I don't think we could have a nicer one. Many, many thinks Bob for contributing your talent to us.

In closing, John and I would like to say "thanks" especially to Judy and Bill who've been a tremendous help to us in getting started. We also appreciate all of you who've contributed to our first few days. Thanks again to everyone and hope to see you next Thursday.

'Age of Golda' lives on in Israel

By MARCUS ELIASON
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM (AP) — It may not go down in Israeli history as the golden era, but Golda Meir's five-year premiership already is being termed "Eidan Golda" — the Golda Age.

No living Israeli is likely to forget her.

Some called her "Grannie"— she is a grandmother, and others less charitably referred to her as "the old lady"—she is 76. A politician likened her to a kindergarten teacher who treated her people as though they were brats. She once taught school in Milwaukee, Wis.

Admirers found an enticing parallel in the Bible — Deborah the Prophetess, who "arose, a mother in Israel," and led the Israelites to victory over the invaders of the Promised Land.

Mrs. Meir came to power in the heady wake of Israel's lightning defeat of the Arabs in 1967, but left in controversy over the costly and sobering war last October.

Writing of the public protest that led to her resignation, a columnist commented, "Golda Meir deserved better than to go down ignominously to the shouting under her office windows."

One of her outstanding talents was to cut complex questions to total simplicity.

While international debates continued for years over trying to start Israeli-Arab peace talks by procuring a Western or a United Nations guarantee to protect Israel's borders, Mrs. Meir responded by asking simply, "But why is that necessary if true peace exists?"

She wanted straightforward peace treaties or nothing and her rigidity may have delayed the peace prospects now in sight via the compromise methods of U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

She was called out of retirement in March 1969, as a compromise premier to replace the late Levi Eshkol. She was ailing and nervous about leading the country, but she was too strong-minded to be a lame duck leader.

She began by choking off the arguments in Israel over how much to surrender in return for peace with the Arabs.

"The Arabs don't want peace," she would say. "So there is no point in the Jews arguing about it."

She refused to deal with Palestinians. To her, "there is no such thing as Palestine. I once had a Palestinian passport when Britain ruled this area. If there is a Palestine, where are its leaders? Why don't they step forward and negotiate with us?"

The answer was a bitter upsurge of guerrilla activity, culminating in the slaughter of Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympic games in 1972.

Israel's reprisals, approved by Mrs. Meir, were relentless.

Her thesis on war and peace was simple:

"When we came to the Jordan Valley — in the 1930s — did we want war with the Arabs? Were we sinning a great sin because we didn't want the valley any longer to be covered in marshes and malaria? We bought and paid for the land.... We said to the Arabs, 'Move over a bit, give us some room as well. Can't we live together in peace.'"

The strength of her personal convictions resulted in government policies that may last for years.

When the United Nations and others demanded that Israel relinquish Arab East Jerusalem, captured in 1967, she made it plain that the Holy City was now a permanent part of Israel.

The memory of the Jews as an oppressed people — the pogroms in the Russia of her childhood, the Nazis in World War II — governed her thinking.

She had forged a healthy relationship with President Nixon, assuring Israel of arms supplies, and she would later call this one of her greatest achievements.

Reliance on the United States has become a mainstay of Israeli policy. Israel's new premier, Yitzhak Rabin, said the relations Mrs. Meir developed with Washington were a key part of his government program.

In the Golda years, Israel enjoyed the greatest prosperity in its short history. With foreign investment and immigrants pouring in after the triumph of the 1967 six-day war, business boomed, exports leaped, and Israelis who remembered eating grass during the 1948 siege of Jerusalem started eating steaks. The boom was due to circumstances, not Mrs. Meir, but it came while she was in office.

With the prosperity came leisure and comfort, however, and many Israelis became more interested in television and acquiring pedigreed dogs than in the Zionist ideals of building the state. Mrs. Meir and her generation bemoaned the new thirst for materialism.

Even with inflation and the economic slump that followed last October's war, the appetite for the good life grew.

While Mrs. Meir was engrossed with foreign affairs, the country was faltering domestically. Few Israeli leaders — certainly not Mrs. Meir — were noticing the social ills likely to result from the young nation's industrial boom. No one accused Mrs. Meir of malpractice, but she was widely criticized for having left domestic affairs slide.

"She had unconditional faith in her finance minister, and she was hypnotized by the quantitative growth of the economy, so she ignored completely its side-effects," says Yitzhak BenAharon, a former labor union chief who dubbed her "Queen Victoria."

It took the October fighting to bring to a boil the discontent that had been building even as she triumphed in foreign affairs. And for the first time, the grievances were thrown directly at her.

But although she was blamed for Israel's war failures, she rose to what many consider her greatest in "those dark hours when we thought we might lose." An inquiry into the war concluded that she worked "with decisiveness and healthy sense of responsibility."

Today she admits "I will never be the same again" after the war.

Perhaps this is the reason why the time for retirement had come to the lady with a preference for blue dresses and cigarettes.

She put it as simply as ever, "I am exhausted. I can no longer carry the burden. I have reached the end of the road."

Golda's road goes on, however, and the country is likely to follow it for some time to come. In a 19-page speech to parliament on the plans of his new government, Rabin outlined hardly a new move that had not been charted by Mrs. Meir.

Mrs. Meir's public presence is regarded in some quarters as one that provided years of calm and confidence that permitted Israel to build itself beyond the dreams of the early settler. Admirers say her steely determination helped the country survive when the calm ended.

Traveling nurse substitutes for doctor in rural area

By MIKE SILVERMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In Kansas' Elk County, a 650-square-mile stretch of wheat and cattleland, there have been no doctors for 15 years. Just "Murphy" the traveling nurse.

"Murphy," as Ruth Murphy, R.N., is known affectionately to Elk County's 3,700 residents, figures she has made about 4,500 house calls a year since she set up a series of free clinics in 1957 with a $10,000 grant from the county.

Mrs. Murphy, 54, is being honored by the American Nurses' Association convention here today with the first Honorary Nurse Practitioner award. The award is to be given every other year to a registered nurse who has done an outstanding job in providing direct patient care.

"When I started in 1957, we had three doctors in the county," Mrs. Murphy recalled Tuesday. "But then two of them died and one moved away.

"I'd go to make a prearranged house call and find 12 patients there waiting to see me," she said. "That's when I knew something had to be done."

Elk County, 90 miles east of Wichita in southeastern Kansas, lack doctors. It also has no hospital, no X-ray unit, no public transportation. Nearly one-third of its residents are over 65. The nearest hospital is 50 miles away, in Independence.

She set up her main clinic in the courthouse building in Howard, where she lived with her husband and four children. She devotes one day a week to house calls, although she makes emergency calls at any time of day or night. She also began bringing a portable version of the clinic to the county's other towns.

A few years ago, federal funds enabled Mrs. Murphy to increase her budget to $24,000 and hire another nurse, Barbara Kitchens. She would like to hire at least one more nurse and still dreams of attracting a doctor back to Elk County.

"The last time one came by who was interested a couple of years ago, I told him we could refer him 500 patients the first day," Mrs. Murphy said. "We never saw him again."

Marietta honored

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — "The historical importance of Marietta to the growth of what became the State of Ohio is tremendous," Gov. John Gilligan said Wednesday in designating Marietta a national Bicentennial City.

Gilligan presented officials with a Bicentennial Flag and a plaque during ceremonies singling out Marietta for recognition as the nation approaches the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

"The New England settlers who founded this community foresaw that it would play a vital role as a river port and shipbuilding center for the whole Northwest Territory," the governor said.

"The pioneer spirit which established Marietta as the first settlement in the Northwest Territory lives today in the growth and vitality of this part of Ohio," he added.

Appeal dismissal of electrical suit

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — The Butler County Citizens Committee Wednesday appealed the dismissal of their suit to block the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. from running steel towers and transmission wires from Cincinnati to Seven Mile.

Butler Common Pleas Court Judge Fred B. Cramer dismissed the suit saying the 247 property owners still could protest when the utility seeks to acquire land through eminent domain.

The property owners claim the lines would harm the esthetics of the area. The appeal was made to the First Ohio District Court of Appeals.

Career perhaps hereditary for new police dispatcher

By MARK THELLMANN

In a law enforcement career hereditary?

Maybe so, for Rick A. Williams, 18, the newest addition to the Washington C.H. Police Department. Two of his relatives have followed the law enforcement path previous to his becoming a police dispatcher.

Williams admitted having his interest spurred by relatives who are Ohio Highway patrolmen.

"I have always been interested in working with people and serving society. Joining the Washington C.H. Police Department is enabling me to do this. It presents a challenge and I don't think I'll ever be bored," he explained.

He graduated from Hillsboro High School in 1973 and worked in a grocery store for a year while studing criminology at the Ohio University branch campus in Chillicothe.

He has been a farm boy all his life and still retains an active membership in the Future Farmer's of America organization. Williams also enjoys the sport of basketball and played during his high school years.

WHEN ASKED how he landed the dispatcher job, Rick said, "A couple friends in the Washington C.H. Police Department told me about the opening and I jumped at the chance. I'm really glad I got it!"

He lives with his mother, Mrs. Naomi Williams, in Hillsboro, but will move to Washington C.H. in the near future.

Also employed as a police dispatcher recently was Joe A. Downs.

He is a 1973 Washington Senior High School graduate who went on to study criminology and police scence at Sinclair Community College in Dayton and the Ohio University branch campus in Chillicothe.

While in high school, Downs played basketball and worked as a dispatcher for the Fayette Conty Sheriff's Department through the distributive education program at Washington Seniro High Schoo.

The 20-year-old Downs resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Down at 811 S. Main St.

When asked why he selected a law enforcement career, he replied, "I've known a lot of good people throughout my life and I felt it was time to meet some bad ones to maintain a balance. Seriously though, I enjoy working with people and my job offers a lot of exposure to people from every walk of life. This is very interesting."

Walk across Ohio planned by teachers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four teachers from New Hampshire's Timberlane School District will walk across Ohio June 15-24 as part of a crosscountry hike to dramatize the longest teachers' strike in the nation's history.

The Ohio Education Association said the striking teachers will enter Ohio at Conneaut and plan to walk to Chicago for the June 28-July 3 meeting of the National Education Association.

Teachers in Timberlane, a regional district serving Atkinson, N. H., and other communities, walked off the job Feb. 26 in a dispute with the board of education.

GOP leadership gives Perk shove

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Dissatisfaction among national Republican leaders with Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk's race for the U.S. Senate against John Glenn could lead to the campaign's losing its "key district" label, the Plain Dealer said Wednesday.

The newspaper quoted a source on the national Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee that Perk could lose the committee's financial and technical backing if the campaign does not gain some "forward movement."

"We're not going to support losers. The campaign is going to have to demonstrate it's flying," the source said.

The Perk-Glenn contest has been one of the national committee's eight key races. Last year, the committee gave eight candidates up to $75,000 each.

The Plain Dealer said Perk was warned last week by Buehl J. Berentsen, executive director of the campaign committee, that his campaign could stand improvement.

Buehl declined comment and Perk denied it.

"I think it's going great," Perk said of the campaign.

However, Perk's campaign manager Robert T. Bennett admitted the campaign was a month to six weeks behind schedule. He blamed money problems.

"We feel it will take another six weeks to get it rolling, and we will," Bennett said.

Bennett said the GOP already has supplied two thirds of the $30,000 the Perk campaign has received toward a budget of $750,000. Bennett said no real fund-raising effort has been mounted, yet.

Ohio GOP Chairman Kent B. McGough said Perk's campaign was as well organized as any in the state except that of Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Perk's staff claims 11 fulltime workers and an office in Columbus. Offices are scheduled to open this summer in Cincinnati, Akron, Canton, Dayton and Youngstown.

State land farming boost eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Mental Health Director Kenneth Gaver is expected to present to Gov. John Gilligan a plan for expanding farming operations on state lands, a spokesman in the governor's office says.

The proposal appears to reverse the position taken by the administration last year in backing sales of state farm lands, including those at the Mansfield Reformatory.

But the spokesman said the plans were being prepared at Gaver's initiative and the governor apparently had not been consulted yet.

Possible plans for "an intensified farming operation in future years" were revealed in two letters dealing with proposed production at the Osborn Farm in Erie County.

One, written by Gaver to Sen. Paul Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, said the Department of Mental Health and Retardation was reviewing the status of both its own lands and those of the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction.

Pretty plants taken by thief

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Joanna Williams, 78, didn't know the identity of the pretty green plants she so carefully tended. But police say they bet the person who stole them did.

"I was just waiting for them to bloom to find out what they were when someone stole all of my plants," Mrs. Williams said Wednesday after learning she had been a marijuana farmer.

Mrs. Williams said the plants were left behind by a young tenant who moved.

Baby boy injured in tenement fall

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — An 11-month-old baby boy remained in serious condition today after plunging four stories from a tenement bedroom to the concrete sidewalk Wednesday.

Police said Glenus Lee Isaac's bed was only six inches below an open window. They speculated that the tot climbed up to the window sill and fell.

Brenda Sawyer, 12, the babysitter, had fallen asleep in a nearby bed, police said.

Discrimination said more sophisticated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Blatant discriminatory practices of a few years ago now are sophisticatedly camouflaged by persons who seek to evade equal opportunity standards, a federal housing official said Wednesday.

Thomas O. Jenkins, acting deputy assistant secretary for equal opportunity in the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said new stumbling blocks are cropping up in each of the 10 regions nationwide.

In Ohio, he said equal housing is more of a problem in sales than rental opportunities.

"We've discovered some local ordinances that do away with for-sale signs," he said. "We have to be aware of that kind of thing so we can change our approach."

Jenkins held a news conference at the start of a six-state seminar which will conclude Saturday.

He said HUD agencies do not want to be policing units. "But where we do not get the kind of voluntary action we seek . . . we will enforce the laws." He said equal housing opportunity is not interpreted at HUD to dictate integrated housing.

"We want the minority person to have the choice in housing options . . . to have the right to live where he wants to live," he said.

Jenkins refuted the idea that requirements for equal job opportunities for minorities amount to quotas in hiring.

"If there is a federal contract or a business is working with HUD, they have to agree to do the same thing we're trying to do," he said.

He said governments and business, professional and civil rights groups from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin have participated in the fair housing and equal opportunity sessions.

Traffic Court

Two persons were fined in Municipal Court Wednesday afternoon they pleaded guilty to traffic charges, and six other persons forfeited bond.

Eustace Adkins, 56, of 231 Bell Ave., was fined $100, sentenced to three days in jail and was given a 30-day suspension of his operator's license after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Acting Judge John P. Case, who presided, ordered that an additional 27 days of the jail sentence be suspended. Adkins had been arrested by city police.

Edward Weeks, 21, Cleveland, was fined $60 for driving without an operator's license. He had been arrested by Sheriff's deputies.

Six other persons arrested by city police forfeited bond.

Ricky L. Smith, 18, of 206 Buckeye Rd., $25, improper passing.

Wendell J. Cubbage, 24, Rt. 4, Washington C.H., $25, improper passing.

Leonard J. Robinson, 26, of 521 Gibbs Ave., $25, speeding.

Judy L. Cathel, 27, of 918 Maple St., $18, red light.

Patricia F. Parks, 32, of 1103 Sycamore St., $25, speeding.

Deith E. Earley, 18, Genivieve Rd., $25, speeding.

Rhodes, Perk seek GM plant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — General Motors Corp. has been approached by former Gov. James A. Rhodes and Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk about the possibility of locating a major new facility near Ohio's largest city.

Rhodes said in a statement issued Wednesday he and Perk had conferred with GM's president, Edward M. Cole, in Detroit Tuesday.

Rhodes said Cole at that time expressed an interest "in locating a new GM manufacturing operation in the Cadillac Tank plant that is now under the control of the General Services Administration."

The purchasing power of U.S. families nearly doubled in 25 years (taking inflation into account).

More highway funds slated

WASHINGTON—Congressman William H. Harsha today announced that Ohio will receive an additional $21 million from the U.S. Department of Transportation to be applied to existing highway construction projects throughout the state during fiscal year 1974.

Harsha further stated that these funds are derived from unspent allocations to the 50 states that have been returned at the end of the current fiscal period. Ohio will have discretionary spending authority over the monies.

Constitutional changes voted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislative action was completed early today on two proposed constitutional changes which are scheduled to appear on the November ballot.

One would expand the state's revenue bond financing program to include capital improvements for gas and electric utility services.

The other would do away with the one-year limitation on the term of the superintendent of public works. He then would serve at the pleasure of the governor, the same as other cabinet members.

Five auto mishaps checked

A Vine Street man was charged with reckless operation by Washington C.H. police officers and the Fayette County Sheriff's Department investigated four accidents.

Richard A. Jobst, 24, of 625 Vine St., was charged with reckless operation by city police at 8:38 p.m. Tuesday.

Jobst told police he couldn't control his car when it pulled to the right as he headed west on Cherry Street, near the Sycaromore Street intersection.

His car went off the road and collided with the southwest corner of a building at 410 Cherry St., owned by James A. McCoy, 630 W. Oakland Ave.

The building was severely damaged and the car moderately damaged, police said.

The concrete mixer on a truck driven by George E. Montgomery, 26, Greenfield, raised up and knocked down power lines owned by the Dayton Power and Light Co., 101 E. East St., and cable owned by the Court Cable Co., 218 East St., at 9:10 p.m. Wednesday.

The mishap occurred on Ohio 41, one-tenth mile north of the U.S. 35 bypass, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported.

Moderate damage was reported to a car driven by Dan D. Ervin, 17, Jeffersonville, when it went out of control and off the right side of Harold Road, 200 feet west of Bookwalter. Wet pavement was blamed for the incident which occurred at 1:45 p.m. Ervin was uninjured, sheriff's deputies reported.

An accident occurred at 1:35 p.m. Wednesday, between cars driven by Thomas R. Edwards, 18, of 1067 Springdale Dr. and Thomas P. Long, 70, Grove City.

Sheriff's deputies reported moderate damage to both vehicles, but no injuries.

A garden tractor came loose and fell off the truck transporting it, driven by John Lyle Crummy, 45, of 159 Holly Dr., at 3:10 p.m. Friday, sheriff's deputies reported today.

The mishap occurred on Prairie Road in Union Township and the tractor, owned by Ralph Stritenberger, Rt. 4, incurred heavy damage when it fell off and struck a fence owned by Robert Hays, Rt. 4.

Energy problems under discussion

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The most important challenge in finding a satisfactory energy future will be facing the tradeoffs necessary between energy, environment, economy and life styles, the assistant U.S. secretary of commerce for science and technology said Wednesday.

"We must be informed, make the wisest choices we can, and then have the strength of purpose, whether in times of apparent plenty or times of want, to hold to our course," said Betsy Ancker-Johnson.

Mrs. Ancker-Johnson reviewed the nation's energy problems in an address to the Cleveland Engineering Society.

Deaths of Ohioans probed in Mexico

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio attorney says the U. S. consul general in Mexico is helping him probe the deaths of two Ohioans in a Mexican rejuvenation clinic.

Thomas Spellerberg of Tiffin, Seneca County prosecutor, said Consul General Peter J. Peterson is working to find a Mexican forensic pathologist to perform autopsies on the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pepin of New Riegel, Ohio.

Pepin, 68, died May 25. His wife, Gladys, 70, died June 2, the day after she was told of her husband's death, according to Charles Jenkins, 68, another member of the party.

Jenkins' 67-year-old wife was listed in fair condition at Tiffin Mercy Hospital, recovering from temporary blindness which Jenkins said struck her at the clinic.

"It was a nightmare trip," Jenkins said in a telephone interview from his home in New Riegel.

Jenkins, who said he's a freelance writer in health foods and organic gardening, initiated the trip, he said. He and his wife were going to Mexico to do an article on the clinic.

The Pepins, family friends, decided to accompany them as a vacation, Jenkins said. The four left for Mexico about May 15.

"I was resting on the advice of another doctor I know in Mexico," Jenkins said. "He had given me assurance they were a very worthwhile organization."

Jenkins said the clinic offered him and his wife free treatments as a base for the article. He said the Pepins decided to buy the treatment, though it was "relatively expensive."

He said in the first stage of treatment, an anaesthetic is administered and a chemical mask put on the face. Pepin was the last of the four to be prepared, Jenkins said, and was isolated from the rest.

For the next week, he said, when he or the others tried to ask about Pepin, they were told only the doctors "were having a hard time getting him to come out from under the effects of the anesthesia.

"The following Saturday (June 1), they broke the news to us," Jenkins said. Pepin had died a week earlier.

Jenkins said Mrs. Pepin was "extremely upset, naturally, but she was resolute and firm in her conviction that she was going to stay with us. She wasn't going to take a sedative or anything."

But Mrs. Pepin's condition deteriorated that night, Jenkins said, and she died early the next morning.

Penn Central Railroad faces repair demand

LOVELAND, Ohio (AP) — City Manager Ray Niemi was ordered by the city to demand the Penn Central Railroad repair not only crossings in the city but ties, tracks and track beds.

Councilman Charles Hollarn called the tracks the "biggest potential cause of tragedy in Loveland."

Council said it was considering blocking all trains through the city until repairs are made.

New help for stutterers developed by psychologist

CHICAGO (AP) — A University of Chicago psychologist has developed a method of training stutterers to speak fluently almost immediately.

Dr. Israel Goldiamond's program does not attack the underlying cause of stuttering, which may not be known, but produces a new, fluent speech pattern.

All 54 patients who have completed the program since 1967 are able to speak fluently without stuttering. Others dropped out before completion when they developed fluency.

An estimated 1 to 3 per cent of American males have a stuttering problem, outnumbering female stutterers eight to one.

In developing the therapeutic program, Goldiamond experimented with dozens of stutterers for five years. Some required as many as 200 sessions. Now, in 30 or fewer 45-minute sessions, stuttering can be eliminated.

He said patient records show their stuttering disappears almost immediately once they begin the program. Continuation speeds up their speech and reinforces what they have learned, and followups show improvement is maintained over the years, Goldiamond said.

The program, which costs a patient $600, works this way:

The subject sits in a booth and reads as rapidly as possible words projected onto a screen. His voice is recorded and he hears himself simultaneously as he reads, with a delay of a fraction of a second.

To overcome this echo chamber effect, stutterers try exaggerating lip movements, lowering their voices, prolonging sounds or by just not listening.

Goldiamond emphasizes the slower, prolonged speech, since this is the least unnatural change from normal speech. He said he found that even after the delayed feedback of speech was eliminated patients continued to speak this way.

The stutterer then moves to other phases more nearly like everyday situations: Reading plays and conversation with a therapist.

The stutterer also is taught how to juncture his speech—to speak in phases common to the language, pausing at appropriate places.

Goldiamond says, "We have decided that we are not really getting rid of stuttering. We are teaching a new speech pattern."

Cincinnati to appeal housing decision

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati City Council voted Wednesday to appeal a court decision which declared its new housing inspection law unconstitutional.

The law, scheduled to take effect June 28, would require all homeowners to pay for a housing inspection by the city before placing it on the market.

Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge Robert Black said the law was unenforceable, vague and unconstitutional.

New construction booming here

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

Three years ago the Washington C.H. area appeared to be heading toward a downhill economic course when the National Cash Register Co., here closed and left about 500 workers idle.

However, an upswing in the economy surfaced following spirited actions by the city's Community Improvement Corporation, the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, city and county officials and a number of residents.

The progress has been almost phenominal!

NOW at least two industries have selected Washington C.H.'s Industrial Park as the site for new plants, and other building activity here, both commercial and residential, is booming.

Figures released recently by City Manager Dan Wolford disclose that more than $8.7 million in new construction is presently under way in Washington C.H. alone. And the trend promises to continue.

By sharp contrast, commercial and residential developers had less than $700,000 invested in building and remodeling projects during 1973.

The astronomical $8.7 million figure would mushroom if the new construction outside the city's corporation limits was included.

Wolford said the $8.7 million figure includes eight commercial-industrial construction projects and 12 residential building programs.

The bulk of the gigantic construction digit is included in the eight commercial-industrial projects, estimated at $7,940,000. The residential projects are worth $276,000, according to Wolford's figures.

A further breakdown discloses $234,000 in seven multi-family dwellings; $34,800 for room additions and other home improvements; $17,340 for residential garages; $205,000 for new church buildings, and $3,000 for miscellaneous construction, including swimming pools and patios.

Topping the hefty construction list are the two new industries in the city's Industrial Park.

Cor Tec, Inc., Auburn, Wash., is erecting a 60,000-square foot factory building and a 2,400-square foot, two-story office building in the Industrial Park.

The firm, which manufactures fiberglass reinforced panels for use in the construction of trailer vans and marine shipping containers, anticipates and initial employment of 50 persons, with prospects of expanding the work force to 90 later.

The Great Oaks Construction Co., of Washington C.H., will erect the plant and office building. An Armco Steel Corp. building will be used for manufacturing and the office building will be of masonry construction. Both are being constructed on a 29-acre tract of land purchased from Chase Brass, Inc. The location is on Kenskill Avenue, just east of the Mead Containers plant.

RAVEN INDUSTRIES, Inc., headquartered in Sioux Falls, S.D., will be constructing a plastics division plant in the Industrial Park. The company holds a purchase option on 6.072 acres, adjoining property owned by B & H Enterprises.

The plastics firm experts to launch construction of a 17,000-square foot structure soon and will employ 14 persons initially. The firm produces fiberglass and polyethylene tanks for agricultural, industrial and water conditioning us.

However, the two industries are not the only new tenants of the city's Industrial Park.

B & H Enterprises is erecting a 42,750-square foot pre-engineered steel building on a 6.074-acre tract in the Industrial Park.

Modern Sales and Construction Co., a Wilmington-based firm and local distributer of Armco Steel Corp. buildings, is handling the general construction.

No definite tenant has been announced and the building is being constructed in such a manner that provisions can be suited to specific needs of prospective occupants.

Heading the commercial construction in Washington C.H. is the Kroger Co. market and Super-X drug store complex on Clinton Avenue.

The actual building permit, estimated at $6 million, was issued in February to the Breyfogle Construction Co., of Columbus. The permit calls for 46,578-square foot of construction space.

Construction of the large shopping complex included the razing of more than a dozen residence and commercial buildings.

The real estate transaction paving the way for the new super store included an exchange of locations between the Kroger Co., now operating at 238 S. Main St., and Don's Auto Sales, 518 Clinton Ave., which occupies a part of the new Kroger site.

ON THE OPPOSITE EDGE of Washington C.H., a flurry of building activity is progressing.

Developers Diversified, a shopping center development firm headquartered in the Cleveland suburb of Beechwood, is constructing a commercial shipping development which will include a K-Mart department store, operated by the S. S. Kresge Co.

The construction of the K-Mart store is the first in a series of developments on the north side of Columbus Avenue. Estimated cost is $550,000.

The 14.546-acre tract is located just east of a parking lot owned by Carroll Halliday, Inc., and directly across Columbus Avenue from the entrance to the Storybrook Addition. The K-Mark store will be housed in a 39,737-square foot pre-engineered steel structure, manufactured by the Armco Steel Corp. plant here.

Health Care Facilities, Inc., is progressing rapidly in the construction of a new 100-bed, long-term comprehensive health care facility on a three-acre tract acquired from the Courthouse Development Corp. in the Storybrook Addition on Glenn Avenue.

The facility, which will be known as the Courthouse Manor Nursing Home, will have 96 semi-private beds and four private rooms. The facility will have a staff of 60 employes.

McDONALD'S a nationally-known food chain, is constructing a 39,066-cubic foot building on Elm Street at Olive Street across from the Fayette County Bank on land acquired from the Fayette Center partners.

The cost estimate for the building which will be erected by the Miller Construction Co., of Columbus, is expected to be well up in six figures. More than 50 parking spaces will be provided.

Additionally on the eastern edge of the city, preliminary plans have been submitted for the construction of an office-type commercial complex, similar to the Fayette Center structure, on a 5.794-acre tract situated 428 feet east of Elm Street between the Washington Square Shooping Center and land owned by the Washington C.H. Board of Education.

An application to have the land rezoned from residential to commercial has been filed by Donald P. Woods, 133 W. Circle Ave.

Closer to the downtown business district, building activity is also spurting.

The First National Bank of Washington C.H., has nearly completed the expansion of its present property at the intersection of S. North and East streets with a full-service office and increased drive-in facilities.

The estimated $125,000 addition is being connected to the present drive-in structure and will be known as the bank's East Office. The new facility will provide 24-hour banking service.

The new facility will face North Street with drive-in facilities located in the rear. The Boa Construction Co., of Columbus, is the general contractor. The lot will be landscaped.

A NEW 3,000-square foot office building at 402 E. Court Street is being constructed by the Great Oaks Construction Co. for the Federal Land Bank, of Washington C.H. The Federal Land Bank's present location is at 420 E. Court Street.

The one-floor structure will be a 55-by-165 foot Williamsburg style building and a 55-by-100 foot area will be provided for employe customer parking. A brick house on the lot, formerly owned by Bud Brownell, was razed to permit construction.

A new and larger sanctuary is presently in its final construction stages at the First Baptist Church, at the corner of S. North and East streets.

The old sanctuary portion of the church was razed to permit the construction of the new one, which will have confortable accommodations for over 300 persons.

A courtyard will be situated at the corner of East and North streets with a ground level entrance from it facing North Street.

Another church entering into the building flurry is the First Church of God, 610 Harrison St.

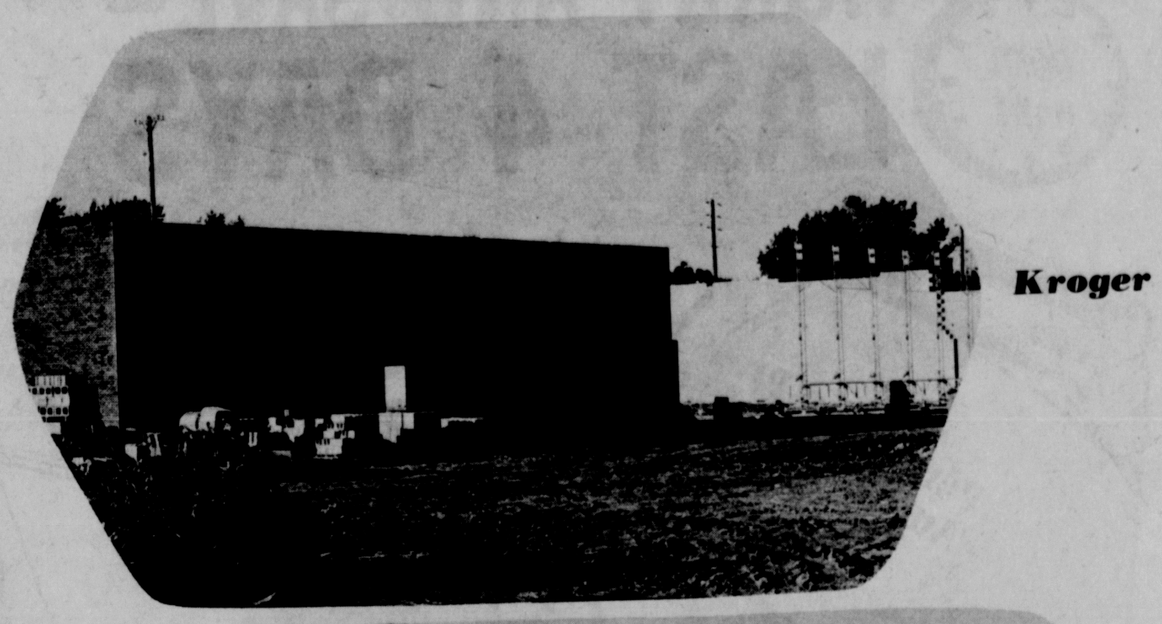

The church is erecting a new sanctuary building, at an estimated cost of $70,000, just southeast of the present Fellowship Hall. The sanctuary will have a seating capacity for nearly 250 persons. The present sanctuary, built over 50 years ago, is scheduled for demolition after the new one is completed.

OUTSIDE WASHINGTON C.H., the new construction is topped by the 184-room Days Inn Motel, I-71-U.S. 35.

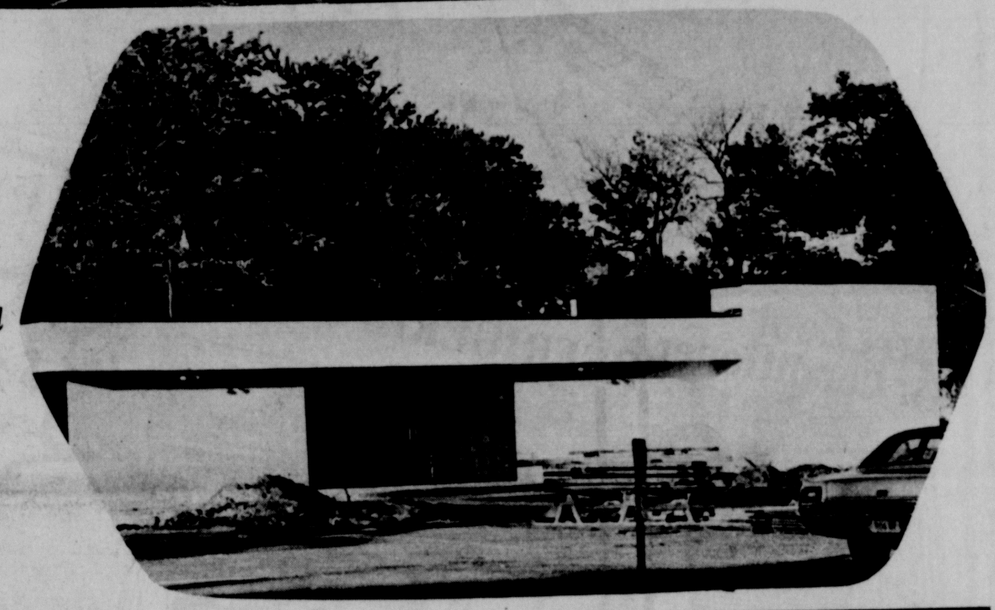

The Imperial Construction Co., Atlanta, Ga., is the general contractor for the budget motel which will have a total of three buildings when all phases of the construction are complete. Two of the buildings will have 62 rooms each and the other 60 rooms. The third building will house a Tasty World Restaurant with a 114-person seating capacity. The cost for the motel is about $1,600,000 and will include a swimming pool and budget gasoline station.

Stock sales by banks harmful

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Trouble is something you seldom get just a little of. When it arrives in your life you may expect more to follow until troubles are holding a convention in your life. Ask a stock broker.

The comptroller of the currency, James E. Smith, has just ruled that banks can continue to offer securities to their customers, in direct competition with brokers, who already feel they are at the bottom of a heap.

It would take too long to list these difficulties, but they include a loss of customer confidence and business, high interest rates that draw money from the market, and a general inability to remain consistently profitable.

The latest action, therefore, seems like just another problem piled upon the others, but it may be far more than it: It pits two entire industries against each other, and there is no question which is stronger. Banking is.

Banks have the assets, the flexibility, the marketing power, the personnel, the accounting techniques, the outlets. Far more important, they already have the customers. Almost everyone uses a bank.

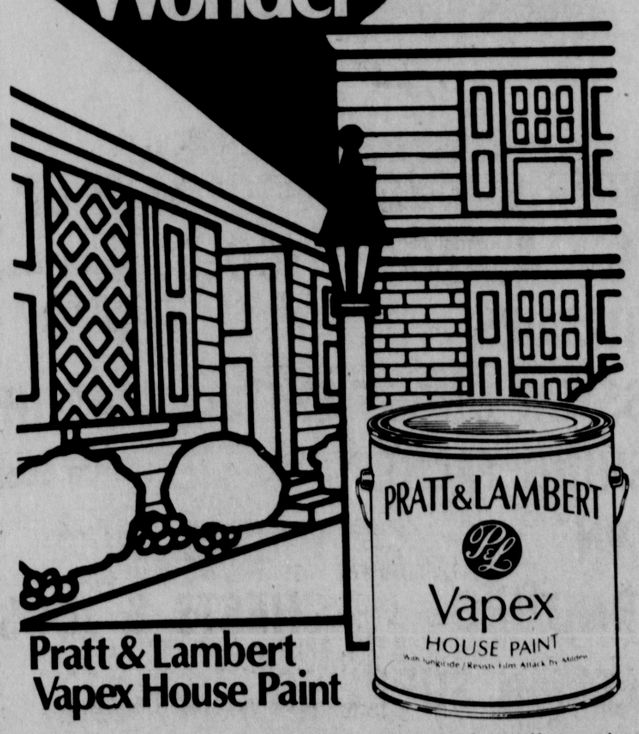

How simple it is therefore, for a bank that already provides a dozen customer services to simply offer another one, as some already have. How simple to transfer $50 from the checking account to the stock account.

The brokers, on the other hand, don't have nearly the marketbasket of products or the financial power of the banks, although this perhaps is not a critical criterion. Banks are restricted geographically, brokers are not.

Nevertheless, a comparison of Merrill Lynch, the biggest broker, with Bank of America, the biggest bank, is revealing. The formr reported assets of $3.7 billion on March 30, 1973. At the close of 1973, Bank of America had $49.4 billion in resources.

If the comptrollers' ruling stands, the operations of mutual funds are likely to be hurt the most. Already their assets are down to less than $45 billion after reaching close to $60 billion.

Four city zoners resign from posts

Four members of the five-man Washington C. H. Zoning Board of Appeals resigned and three new members were appointed to fill their vacancies during the regular meeting of Washington C. H. City Council Wednesday night.

Resigning from the zoning board were Denzil L. Leggett, 1722 Green Valley Road, Elmer N. Reed, 619 Fairway Drive, Carl R. Elberfeld, 426 Rawlings St., and Lee B. Lynch Jr., 1276 Dayton Ave.

Leggett, Reed and Elberfeld cited personal reasons in their letters of resignation to Council, while Lynch resigned since he is being transferred to Texas where he has been assigned to a position with a new Armco Steel Corp. plant. Resolutions expressing Council's appreciation to the resigning members were approved.

The fifth member of the zoning board, Horace L. Jacobs, 123 Clearview Road, was reappointed to a three-year term. Jacobs' new term was effective Jan. 1.

Appointed to the board were Lawrence J. Lehman, 828 Willard St., John F. Morris, 793 McLean St., and Harold R. Ross, 908 Dayton Ave.

Ross was appointed to fill Lynch's unexpired term on the board.

The appointments of Lehman, Morris and Ross leave one vacancy to be filled by City Council.

Leggett and Reed had served lengthy terms on the board while Elberfeld was completing his second term.

Council members also reviewed a number of other miscellaneous matters during the meeting.

ALLEY PETITION

A petition, bearing signatures of 15 businessmen and property owners in the downtown area, was presented to Council requesting that two alleys in the downtown business district be formally named. The petition, requesting that the alley running Fayette Street to North Street and another running from Court Street to East Street be named, was presented by Tom Murray, 235½ E. Court St. Council said it would study the request.

NO PARKING SIGNS

City Manager Dan Wolford reported that no parking and 25 mile per hour signs will be posted in the near future on Millikan Avenue at the girls softball diamond in an attempt to clear recent traffic problems in the Eyman Park area.

MUNY COURT REQUESTS

Council reviewed two formal requests submitted by Municipal Court officials. One request dealt with the purchase of a window-type air conditioning unit for the office area in the court. Council will repair a unit in the courtroom. The request was approved. Council tabled a request by Municipal Court officials to purchase a insulated steel safe, priced at $565.95. The safe, according to Judge Reed M. Winegardner, will be used to secure evidence and cash.

MAINTENANCE COMPLAINTS

Wolford said Glenn Tatman, city inspector, is presently checking incidents where weeds have grown tall at residences in the city. Tatman is serving weekly notices to the property owners to remedy the situations.

SEWER ODOR PROBLEM

It was reported that city sewer treatment plant personnel are attempting to mask foul odors from the facility. Wolford explained that the plant uses bacteria in its treatment process and the operation requires large amounts of oxygen. He said when the bacteria die, because of a lack of oxygen, the odor results. He also reported to Council members that the plant handled over 170 million gallons of flow during the first three months of the year which is equivalent to a population of 31,500.

LESS FIRES HERE

Washington C. H. Fire Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen told Council members that there were less fires here in the first half of this year than last. He cited enforcement of the no burning ordinance and the wet season as the primary reasons. Denen also reported on a disaster preparedness meeting held recently at the fire department. Over 100 persons attended.

STOP SIGN REQUEST

Councilman Hugh S. (Bud) Patton said that Oak Street residents have requested a stop sign at the intersection of Oak and Harrison streets. Council approved the request and decided to prepare legislation dealing with a recommended four-way stop for the intersection.

GAS PRICE POSTING

Council member Joseph O'Brien queried Gary Smith, city solicitor, about the prospect of drafting an ordinance to deal with posting gasoline prices on pumps at service stations in Washington C. H. Smith said he is presently waiting to receive a copy of a similar ordinance from Columbus so that he can pattern the city's after it. The city of Columbus recently enacted legislation on posting gas prices.

TRUCK REROUTING

A request was presented by Councilman Ralph Cook to reroute truck traffic on U.S. 22-E over the U.S. 35 bypass to prevent the trucks from traveling through the city. Cook also requested that the city check into the possibility of erecting signs to assist motorists to I-71.

PARKING METER REQUEST

Council chairman John E. Rhoads said Benny Backenstoe, owner of Backenstoe's Market, 631 E. Temple St., has asked that a 15-minute parking meter be installed in front of his business.

Methodists support amnesty

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP) — A supporter of blanket amnesty for draft evaders says he is satisfied with the stand of the West Ohio Conference of the United Methodist Church favoring conditional pardon.

"We moved in one year from no amnesty to conditional amnesty," observed Dr. Paul Vandegriff of Toledo.

The proposal adopted by the conference Wednesday calls on President Nixon and Congress to create a selective review board for impartial hearings.

The board would be empowered to recommend amnesty, immunity, conditional amnesty or prosecution.

The Rev. Harold Vermillion of Madisonville, who said he served as a chaplain in Vietnam, offered the proposal after the Church-and-Society Section of the conference had voted to endorse unconditional amnesty.

Highlight of today's conference activities was to be the ordination tonight of more than 90 persons into the ministry by Bishop F. Gerald Ensley.

Bishop Ensley will announce changes in ministerial assignments Friday.

Wednesday night the conference was told by Bishop James Armstrong, who heads the denomination's Dakotas Area, that Christians are under a mandate to change the structure that allows the rich to get richer and the poor poorer.

But he said nothing will happen until local churches take action.

"It's time to quit selling the poor for a gun, a tank, a nuclear warhead," Bishop Armstrong declared.

Demo committee nearly doubled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 46 elected members of the Ohio Democratic Executive Committee expanded their ranks Wednesday night by naming 45 at-large members.

The committee renamed 27 old members and 18 new ones.

Gone from the committee is former Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King, still a Democratic National committeeman, and one of his chief backers in his unsuccessful fight to retain his labor job, James N. Iafelice of Cleveland.

State Democratic Chairman William William A. Lavelle said many of the spots were filled because of the positions held. He said labor officials, who got nine spots, were among them.

New AFL-CIO President Milan Marsh did not seek a spot on the committee but he designated six persons who were selected.

Lavelle passed out to the committee a list of names he screened. All were elected, despite some grumbling there weren't enough women represented.

"The county chairmen of the 12 metropolitan counties are automatically members," Lavelle said. "If there were women among them their names would have been there."

Lavelle said the 45 spots had to be taken from a list of 200 names that had been submitted. "There was just no way I could make everybody happy," he said.

The committee elected 12 vice chairmen, a largely honorary post. John Weithe of Cincinnati was elected first vice chairman and the others followed in numerical order.

State Rep. C. J. McLin of Dayton was elected secretary; Harry Heyman treasurer, and Barbara Hagy, assistant treasurer.

Gov. John J. Gilligan and several other state officials did not seek a spot on the committee but did recommend somebody for election.

Gilligan selected Eugene "Pete" O'Grady, former state chairman who now heads Gilligan's re-election campaign. U.S. Senate nominee John Glenn designated his campaign manager, William White.

U.S. Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum selected his law partner, Harold Stern of Cleveland.

The party names the extra members in order for the committee to represent as broad a spectrum of Democrats as possible, Lavelle said.

The original 46 members were elected in the 23 congressional districts in the May 7 primary, a man and woman from each district.

Telephone cable project finished

LEESBURG — Completion of a major cable addition for growth in the Leesburg exchange was announced today by the General Telephone Co. of Ohio.

Thomas R. O'Neil, Wilmington customer service manager, said the $22,100 project was designed to upgrade present services and for future growth in the area.

Initial construction on the project was started last November. Where possible the new cable was buried. Portions of the new cable will replace existing facilities for maintenance reasons.

"Cable and equipment additions of this size are made according to needs indicated by our studies and forecasts," O'Neil said. "This enables the company to have facilities available for customers when needed."

The Leesburg exchange serves 1,035 telephones in a 56.4 square mile area of Clinton, Highland and Fayette counties.

Transit tax authority wins approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Financially troubled big city transit systems apparently will get the chance to ask local voters one time to impose a piggyback sales tax on themselves.

The legislature approved and sent to Gov. John J. Gilligan Wednesday an emergency bill aimed specifically at problems of the beleaguered Cleveland Transit System.

Cleveland legislators worked long and hard to secure passage, but they pointed out it could be of help to transit systems in other areas of the state.

It permits a county or regional transit system, with voter approval, to levy a piggyback sales tax of up to 1½ per cent for use either for operating expenses or capital improvements. The issue could be submitted to voters only in the November election.

Backers who said Cleveland's system lost $13 million over the past five years asserted it would give mass transit "a new tool." Revenues from the tax could be used to obtain matching grants of 80 per cent federal with 20 per cent local funds, they said.

The House watered down the Senate version of the measure, introduced in March by Sen. Paul R. Matia, R-25 Westlake. But it apparently was the only way to get the measure passed.

Big labor unions, especially the Ohio AFL-CIO, objected to an original provision that would have enabled a transit authority to enact an income tax of up to 1 per cent, in addition to the piggyback sales tax.

Retained in the measure was another provision that permits transit authorities to levy up to five mills on real estate. Existing property tax levies for transit purposes are limited to 1 per cent.

Reds bop Montreal, 3-1

MONTREAL (AP) — Shortstop Dave Concepcion admits his eyes are on the major league All Star game and he hopes to be the first Venezuelan since Luis Aparicio to be selected to play.

His game-winning single to center field in the fifth inning gave the Cincinnati Reds a 3-1 victory and salvaged one of three games in the series with the Montreal Expos Wednesday night.

"I don't even know what kind of a pitch I hit," said Concepcion, who was unable to play last year after being selected to represent the National League in the All Star game. He broke his leg.

"It means a lot to me. I want to be there," he said. "You get more respect, other people get to know you.

"And the people at home in Venezuela, they get excited. After Luis Aparicio, nobody from Venezuela made the All Star team."

The hit boosted Concepcion's batting average to .279.

"Aparicio, he was my hero. When I was a little kid I see him play. I go see him play maybe three times and he was just 27 then, still good."

Aparicio was released this spring at age 40.

Clay Kirby, 5-3, scattered seven hits in eight innings before asking relief help in the ninth inning. He said he injured his back.

Manager George "Sparky" Anderson said he had told all his pitchers before the game that the starters were going to stay in unless they were hurt. The bullpen is overworked, Anderson said.

Montreal's only run came in the fourth inning on Bob Bailey's double, a wild pitch by Kirby and Jim Cox' single.

The Reds put four hits together in the fifth inning, a single by Dan Driessen, a double by Terry Crowley and two more singles by Cesar Geronimo and Concepcion making the score 2-1.

Johnny Bench doubled in the sixth, moved to third on Tony Perez' single and scored on a sacrifice fly by Driessen.

The Reds play an exhibition game tonight at Detroit with the Tigers then return home Friday for three games with Philadelphia.

Little League sex barrier falls

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Women have broken another sex barrier—Little League baseball.

If a gal can play shortstop better than she knits or cooks, there is a place for her in Little League's 9,100 leagues.

It all happened Wednesday when Little League Baseball, Inc., announced that because of "the changing social climate" girls can play on its teams.

The announcement was made by the organization's board and the trustee of the Little League Foundation, headquartered here.

The new policy is effective immediately.

The board said it has petitioned the U.S. House Judiciary Committee to introduce appropriate legislation to amend Littl League's federal charter under which it has operated since 1964.

The decision should end the numerous actions in American courts seeking to break Little League's sex barrier.

In a statement issued by Peter J. McGovern, board chairman and chief executive, the Little League said: "In reaching a decision on an issue of landmark significance, the board has taken the position that it would be imprudent for an organization as large and universally respected as ... Little League Baseball to allow itself to become embroiled in a public controversy. Implication that the program is unwilling to change or incompetent to solve its own problems is simply not true...."

Whether girls play would depend on managers and coaches of individual teams, the statement said. "The girls would have to prove equal competency in baseball skills, physical endowments and other attributes scaled as a basis for team selection."

McGovern said acceptance and screening of young girls should be done locally, and "in good faith and without prejudice."

He urged settlement of local squabbles by civil rights or human relations hearings.

Such groups as the National Organization for Women (NOW) and the American Civil Liberties Union have challenged the Little League in courts of nearly a dozen states.

The Little League began in 1939 in Williamsport with three teams and has grown to 9,100 leagues for 2.5 million youngsters in 31 nations. It is a private corporation operating under a federal charter. It has steadfastly opposed the sexual integration of its baseball program.

A New Jersey appeals court ruled in March that state Little League teams must let girls play. About a week later, the executive board of Little League, Inc., voted to appeal the ruling to the New Jersey Supreme Court.

Little League officials have attacked the female challenge on two fronts—legality and the safety and psychological needs of children.

Based on a decision in November 1973 of its Civil Rights Division, New Jersey became the first state to order Little League baseball teams to permit girls to play.

Later, Martha W. Griffins, D-Mich., said she planned to introduce legislation to amend the Little League charter to include the words "and girls."

McGovern said the 35-yearold Little League also would retain its separate and optional program for girls of Little League age. The Little League now has a program for 50,000 girls in the United States.

Herron key to Ashland title hopes

ROB HERRON

As Ashland College battles for honors in the NCAA College-Division Golf Nationals in Tampa, Florida this week, one of the main ingrediants to the Eagles' title chances is Rob Herron, a 1972 Washington Senior High School graduate.

Playing as the third or fourth man on the squad, Herron has been setting a torrid pace on the links with a 78.9 stroke average per 18 holes this season. He has helped Ashland to a 5-0 record and victories in three tournaments.

Ashland has several veterans in the lineup from teams which have placed 12th and 8th in the national tournaments during the past two seasons. The Eagles were third halfway through the national tournamment last year before hitting a slump over the last two days.

Ashland golf coach Bill Jones, said Herron is a big key to his team's performance and he must continue his consistency in the nationals. "His game should be perfect for the South Florida University golf course since the fairways are narrow and long," Jones stated.

Herron enjoyed an outstanding golf career with the Blue Lions. He won South Central Ohio League medalist honors in 1971 and 1972, while placing high in several other tournaments. He led his team to 10th place in the state finals in 1971. His record in matches was 93-20-1.

Rob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herron, who reside at 617 Oakland Ave.

World Cup play begins

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Soccer's World Cup, labeled by some the greatest show in professional sport, kicked off Thursday amid massive security and a lot of questions.

Reigning champion Brazil faced Yugoslavia in the opening match, a potential classic pitting Latin skills against European method. The 61,500-seat Wald Stadium in the woods outside Frankfurt long has been sold out.

West German police, fearful of terrorist attacks of the kind that brought tragedy to the Munich Olympics in 1972, assigned 10,000 men to security and crowd control for the 38-match tournament. Of these 10,000, some 1,200 will be watching the two final matches in Munich July 6 and 7, when U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is expected as guest of honor at the spectacle watched throughout the world by satellite telecast.

The questions over the tournament, apart from security, cover matters of tactics, soccer style and even the future shape of the competition itself.

The 16 teams in the finals, besides West Germany and Brazil—automatic qualifiers as host country and reigning champions—are survivors of regional competitions that started in 1972. They are Chile, East Germany, Australia, Scotland, Yugoslavia, Zaire, Holland, Sweden, Uruguay, Bulgaria, Argentina, Haiti, Italy and Poland.

This year's competition is played under a league system which eliminates the sudden death knockout-rounds employed in most previous World Cups. This could put a premium on cautious, defensive play. And that, the experts fear, would blunt the brilliant goal scoring which was a feature of the 1970 competition in Mexico.

Thus Italy, Uruguay and Argentina may figure high in the final reckoning—even though the bookies currently make West Germany and Brazil the favorites.

Italy has not conceded a goal in its last 11 international matches. The Italians were losing finalists in 1970, beaten 4-1 by Brazil.

Mac Phail sustains Cleveland forfeit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Indians had their day in court but still feel their forfeiture to the Texas Rangers was unfair.

Ted Bonda, Indians executive vice president, and Phil Seghi, general manager, traveled to New York Wednesday to present their protest views to American League President Lee MacPhail.

MacPhail turned them down.

Post 25 falls 3-1 to Post 757

BY LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

CHILLICOTHE — It was just a matter of which team could make the best use of its four hits when Washington Court House Post 25 visited Chillicothe Post 757, Wednesday evening. Post 757 came up with three runs in the bottom half of the fourth inning to defeat Post 25 3-1 in South Central Ohio League American Legion play.

Except for one bad inning, Washington's Jeff Green and Chillicothe's Randy Hill were locked in a tremendous pitching duel throughout the contest. Both pitchers struck out seven batters, as Green walked four and hit one batter and Hill gave up two bases on balls during the contest.

One of the four hits yielded by Green was a towering home run hit by Post 757's center fielder Ron Rutherford. Rutherford's circuit came with one out in the fourth frame and the ball easily cleared the 385 foot marker in centerfield.

Rutherford's homer was one of two hits allowed by Green during Post 757's three-run uprising in the fourth frame. Following Rutherford's shot, right fielder Jim Whaley drew a walk and John Hernstein was hit by a pitch. Left fielder Jeff Allen brought Whaley and Hernstein across the plate when he lined a triple to dead right-center field. Although Allen was stranded at third base, Post 757 had all the runs they needed.

Steve Haines scored Post 25's lone run in the top of the sixth frame. Haines dropped a bunt down the third base line for his second infield hit of the contest. Center fielder Mark Johnson advanced Haines to second on a ground out and Haines stole third. Mark Scherer's sacrifice fly to center allowed Haines to score the only run of the game for Washington Court House.

Both teams threatened to score additional runs in the later innings. However, both attempts were thwarted.

In the bottom of the sixth, Rutherford walked and Whaley singled to put runners on first and second with no outs for Post 757. Rutherford was caught napping at second base when Post 25 catcher Paul England fired a perfect strike to cut him down. Jeff Wright popped up and Whaley was caught stealing to end the threat.

With one out in the final frame, Washington attempted to start a rally. Pat McNaughton singled into left-center field and pinch-hitter Gregg Cobb represented the tying run at the plate. Cobb drilled a two-strike pitch back to the warning track, but Rutherford hauled the ball in for the second out. Hill then buckled down to strike out pinch-hitter Mark Fisher for the final out of the game.

Both teams were playing the game short-handed. Post 25 was without the services of two of its players, while Post 757 had three regulars missing from the lineup.

Randy Reiber and Geoff Smith missed the trip to Chillicothe. Reiber, who pitches and plays left field, injured his shoulder while making a diving catch in the first inning against Greenfield. Smith is out with a leg injury and has yet to play this season.

Post 757 missed the services of shortstop Mark Bayless, second basemen John Shoemaker and catcher Steve Chester. Bayless is presently preparing for the North-South Ohio High School All-Star basketball game, while Shoemaker and Chester are playing in the East-West Ohio All-Star baseball game.

Post 757 is 5-2 in the SCOL. Post 25, which travels to Portsmouth for a doubleheader Saturday afternoon, is now 2-2 in the league.

Air Force increases co-ed jobs

RANDOLPH AFB, Tex. (AP) — There is a significant increase this year in jobs for enlisted women, according to officials at the U.S. Air Force Recruiting Service headquarters here, who have announced that the Air Force has openings for 77,882 men and women for the new fiscal year starting July 1.

The fiscal year 1975 goal for enlisted women is 10,000, a 25 per cent increase over last year, and half of the new enlistees will be recruited for technical jobs such as jet engine mechanics, electricians, missile mechanics and heating systems specialists.

Air Force recruiters will be looking for 1,328 officer candidates with college degrees. There are openings for 956 men and 372 women to enter Office Training School for Air Force Commissions.

Initial indications are that the Air Force will admit 1,500 personnel with prior military service if they meet the requirements of age and possess a skill that is in demand.

There are openings for 899 general duty nurses, an increase of about 200. The increase in opportunities for Air Force nurse duty stems from a relatively new program of using them as Nurse Practitioners, a role in which they assume more responsibility to help ease the workload of physicians.

Smallpox wiped out nine-tenths of the Chipewyan Indian tribe of Canada in 1781, National Geographic says. Today they number about 5,000.

Opening lead — eight of hearts.

Here is a fine hand played by Jim Jacoby of Richardson, Texas.

He got to three notrump and West led a heart. East won with the king and returned a heart to the ace. Jacoby played a low club from dummy, East rising with the ace and returning a heart to the queen to establish the suit.

Jacoby now cashed the K-Q-J of diamonds ending in dummy to produce this position:

The ace of diamonds was led from dummy and East had a choice of three discards he could make.

He could not afford to part with a spade, which would permit declarer to cash the ace, play a club to the king, and score the queen of spades for his ninth trick.

Nor could East spare a club, for that would permit declarer to win the rest of the tricks by playing a club to the king and a spade to the ace.

So East discarded the nine of hearts instead, apparently leaving himself in full command of the situation. But Jacoby countered with the extraordinary discard of the king of clubs on the ace of diamonds!

When he then led the jack of clubs from dummy, East could cash a club and a heart but had to yield the remaining tricks to dummy. And so, Jacoby made three notrump.

Diagnosing Appendicitis

We live in a rural area and we do not want to impose on our doctor for every slight complaint.

How can a mother distinguish between an ordinary stomach ache and appendicitis? This is such a common problem with our two pre-teen children.

Mrs. T.R.B., Ohio

Dear Mrs. B.:

Physicians and surgeons readily admit that the diagnosis of appendicitis, is difficult even with many years of experience.

The reason is that symptoms of appendicitis can be confusing and often resemble conditions far removed from this organ.

For example, it is not unusual for children to complain of abdominal pain when they have an ordinary sore throat and swollen glands. Associated with this can be the swelling of tiny glands in and around the intestines, producing a stomach ache.

You can readily see that it is virtually impossible to tell even the most astute and observing mother how to differentiate between a stomach ache and appendicitis.

When the stomach ache is associated with nausea, vomiting and fever, a doctor's advice is imperative.

The use of laxatives and enemas at a time like this can be hazardous if appendicitis is brewing.

For people in rural areas, telephone communication with the doctor can offer the assurance parents need. Doctors have a remarkable "ear" for the telephone evaluation of the potential seriousness of a condition.

I have a painful spur on my heel. Is this an early form of arthritis?

Mr. R. K., Tex.

Dear Mr. K.:

Spurs are deposits of calcium in the tendons of the muscles of the heel.

They are not a forerunner of arthritis. They can be exceedingly painful unless they are thoroughly protected by foam rubber sponges.

Surgery for this condition is safe, relatively simple and effective.

Pilots review annual fly-in

The Fayette County Pilot's Association met Tuesday night to discuss a number of the association's activities and projects.

A report on the annual fly-in showed that the affair grossed $482 which will be added to the airport improvement fund. The fly-in was termed a success even though the number of pilots participating was somewhat disappointing. The uncertain weather dissuaded a number of pilots who had expressed a desire to attend.

Despite the treat of rain, some 25 pilots made their way to the airport. The fly-in was well attended by local residents and was supported by a number of local merchants.

THE PILOTS voted to sponsor a booth at the Fayette County Fair. Jack Sanders, association president, was selected to chair the committee planning the booth. Proceeds from the endeavor will be added to the airport improvement fund.

The association decided to order new membership cards, and jacket patches. It was noted that the new stationery ordered by the association had arrived.

In place of the regular July business meeting, members of the organization and their wives will have dinner in Columbus prior to touring Port Columbus International Airport. The group will visit the control tower, radar room and flight service station.

A new member, Marlin Overly, was welcomed to the association, and Sanders reiterated that membership is open not only to pilots, but to any individuals who are interested in the affairs of the airport or interested in aviation.

County Commissioner J. Herbert Perrill, who was a guest at the meeting spoke on behalf of the county government as he expressed appreciation to the pilot's association for the placement of the signs in front of the airport and the Fayette County Children's Home.

City Manager gets hefty increase

Council approves salary hikes

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

A pay increase ordinance for all city employes, which included a healthy wage hike for the city manager, was approved by members of Washington C.H. City Council at Wednesday night's regular meeting.

See additional City Council coverage on page 18 of today's Record-Herald.

Twenty pieces of legislation, five dealing with the pay increases for city employes, were handled by City Council members in a meeting which lasted just over an hour.

AS NEAR as can be determined, all of the nearly 70 city employes received identical $800 annual wage increases, retroactive to Jan. 1 of this year, with the exception of City Manager Dan Wolford.

Wolford received a increase of approximately $3,000. The city manager previously had been receiving an annual salary of $13,000.

The pay increases were formed by Council members in closed work sessions, but no mention was ever made of an increase of Wolford's salary at any of the private meetings attended by members of the local news media. The pay hike for the city manager was not even mentioned at Wednesday's meeting as Council rapidly read and approved all the ordinances dealing with the pay increases by title only.

Council members unanimously agreed to prepare the legislation during a work session held May 29, but the measure has been displeasing to members of the Washington C.H. Police Department.

The city's legislators, who have been especially finance-minded since proposing the salary hikes, reached agreements with all city departments, except the police officers.

POLICE OFFICERS, in a revised proposal at the May 29 meeting, had requested a $600 cost of living increase, retroactive to April 1; a one-range step (five per cent) pay increase for all police officers which would have amounted to approximately $300 per man, and a $100 uniform allowance increase. The total city police proposal would have amounted to $1,000 per police officer.

The package formed by City Council members included uniform allowance increases for both the police and fire department officers. Emergency ordinances dealing with allowances for both departments were approved.

Under the guidelines of the ordinance, the city will provide for the purchase of the first issue of clothing for uniformed members of both departments and establish an annual allowance thereafter.

Police officers received a $100 increase. The department's annual clothing allowance is now $250. The firemen will receive $150 annually, a $50 increase.

An emergency ordinance establishing overtime pay policies for city employes was approved.

Wolford explained that as a result of the 1974 amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act, minimum wages and overtime wages must be paid to most

Assembly quits without action

Spending measure in limbo

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 110th General Assembly called it quits early today, leaving in limbo an $81.8-million supplemental appropriations bill and a host of other measures.

Left hanging when adjourned were bills defining landlord-tenant relationships, Atty. Gen. William J. Brown's drug reform proposal, no-fault insurance and a change in probate court procedures.

All of the measures are technically still alive since the legislature plans to meet at least once a month until final adjournment in December.

The House and Senate had different versions of Gov. John J. Gilligan's $43.5-million appropriations bill. Senate Republicans added $37 million, setting the stage for the deadlock.

The legislature approved a bill extending for four years the ban on drilling for oil and gas in Lake Erie. It will run July 1, 1974, to July 1, 1978.

The landlord-tenant bill passed the Senate earlier in the day, but the House paved the way for the deadlock by rewriting it to conform with a similar bill it passed a week ago. It was put in conference committee.

The drug reform bill, written primarily in the attorney general's office, was left in the Senate Rules Committee, which schedules measures for floor votes.

Also left in Senate Rules was a bill that would have provided for no-fault auto insurance. It was a rewrite of a no-fault bill that had passed the House.

The House adjourned at 1:12 a.m. The Senate followed at 1:20. The two bodies will return for at least a skeleton session July 9.

At least three dozen bills, most of them minor, were passed during the final day and sent to Gilligan for signing.

The probate court reform bill, like the supplemental appropriations and landlord-tenant bills, was assigned to conference committee.

A bill that would allow persons injured while assisting crime victims to collect up to $10,000 from the state was one of those given final approval.

Its Senate sponsor, Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus, estimated there would be about 10 claims a year, averaging around $2,500 apiece. The new state Court of Claims would make ruling.

Also headed to the governor was a bill regulating fishing on Lake Erie and increasing license fees for commercial

Legal logjam broken in Ehrlichman case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge apparently has decided that a White House concession on executive privilege may enable John D. Ehrlichman to face an early trial in the Ellsberg break-in case.

After two weeks of legal drama, which cast doubts on whether Ehrlichman would stand trial at all, U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell appears to have struck a last-minute agreement with President Nixon over access to White House files.

Gesell has scheduled a hearing with defense and prosecution lawyers in his chambers today, at which time he is expected to clear up the final details. The accord still denies Ehrlichman the right to take his attorney into the White House vault that houses his files.

Nonetheless, Gesell said in a hurriedly called hearing Wednesday: "We have progressed substantially. The claim of perpetual executive privilege has been removed."

At issue was the question of whether Nixon or Gesell would decide what documents in the President's control would be admitted as evidence in the trial, scheduled to begin Monday.

Although Gesell said Wednesday there has been a "substantial change" from what Nixon previously had permitted, the President still is retaining direct control over the files Ehrlichman left in the White House when he resigned as a presidential assistant.

Gesell, in courtroom hearings, has described Nixon as "bordering on obstruction" and accused him of using offensive tactics in the White House response to subpoenas Ehrlichman issued for the files.

Claiming executive privilege, Nixon has said Ehrlichman alone may view the material and that his former aide could not take notes.

Gesell had said in pretrial hearings that it was unacceptable to deny Ehrlichman the right to have his attorney accompany him in reviewing 28 months worth of notes.

But the key element was Nixon's insistence that even if Gesell was allowed to view some of the notes privately, the President would retain the ultimate authority to decide whether Ehrlichman could use the material in his defense.

When the White House turned over some of the material to the judge last week and, on Wednesday, surrendered any claim of executive privilege, the legal log jam was broken.

One of Ehrlichman's attorneys, Andrew Hall, said Ehrlichman wants at least two documents that the White House has not provided. Gesell said that matter would be thrashed out in his chambers.

Ehrlichman and three others are accused in the so-called plumbers case of conspiring to burglarize the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding.

The plumbers were a special White

Impeachment data may be made public

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plagued by leaks, the House Judiciary Committee is considering making public most of the evidence it has received in its impeachment inquiry.

Meanwhile, the Nixon administration is renewing calls for the committee to open up its proceedings.

The committee's staff is screening the evidence, packed in 26 thick looseleaf notebooks, to determine what should still be kept secret, but a committee majority appears ready to release the rest quickly.

The proposal to do so came Wednesday at a meeting of committee Democrats hastily called by Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., after news stories based on committee leaks appeared.

The leaks dealt with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's role in the wiretapping of government officials and newsmen.

Meanwhile, Vice President Gerald R. Ford and presidential counselor Dean Burch accused the committee of damaging Kissinger's reputation.

Ford said "this leak process in the House Judiciary Committee is a very strong argument for ... the committee to open up its hearings and let the public see first-hand, not through the leak process, the information they're getting."

Burch said Rodino "seemed to have lost control" over the committee and accused him of failing to carry out a pledge to work expeditiously and fairly.

At the Democrats' meeting, Rodino said he regretted the leaks and thought they were coming from only a few of the 38 members.

Republican members were harsh in denouncing those responsible for the leaks. Rep. Charles Sandman, R-N.J., said any member found to have leaked the evidence against Kissinger should be suspended from the committee.

Rep. Joseph Maraziti, R-N.J., sought a call for a special meeting to take a vote of confidence in Kissinger, but Rodino ruled him out of order.

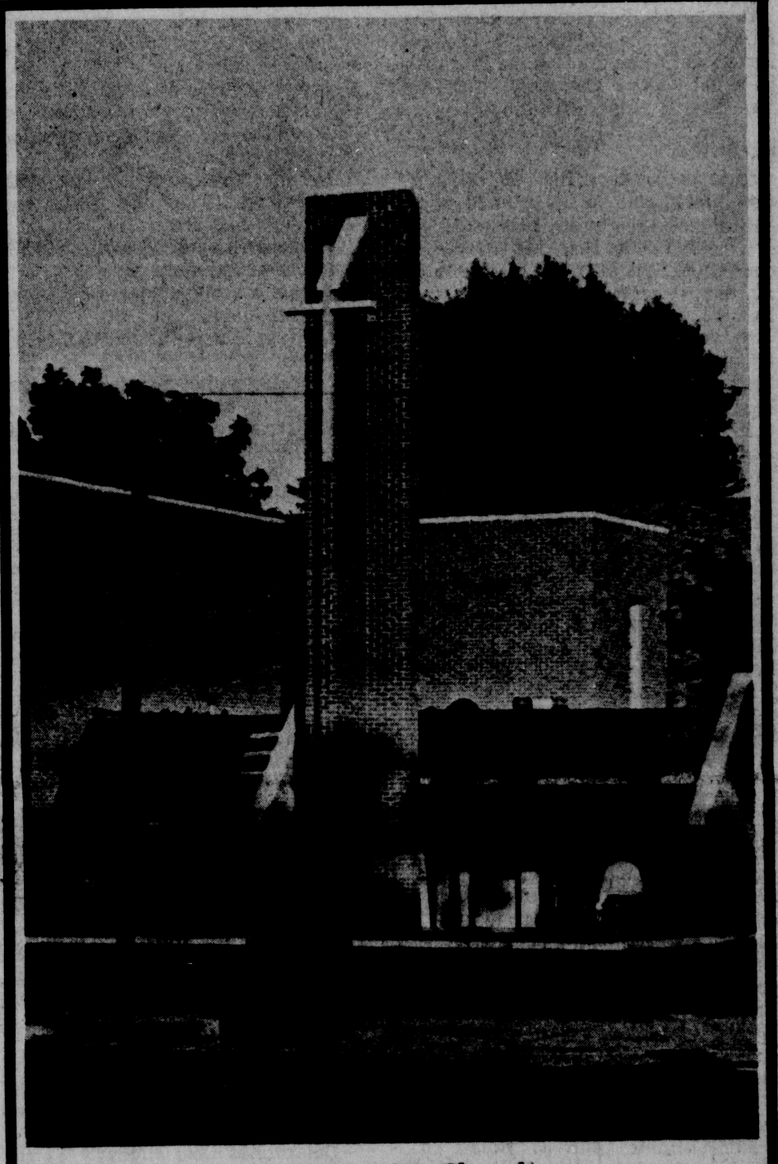

The Democrats also want to release the impeachment evidence so it will be known to the public before White House lawyer James D. St. Clair presents President Nixon's defense.

St. Clair already has prepared a brief answering charges raised during the presentation of Watergate evidence but Rodino will not let him provide it to members. He said Tuesday individual members could get it, but changed his mind Wednesday and ruled it would violate committee rules for St. Clair to release anything before being invited to by the committee.

At the Democratic caucus the question of calling witnesses was discussed, and members reported there definitely would be some. They would not be called until after next week, when presentation of documentary evidence is to be completed.

Rodino said the staff still has not interviewed Charles W. Colson, former White House aide who has pleaded guilty to a felony charge of obstructing justice and who has said he is willing to tell all he knows.

The committee wants to know what Colson plans to say before determining whether to call him as a witness.

$8.7 million in new building under way

New construction activity in Washington C. H. is at a record high and the dollars invested by developers continues to swell.

Figures provided by City Manager Dan Wolford disclose that over $8.7 million in construction activity is presently under way in Washington C. H.

The hefty figure includes eight commercial-industrial projects, topped by the construction of two new plants in the city's Industrial Park and the giant Kroger Co. complex on Clinton Avenue in Washington C. H.

Flynn appointed new Record-Herald editor

Paul F. Rodenfels, publisher of The Record-Herald, has announced the appointment of Mike Flynn as editor.

Flynn, 24, a member of The Record-Herald's editor staff for the past four years, succeeds the late Robert S. Rochester. Mr. Rochester, who died May 22, had served as editor for the past 18 years.

A 1968 graduate of Greenfield McClain High School, Flynn joined The Record-Herald's editorial staff Oct. 12, 1970 as sports editor and was promoted to the position of city editor Oct. 2, 1973.

He is a member of the Washington C.H. Lions Club, St. Colman's Catholic Church, a member of the board of directors of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce and serves on the Christman Memorial Park committee and the publicity committee of the Community Education program.

The new editor attended the University of Cincinnati following graduation from high school and was discharged in May from the U.S. Air Force Reserves with a rank of technical sergeant.

President continues tour

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Thousands of Egyptian workers, peasants and schoolchildren cheered President Nixon today as he and President Anwar Sadat traveled to Alexandria by train.

Nixon and Sadat sat on the open end of a century-old coach once used by Khedive Ismail, who opened the Suez Canal. An American helicopter circled over the train, and some 10,000 Egyptian troops were deployed along the route, primarily to keep the surging throngs off the tracks.

Egyptian security agents predicted as many as 10 million persons would turn out to see the flag-decked, 13-car train as it moved through the fertile Nile delta to the ancient port the Greeks founded on the Mediterranean.

Nixon and Sadat were relaxed and obviously enjoying the clear weather, enthusiastic crowds and happy children running alongside the train.

After their midafternoon arrival, Nixon and Sadat were to talk at the Ras el Tin Palace. After an early-evening reception President and Mrs. Nixon were giving a state dinner, reciprocating for the banquet the Sadats gave for them Wednesday night in Cairo.

The two president return to Cairo by helicopter Friday to visit the Pyramids. Nixon leaves for Saudi Arabia Friday afternoon.

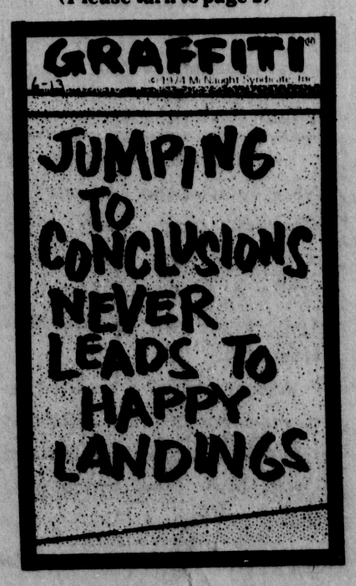

For Nixon's arrival from Austria Wednesday, the Egyptian government turned out huge crowds to cheer the two presidents as they took the seven-mile drive from Cairo's international airport to the Kubbeh Palace. Official estimates of the welcoming crowd ranged from hundreds of thousands to 2 million.

They screamed, they chanted and they waved signs reading "God Bless Nixon," though some spelled it "Nikson." A few tried unsuccessfully to break through the police lines to touch the visiting President.

Sadat tempered the enthusiasm a bit with his toast at the state dinner in the garden of the Kubbeh Palace.

He told the 600 guests the cease-fires arranged with American help between the Arabs and the Israelis are precious

Israeli forces kill 3 Arab terrorists

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Security forces killed three Arab guerrillas today who had murdered three women hostages taken in an attack on a tiny farm settlement below the Golan Heights, the Israeli state radio reported.

The terrorists apparently slipped across the Lebanese border to attack Shamir. The raid obviously was intended to cast a cloud over President Nixon's tour of the Middle East, which the Palestine guerrillas oppose. The President, now in Egypt, is due in Israel on Sunday after visits to Saudi Arabia and Syria.

Terrorists now have killed 49 persons in Israel, including 31 children, in the past two months.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine—General Command announced in Beirut that the Shamir raiders were its men. It demanded the release of 100 Palestinians from Israeli prisons within six hours, but shortly after the demand was delivered to newsmen the guerrilla squad was reported wiped out.

Three guerrillas from the same terrorist organization raided the Israeli town of Qiryat Shmonah, several miles west of Shamir, on April 11 and killed 18 Israelis and themselves when the government refused their demand for the release of Palestinian prisoners.

Armed residents of Shamir opened fire on the raiders after they were spotted near a swimming pool, the Israeli radio said in a broadcast from the kibbutz. The Arabs returned the fire, wounding one man.

Residents of the kibbutz said the terrorists apparently were trying to attack the communal dining hall where many of the 470 residents of the settlement were having breakfast.

Wholesale prices zoom

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite falling farm and food prices, widespread increases on a broad range of industrial products pushed wholesale prices up sharply again in May, the government said today.

The Labor Department reported that wholesale prices rose a seasonally adjusted 1.3 per cent last month, about the same as the rates in March and April but not as much as in the December-February period. Unadjusted, the increase last month was 1.5 per cent.

Prices for farm products, processed foods and feeds fell 2.2 per cent in May, the third consecutive monthly decline.

Industrial commodities were up 2.7 per cent.

Consumer finished goods rose six-tenths of one per cent.

The rise in the industrial prices was described by the government as "substantial and widespread." It seems to promise for consumers a continuation of double-digit inflation for at least the next few months since higher wholesale prices usually are quickly reflected at the retail level. However, the decline in wholesale food prices frequently is not passed on to consumers in full as middlemen seek to retain profits.

Jackson pushes full employment

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson says he hopes to drum up public support to convince Congress to approve a full-employment bill that can work.

"We cannot depend on Congress," Jackson, national president of People United to Save Humanity (PUSH), told a news conference Wednesday.

Jackson said a full-employment bill would have to save the jobs of those now working, find employment for those without jobs and organize unorganized workers so that they can receive higher pay.

High court upholds rights commission

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday upheld the Ohio Civil Rights Commission in a discrimination case, but denied what the commission considered to be an important lever for its enforcement efforts.

The high court ruled that a trailer park is a place of public accommodation and the owner of a Kent park had violated a resident's civil rights by evicting her because she entertained a person of another race.

But the court disallowed $1,650 in compensatory and punitive damages that the commission had ordered the owner to pay, saying the commission did not have authority to levy the damages.

It was that authority which the commission considered significant in its efforts to enforce civil rights laws.

The Supreme Court reversed the Portage County Common Pleas Court, which had set aside the commission decision, and an appellate court, which had affirmed the lower court ruling.

Linda Beeler said she was ordered to leave the park owned by Ostep Lysyi after a white person, accompanied by a black, visited her trailer Dec. 12, 1969.

In another action, the Supreme Court found invalid the oral suspension of Lawrence County's assistant prosecutor, Charles Cooper, by Common Pleas Judge Kenneth B. Ater.

The judge suspended Cooper Jan. 11, 1974, after he allegedly disobeyed Ater's instructions by showing a murder trial jury a photograph of the murder victim.

Ater told Cooper he no longer would be allowed to practice in Ater's courtroom. The order was not journalized.

The Supreme Court held that a court of record "speaks only through its journal and not by oral pronouncement."

The high court ordered Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court to reverse the first-degree manslaughter conviction of a woman whose 18-month-old child was found dead in the basement of an abandoned building.

The trial record failed to prove that the mother, Laverne Manago, had anything to do with the infant's death, the Supreme Court said, adding that a defense motion for dismissal at the end of the trial should have been granted.

During the trial, a deputy county coroner testified that the child could have sustained the fatal injuries by falling downstairs.

Ehrlichman case

House unit charged with investigating news leaks of national security information.

Gesell had said Tuesday he would have to order a separate, delayed trial for Ehrlichman while the White House files dispute continued. The other three defendants were to be tried as scheduled Monday.

"Now it appears we are in a position where we will be able to go ahead with all the defendants," the judge said Wednesday.

The trial still could be delayed to allow defense attorneys time to review the White House-released material.

The issue of executive privilege arose in another courtroom, before U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica.

Sirica is to hear the trial of six men accused in covering up the original Watergate breakin.

Wednesday he suggested that two of the defendants, Ehrlichman and former chief of staff H.R. Haldeman, have a "heart-to-heart talk" with Nixon about what White House evidence they may need for their defense.

Sirica said both men are held in high regard by the President, who should be willing to allow them access to material that proves their innocence.

Sirica wound up three days of pretrial hearings in the case Wednesday and took various motions for dismissal under advisement, with no indication when he might rule on them.

The other defendants in the plumbers case are G. Gordon Liddy, Eugenio R. Martinez and Bernard Barker.

In the cover-up trial, scheduled to begin Sept. 9, the other defendants are former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, Robert C. Mardian, Kenneth W. Parkinson and Gordon Strachan, all former officials of Nixon's re-election committee. Charges in the case against Charles T. Colson are expected to be dropped because of his guilty plea June 3 in the plumbers case.

Nixon visit

and important, but they are not enough.

He warned that if there are to be no future misunderstandings, it must be realized that a just peace in the Middle East depends almost entirely on a settlement of the Palestinian question.

Signaling strongly that the United States must face up to this "crux of the whole problem," Sadat declared: "There is no other solution on the road to a durable peace."

The Egyptian leader said Nixon's visit signifies a change in the traditional American policy of virtually unqualified support for Israel. "We welcome this change, with all its political and psychological significance," he said.

But he added that "we are facing a turning point" that will determine if cease-fires can be turned into real peace —and that will be accomplished only by a redress of the wrongs done the Palestinian nation by Israeli aggression.

Nixon in response praised Sadat in ringing phrases but gave no answer to his bid for support of the Palestinians.

Fred Buzhardt hospitalized

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House counsel J. Fred Buzhardt, one of President Nixon's closest advisers in the Watergate case, was hospitalized early today with a suspected heart attack, a spokesman at Fairfax Hospital in suburban Virginia said.

Buzhardt, 50, was admitted to the hospital with chest pains at 12:23 a.m.

I want to thank all those who sent the beautiful flowers, cards, and gifts and those who visited me while a recent patient at the Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Also thanks to the nurses and nurses aides in the 400 wing for their kind care. May God bless you all.

Clear skies and light winds Wednesday night allowed temperatures to drop to record or near record lows for this date in Ohio.

In Cleveland, at 46 degrees, a record that has stood for 99 years was tied. The last time it was so cold on this date was in 1875. Toledo dropped to 45, only two degrees above the record which was also set in 1875.

High pressure over the East Coast has dominated the weather pattern for the state, and this will continue through Thursday. Despite sunny skies, temperatures are expected to remain eight to ten degrees below normal today and Friday.

There was some scattered shower activity over Lower Michigan Thursday morning, but these are not expected to reach Ohio.

A chance of showers Saturday or Sunday, clearing Monday. Highs in the low 80s Saturday and in the 70s Sunday and Monday. Lows in the 50s.

Rain, wind hammer Great Plains

By The Associated Press

Rain and high winds swept storm-weary Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska today as severe thunderstorms roamed the Great Plains.

West Texas and extreme eastern New Mexico also were hit by thunderstorms overnight, and tornadoes churned into rural Texas west of Lubbock and east of Hobbs.

Several power lines were downed northwest of Kearney, Neb., apparently by a tornado, and hail fell north of the city.

Thundershowers continued in eastern South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota, the Great Lakes region and central Rockies. Rain also persisted in southern Florida and parts of the central Gulf Coast states.

Over most of the nation, however, fair to partly cloudy skies prevailed.

non-supervisory state and local government employes.

He said law enforcement officers and firemen will be included under the minimum wage standards, effective Jan. 1, 1975. Time and a half will be paid to persons working over 60 hours per week.

IN OTHER ordinances dealing with salary hikes, Council adopted an integrated table of rates and salary ranges for city employes; approved assignments of classification and pay ranges for employes; fixed the compensation of various positions, and authorized the payment of salary and wage increases due retroactively from Jan. 1 to all employes.

The city lawmakers also unanimously approved two sets of ordinances that deal with renewal of notes and employing special counsel to prepare necessary proceedings.

A note renewal on a completed project which included the expansion and widening of Elm and Temple streets was approved so that the city will be able to pay the interest on the borrowed funds.

The same type of procedures were approved for the renewal of note in order that the city may pay its share of the costs of improving and expanding the sewage treatment plant. Wolford explained the city borrowed $100,000 last year in order to comply with Ohio Environmental Protection Agency rulings for improvements at the facility. The temporary improvement project has been completed and the legislation was required for the note renewal.

An ordinance to accept the application for the annexation of a 0.94-acre tract of land in Union Township was placed on first reading by Council members.

Larry Chrisman, of Washington C.H., owns the tract of land, which is located on the east side of N. North Street between Gibbs and Earl avenues. The Fayette County Board of Commissioners approved the annexation March 25.

The annexation action apparently involves the development of a business since two representatives of the Lawson Dairy Co. attended the meeting along with realtor Tom Mark and Washington C.H. attorney Omar A. Schwart.

Stock prices irregular

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the big-name issues advanced in an otherwise flat and lethargic stock market today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, buoyed by gains in a scattering of blue chips, was up 4.69 at 853.25. But advancing issues overall slightly trailed declines in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said most investors were holding back commitments while awaiting the weekly figures on money-market and interest-rate trends due after the close from the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Rio Grande Industries preferred, down ½ at 8¼, was the Big Board's most-active stock, the market-value index was off .10 at 84.88.

The market was unruffled by the Labor Department's report that its wholesale price index had jumped at a 15.6 per cent seasonally adjusted annual rate in May.

Brokers said most investors had expected a bulge in the price index after the lifting of government controls April 30.

The NYSE's noon composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .20 to 48.58.

Arab detente worries Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israelis will greet President Nixon next week as one of their best friends, but they are apprehensive about the effect on them of the new Arab-American rapprochement.

Henry A. Kissinger's adroit diplomacy has not only disengaged the warring Middle East armies—it has revolutionized America's standing in the Arab world.

The grass-roots fear in Israel is that the Jewish nation will have to pay for this new standing in the form of territorial and diplomatic concessions to the Arabs.

"Why else does Egypt suddenly love Nixon?" one Israeli argued. "Because it knows that only Nixon can squeeze concessions out of us."

A senior Israeli official, sounding more reserved, said the new friendship between the United States and the Arabs "might cause difficulties for us, but in the final summary it is a positive development.

"I'd rather have America giving the Arabs military aid than the Soviets," he added.

Relations between the U.S. and Israeli governments have blossomed anew since Nixon took office. But now "a new chapter has begun," the official said, "and it is not yet clear where we are going."

Differences may arise, he continued, especially over Washington's reported wish to have Israel negotiate directly with Palestinian leaders. The Israeli government refuses to deal with those it refers to as "terrorists."

"But we have a vital interest in continuing relations with the U.S. government," he added. "For us, President Nixon's visit is an outstanding event.'

Retail sales up in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Retail sales in Ohio increased by 1 per cent in April, the Center for Business and Economic Research at Ohio State University reported today.

The increase over retail sales for March maintained a string of 1 per cent jumps that began in January, the center said.

The center said sales for April 1974 were 12 per cent ahead of those for the same month a year ago—despite a 10 per cent dip in automobile sales.

All major cities in Ohio reported gains between April 1973 and April of this year except Toledo, which showed a decline of 3 per cent, the center said.

TV Viewing

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Barbara Feldon divides her time among her home in the Hollywood Hills, her boat, her studies, writing and television.

Barbara, who was Agent 99 on "Get Smart" for five years, is doing hostess duties on "Dean Martin's Comedyworld," a Thursday night summer show on NBC.

She taped her appearances in such places as London, San Francisco and Great Gorge, N.J. "Comedyworld" features comedy performers from around the country and in London.

Since leaving "Get Smart" in 1970, Barbara' made numerous appearances on series, TV movies, specials and game shows. She says she doesn't miss the regularity of a series at all.

"It's the best of all possible worlds," she said. "Consistency is not something I'm fond of. I love variety."

It permits her to pursue a life style suited to her interests. Last summer she bought a 43-foot cabin cruiser, Ciopinno, and took up the study of navigation. That is in addition to her study of art and history.

She lives part of the time on the boat, anchored at Marina Del Rey, and it is there that she does her writing. With actress Joan Darling, she wrote for a Dinah Shore special and for the Public Broadcasting System.

She said she's been writing for years.

Most of her work has been in comedy — "It's my favorite" — but Barbara doesn't consider herself a comedic actress.

She said, "I began as a dramatic actress. The first thing I did was opposite George C. Scott in 'East Side, West Side.' When 'Get Smart'came along I fell into that and I'm thought of as a comedic actress.

"It's fun to do. Dramatic acting can be great but you can't spend the whole day weeping in your bandages. Comedy has a pace and a style to it. You can improvise like musicians. I love the energy and vitality of it."

Strike doesn't faze small city

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Tough-minded residents of the Sayler Park area, fresh from the battle of the April 3 tornado, which included all manner of bureaucrats and insurance adjusters, vow they won't let a little thing like a teamsters strike throw them.

"One way or another," said George Nose, "we're going to rebuild our homes for our families whether we do it like gentlemen or like animals."

Sayler Park, which, on a city map, looks like a tail on the city of Cincinnati, is populated by rugged, individualistic Germans who are used to handling their own problems.

The city's annexation of the area a half century ago gave Cincinnati control of the Ohio riverfront nearly to the Indiana line.

Until two years ago, there was only one police patrol car assigned from the downtown area to the 15-mile outreach of Sayler Park.

"We got used to handling our own problems," recalled one resident. "It took the policeman two hours to cover the beat. As a result, we watched our own neighborhood and over the years we turned over a lot of would-be burglars to the police."

On April 3 one, and possible two tornadoes, crossed the Ohio River from Boone County, Ky. and punched a swath through the pleasant, tree-lined suburb.

An estimated 200 houses disappeared, mainly in an area called "the subdivision." The area has small houses, many without basements, built since World War II. There was not a single death although there were a number of injuries.

It took a while for the Sayler Parkers, not accustomed to a lot of strangers to get used to the insurance adjusters, and federal, state and local officials, but not too long.

"We learned right away," recalled Nose, "that if you go in like Mr. Milktoast with your hat in your hand, they are going to push you all over the place.

"What you have to do is threaten to beat somebody up, or go and see somebody's boss about getting him fired. When you act like you're going to take the place apart, they sit down and start doing something. That's just the way it is. It isn't their fault, they're just used to doing things that way, they didn't create the system."

Now, the debris is pretty well cleaned away and new houses are going up on the sites of the old ones.

But, on June 1, some 15 building trades unions in the Cincinnati area struck for higher wages. These included the 300-member concrete drivers with Teamsters Union Local 100.

Half a dozen builders, backed by residents, went to the union with a petition asking that concrete deliveries be allowed to pour their foundations. The Teamsters refused.

Blind girl participates in Girls State

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — The American Legion Auxiliary is allowing a blind girl to participate in a state government exercise, but only after persuasion by Gov. Tom McCall and the speaker of the Oregon House of Representatives.

Donna Bell was elected by her fellow students at North Eugene High School as a delegate to Girls State, an annual legion-sponsored exercise in which students from around the state come to the capital and play out a week-long mock state government.

But the legion auxiliary rejected Donna because she is blind. A legion rule says delegates must be "physically fit" so as not to present a burden on the other delegates.

When McCall heard Donna had been rejected, he announced he would not address the 264 delegates as he had promised.

And House Speaker Richard Eymann said he would not allow the delegates to hold their mock legislative sessions in the Oregon House chamber as planned.

Officials of the legion auxiliary consulted with McCall, after which the governor announced that the rule barring delegates with physical handicaps would be ignored.

Aftermath of Colson plea

Charles W. Colson's plea of guilty to attempting to obstruct justice and influence the trial of Daniel Ellsberg came about through some plea bargaining. As their part of the bargain, attorneys on the staff of Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski will seek dismissal of criminal conspiracy indictments against the former aide to President Nixon.

To procure this arrangement Colson has agreed to testify "in any and all cases with respect to which he may have relevant information." This raises two interesting questions. One is: How much does Colson know about the Watergate coverup and related matters? The other is: How much of it will he spill?

There is reason to expect that when placed under oath he may spill quite a lot. This expectation is bolstered by the fact that Colson is explicitly not exempted from prosecution for false or misleading testimony; he will be liable to charges of perjury.

There also is reason to think that Colson has intimate knowledge about some of the matters at issue - the milk fund and ITT cases, for example. He may be asked to testify about presidential conversations in which he was involved, and reportedly can no longer claim executive privilege or national security with regard to those conversations. Thus his guilty plea has in effect opened the door to what may be significant new disclosures.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Plugging the loopholes

WASHINGTON — Throughout the country come reports that inflation, the steadily rising curve of high prices, is far more than Watergate the issue that voters put at the top of the list. This is confirmed by a Harris poll showing that by 82 to 15 per cent the sample polled gives President Nixon negative marks "on the way he has handled the economy."

Wherever you go the story is the same - we can just barely make it and then by cutting back on what we once thought were necessities. This reflects the feeling of millions of families in the income brackets up to $15,000.

The concern, the rancor, of these millions is directed not alone at the Administration but at Congress as well. Since Congress rates below the President in the polls, here is a serious challenge to demonstrate that change can be pushed through the clogged, sluggish channels of a body that drifts toward stalemate in many areas.

One of the principal pushers is Rep. Henry Reuss of Wisconsin who was chosen to deliver a radio response to Nixon's bland "all will soon be well" address on the economy.

Reuss is working to get endorsement by the Democratic steering committee and eventually by the Democratic caucus of a program calculated to send shivers down the spines of the conservatives and the rich.

He must convince that formidable gate keeper, Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means committee, and if Wilbur believes there is sufficient pressure from an aroused public, then cautious Speaker Carl Albert may also be persuaded.

The Reuss proposal calls for a federal income tax cut of $6 to $7 billion in the low to moderate income brackets. This would help those barely scraping along to make ends meet. The President has, of course, set his face against a tax cut as inflationary.

But Reuss, whose economic know-how has been repeatedly demonstrated on the joint Economic Committee and on Banking and Currency, ties in plugging tax loopholes to return to the Treasury virtually the full amount of the cut. This is where the shivers come in.

His proposal would provide for a capital gains tax on securities held in an estate. There is no such tax today, since no matter how much the securities have advanced in value, they escape when they are in the estate of the deceased taxpayer.

Reuss estimates that closing this loophole, long zealously guarded by lawyers and trust officers, would bring in $2 billion.

The oil-depletion allowance has for years been the target of reformers who have aimed particularly at the foreign earnings of the oil giants. Mills finally agreed to a three-year phase-out of this bonanza.

Reuss is urging that it be knocked out, or at least drastically reduced, at once. Depending on how deep the cut, this could bring in several billions.

Another loophole Reuss would plug is DISC, the acronym for a subsidy for exports costing about $1 billion a year. Ironically enough, DISC subsidizes exports of materials in scarce supply in this country such as scrap metal and timber. The Department of Commerce is trying to conserve these same materials for domestic use.

The hobby farm is one of the most sensitive loopholes. The rolling acres dotted with Black Angus or Herefords, the well-built barns, the handsome manor house, all this is a happy picture and if the beef cattle return no profit there is always a satisfactory tax loss. Reuss believes lugging this hole would mean close to $1 billion to the Treasury.

These all are carefully guarded sanctum sanctorums and the lobbyists will be swarming over Capitol Hill to ward off the vandals. The next days are likely to tell the tale in the steeering committee.

Whatever its ultimate fate, and with the backing of Wilbur Mills it might well get through the House, the reform program would convince millions of hard-pressed families that Congress is doing something about inflation.

Food and fuel are the two chief villains. The rise in the price of gasoline to 60 and 65 cents a gallon is contrasted with the great upsurge in the profits of the oil companies, as 15 per cent of the Harris poll sample noted.

The election is only five months away and disgruntled citizens are waiting for a signal that Washington will try to put on the brakes.

FRIDAY, JUNE 14

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20;
Be careful of details, avoid doubts and a trend toward misunderstandings. You can avoid possible friction if you are on your toes, thinking ahead every step of the way.

You may face moments of uncertainty. As with Aries, stand firmly against wavering and doubting. Concentrate on significant issues only.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
Caution should be day's keynote. Dont' create unnecessary problems through impulsiveness, and take no reckless chances.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
Favorable lunar influences now promise increasing gains. But some minor points may have to be ironed out before you go ahead with long-range plans.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Excellent solar influences now give you the "go ahead" signal to complete pending negotiations, initiate new agreements which could have an important bearing on future security.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Study new propositions and the persons who make them. Don't make hasty decisions, and do be alert to schemers and daydreaming optimists.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct: 23)
Not a good day for making important moves or decisions. Certain situations may be so confusing that you will need time to fully understand them.

A good day for achievement. You should not only gain through regular activities, but may even have an opportunity to cash in on an avocational skill.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Try to talk with individuals important to your aims. A bit of diplomatic maneuvering could have fine results. But avoid intrigue.

PISCES
(!Feb. 20 to March 20)
Your creative ideas may need some revision before they can be carried out, so be sure to study all angles of feasibility before presenting them.

YOU BORN TODAY are a highly imaginative, ingenious and versatile individual. Both intuition and memory are remarkable in the Geminian, and you have what amounts to a "sixth sense" when it comes to anticipating the future. There is nothing "supernatural" about this. It is but a result of your constant search for knowledge, keen obersvance of situations and an uncanny ability to sense undercurrents which helps you to analyze them correctly. When you take action, therefore, it is with know-how and precision. You work best when working alone but, being extremely adaptable, can produce equally well where mass cooperation is required. Fields in which you could excel: writing, music, journalism, the theater, the law and politics.

Park plan given boost by grant

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati businessman Charles Sawyer's gift of $1 million has been matched by the federal government to develop the city's planned park along the Ohio River.

The $1 million federal grant was okayed Tuesday by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

The 14.65-acre park adjacent to Riverfront Stadium will include walkways, fishing and docking piers and an amphitheater.

A multi-million-dollar hotel-apartment complex is to be built beside the park.

Sawyer, who was U.S. Secretary of Commerce during the Truman Administration, said last year he wanted to "do something substantial, that would be permanent and clearly to the benefit of the city.

"Our river is one of our city's great assets," Sawyer said. He predicted the park development "will in all likelihood stimulate added improvements in the area."

Tax changes are now law in state

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio stops collecting a tax on goods sold at auction today, except for motor vehicles and house trailers.

The exemption becomes law along with four other enactments signed by Gov. John J. Gilligan 90 days ago, the time required for a non-emergency bill to become law.

Sen. Gene Slagle, D-26 Galion, an auctioneer, sponsored the tax measure which has only a negligible effect on Ohio's revenue but could help a colorful but declining business activity.

Robert J. Kosydar, state tax commissioner, estimated the new law will cost the state only about $50,000 a year out of well over $500 million the sales tax produces annually.

Slagle's bill places into the law a new definition for casual sales that include items sold at auction as long as the sale is not made at the owner's permanent place of business.

Another one of the new laws affects many more people, although Ohioans will not feel its effects until next year when they file their 1974 state income tax returns.

It takes away the existing $3,000 limit on personal income tax exemption that can be claimed at the rate of $500 each for a taxpayer and each of five dependents.

The limit on the number of dependents for whom $500 can be claimed is eliminated, removing what sponsors of the bill said was an injustice for large families.

Voters authorized a change in the constitution last year in order to make the tax break possible.

Among the other new statutes is one that requires counties to publicize newly adopted building regulations as well as changes made in existing regulations.

It says the modifications must be published in one newspaper of general or countywide circulation within 10 days after adoption of new regulations, amendments or changes.

The other laws clarify the obligations of new corporations growing out of mergers, stating that trusts, bequests and other agreements of component companies remain valid, and permit waivers of the four-year limit for reimbursements by the tax commissioners of sales taxes collected erroneously.

Vendors would have to agree to such waivers.

Dear Abby:

Husband wants wife to pose in the nude

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am approaching 40 and so is my wife. We've been married for 22 years. Like most couples our age, our sex life isn't what it used to be. My wife can take it or leave it. I'm no sex maniac, but I'm not exactly dead yet.

Last Christmas the wife gave me a Polaroid camera, and just for the heck of it, she let me take some pictures of her in the bedroom, unclothed. That's when I discovered those pictures really turned me on.

Now, all of a sudden the wife tells me she is no striptease model, and she doesn't want to pose for any more pornographic pictures. I say it's not pornography as long as we're married because I'm the only one who sees those pictures.

We are both born-again Christians. I'd like your opinion. Am I kooky or not?

SHUTTERBUG

DEAR SHUTTER: Not kooky, just a little far out. Whatever you do behind closed doors that is mutually agreeable is all right! I'm sold. Now all you have to do is sell the wife.

DEAR ABBY: I am so upset, I don't know what to do anymore. I've called the police, military base, Chamber of Commerce, the base chaplain and three lawyers. As I write this, I am crying and have a knot in my throat.

I've been married to a serviceman for 15 years and now he is involved with a red-headed woman who works where he works. (He got her the job.) He picks her up and drives her home, and I see him only when he comes here to change his clothes.

He has told me he doesn't love me anymore and as soon as he can afford it he will officially divorce me. He's even tried to push men at me. I am so hurt I could die!

I would do away with myself, if I didn't have five kids who need me. When I complain about the way he treats me, he beats me up. I know you'll think I'm crazy, but I still love him and want to know how I can get him back.

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: Your chances for getting him back are small, and from your letter, I think you're better off without him. But if you considered doing away with yourself, you need help in handling your problems. It's available through your County Mental Health Association, and Family Service Association. Give them a call.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "AM I AN ALCOHOLIC?: That's a tough one to answer because there is no absolute definition of an alcoholic. But here's a partial list drawn up by The National Council of Alcoholism:

— Do you drink heavily after a disappointment or a quarrel?

— Did you ever wake up the morning after to discover you couldn't remember part of the evening before even though you didn't pass out?

— Do you try to have a few extra drinks when others will not know?

— Have you often failed to keep a promise to yourself about cutting down on your drinking?

If the answer is "yes" to any of the above questions, you have a problem. And the best solution for that kind of problem begins with one telephone call to Alcoholics Anonymous. They're in your telephone book. It's your move.

CONFIDENTIAL TO H. IN OMAHA: I don't recommend marrying a man for his money. You may have to divorce him to get it.

MR. & MRS. DONALD PITTMAN

Leesburg Wesleyan Church setting for June 1 wedding

The Leesburg Wesleyan Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Cindy Lea Burnam and Donald Pittman on June 1. Fern and ivy graced the altar with atanding baskets of white gladioli and pompoms with large white bows. Two seven-branch candelabra flanked each side of the altar with bows and fern. Brass candelabra lined the certer aisle for the candlelight cermeony.

The Rev. A.T.Adams performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Burnam of Highland and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tracey E. Pittman of Brunswick, Ga.

Miss Patty Hodge, organist, presented a half-hour of wedding selections, and Mrs. Dorothy Hart, vocalist, sang "I Love You Truly," "Becaues" and other wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long white formal gown of bridal satin with scoop neckline, empire jeweled waist, and bodice and with overlay of Chantilly lace. The long lace sleeves were tapered over the wrists. The princess styled skirt fell to a full circle. Her chapel length train of Chantilly lace was caught at the waist by a satin bow. A Juliet cap with lace overlay and jewel trim, held her illusion veil which fell to chapel length. The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations and pink sweetheart roses with baby's breath and greenery. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls belonging to her maternal grandmother, and a pair of earrings, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Howard Schiller, matron of honor and aunt of the bride, wore a pink flocked voil over taffeta gown with V-neckline and large ruffled collar. She wore a matching floppy hat and carried a singel rose surrounded by blue carnations, baby's breath with matching streamers.

The eight bridesmaids wore gowns identical to that of the matron of Honor, except four were in pink with matching flowers, and four wore blue gowns with matching flowers. The bridesmaids were Miss Bonnie Burns, Miss Elaine Bishop, Miss Kay Buran, Miss Connie Puckett, Mrs. Sheri Burnam, Miss Rhonda Pittman, Miss Debbie Schiller and Miss Jeanetta Huff. The gowns had low necklines with ruffled collars edged with white orange blossoms, and each wore a floppy hat. Each carried a nose gay of pink and blue carnations. They wore sterling necklaces of hearts and rhinestones, all gifts of the bride.

Kathy and Jackie Burnam and Angela Huff counsins of the bride, were the flower girls. They wore white gowns with angel sleeves, and headpieces of jeweled lace. Each carried a wicker basket filled with petals tied with pink and blue bows. Shayne Dara Burnam, nephew of the bride, was the ringbearer.

Harold Burnam served as best man for his niece. Jan and Jay Brownlee, Jeffrey Schiller, Gregg Hughs, Micahel Burnam, David Burnam and Jummy Brunam, brothers of the bride, and Gary Edwards, seated the wedding guests. Jeffrey Schiller and Jimmy Burnam lighted the candles.

The bride's mother chose an apricot formal length gown with V-neckline; long full sleeves and a beaded midriff with accordian pleated skirt. The groom's mother wore a formal length gown of peach with long sleeves, jeweled neckline. Both wore corsages of white roses. Both mothers lighted the altar candles preceding the marriage ceremony, and the young couple lighted the candle in front following the marriage.

Hostesses for the reception held at the Leesburg Federal Community room were Mrs. James Watkins and Mrs. Alice Gray. Serving at the punch bowls were Mrs.Gary Edward and Mrs. Thursa Huff, and at the silver coffee service were Mrs. Russell Ross, anunt of the bride, and Miss Pam Toon. They wore pink and blue dresses and dainty lace aprons, gifts of the bride. Miss Jana Huff and Miss Lucy Burnam presided at the guest book.

For her going away ensemble, the new Mrs. Pittman was wearing a blue and white two piece knit dress with the pink rosebud corsage from her bridal bouquet. Following a wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains, the couple is residing near Brunswick, Ga.

The bride's parents were hosts at the rehearsal dinner the evening preceding the wedding.

Out-of-town guests came from Kitts Hill, Waverly, Chillicothe, Paulding, Sandusky, Michigan and Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. William Beers, Miami Trace Rd., attended graduation ceremonies held by the Rutherford B. Hayes High School on the campus of Ohio Wesleyan University, of which their granddaughter, Sandra Lynn Cunningham, was a member. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carol Cunningham, and was in the upper 10 of the class scholastically, in a class of 240 students.

How to stretch a pound of pork

BY CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

SWEET AND SOUR PORK AND PEARS

29 - ounce can Bartlett pear halves
1 pound ground pork
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground ginger
5 tablespoons soy sauce
4 tablespoons cornstarch
2 beef bouillon cubes
¼ cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons light brown sugar
2 tablespoons cold water
½ to 1 cup thinly sliced celery
½ to 1 cup thin strips green pepper
½ cup thinly sliced scallions, green tops included

Drain pear halves, reserving syrup. Cut each pear half in two lengthwise. Reserve.

Thoroughly mix together the pork, unbeaten egg, salt, ginger, 2 tablespoons of the soy sauce and 2 tablespoons of the cornstarch. Shape into 18 balls. Heat a 10-inch skillet and add the pork balls; slowly brown and cook through — about ½ hour. Remove from skillet and pour off fat. To skillet add the reserved pear syrup and bouillon cubes; heat, stirring, to dissolve cubes. Stir in vinegar, brown sugar and remaining 3 tablespoons soy sauce.

Stir together the remaining 2 tablespoons cornstarch and the cold water until smooth. Bring mixture in skillet to a gentle boil; add the cornstarch mixture and, stirring constantly, cook until thickened and boiling. Stir in celery, green pepper and scallions; add pears and pork balls and heat through. Serve with rice.

RUN ON RECIPES

It really was a pleasure demonstrating some of my favorite "Lightning Meals" for 21 homemakers on May 30. They must have liked the recipes Beulah Hill, our Washington C.H. Area Home Economics Agent and I prepared, for all 50 of the recipe sheets disappeared. If you couldn't make the meeting, but would like a recipe sheet, call our office, we just made some more.

HOW TO PRESERVE A HUSBAND

This recipe was passed on to my by a friend. It's one I thought worth sharing. "Be careful in your selection. Do not choose too young. When selected give your entire thoughts to preparation for domestic use. Some wives insist upon keeping them in a pickle, others are constantly getting them into hot water. This may make them sour, hard, and sometimes bitter; even poor varieties may be made sweet, tender and good by garnishing them with patience, well sweetened with love and seasoned with kisses. Wrap them in a mantle of charity. Keep warm with a steady fire of domestic devotion and serve with peaches and cream. Thus prepared, they will keep for years."

FRESH STRAWBERRY JAM

A real favorite for the men is the new recipe for fresh strawberry jam. It's excellent as an ice cream topping too.

Fresh Strawberry Jam

1 quart fresh strawberries
1 box powdered pectin
¾ cup water
4 cups sugar

Completely crush the berries, one layer at a time. Measure sugar, ¾ cup water, and powdered pectin into sauce pan and bring to boil for one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from the heat and add the strawberries and stir gently for 3 minutes. Pour into clean glasses or freezing containers. Cover and let stand at room temperature about 24 hours or until jelled.

Store either in refrigerator or freezer. If jam is to be kept for longer than three weeks, freeze and store in the freezer.

TLC (TENDER LOVING CARE) FOR STRAWBERRIES

Proper care actually begins when selecting the berries. Make strawberries your last purchase so that they will not be squashed. Sort berries, removing any that are soft or show indication of decay, before storing them. After you sort them, spread them on a flat dish or pan, cover with wax paper, and refrigerate.

Do not wash berries until just before you use them, and use them within two or three days. Prepare fresh strawberries just before you plan to serve them. Wash them gently and quickly in cold water. Lift the berries from the water, letting the sand and dirt stay in the water. Then remove caps after the berries are clean and dry.

HOW MANY TO BUY

1 quart - 3 cups capped berries
1 quart - approximately 5 servings
1 crate (16 quarts) - 20 to 24 pints frozen strawberries

For more details on freezing strawberries and other fruits call the Extension Office at 335-1150.

You'll want to sign up now for our Canning Clinic from 1 to 3:30 p.m. on June 25 at the Extension Office Auditorium.

Woman becomes helper at 100

PARK FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Never able to have children of her own, Ida Lewis at the age of 100 is a foster grandmother of two retarded children at the Elizabeth Ludeman Center.

She says it is the happiest time of her life.

"All I ever had was somebody else's children so two years ago I volunteered in a foster grandmother program and now I've got two that I feel very close to," said Mrs. Lewis, twice a widow.

When her health permits, Mrs. Lewis commutes five miles from her home at Robbins, a suburb south of Chicago, to the Ludeman Center here, where she is in charge of the two children under the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity's Foster Grandparent program.

Women and Class unite for meeting

The combined meeting of the Willing Wokers Class and the Staunton United Methodist Women took place in the home of Mrs. Wanita Wikle Wednesday. The Methodist Women's meeting was called to order by Mrs. Alice Bush and devotions were presented by Mrs. Jed Stuckey. She read "Flag Day" and "Father's Day." Other appropriate readings were "Dad," "I Love My Dad," "Ten Little Christians," and "Prayer for Fathers," given by Mrs. Addie Barger.

The history of the American flag and the Christian flag was given by Mrs. Florence Bethards; "The Pictured Father" by Mrs. Wilbur Hidy; "The Man we Call Dad," by Mrs. Walter Parrett, and "The Flag," by Mrs. Donald Pemberton.

Reports were made by Mrs. Pemberton and Mrs. J. O. Wilson, and cheer cards were signed for Mrs. Harry Hyslip Jr., Mrs. Bessie Kemmey, Mrs. Emma Haines, Miss Blanche Roberts, Mrs. Dorothy Brannon and Miss Ethel Hidy.

Plans were made for the sales table to be featured during Old-Fashioned Bargain Days, of which Mrs. Barger is chairman. The Methodist Women will not meet in July.

Mrs. Hidy opened the Class meeting of the Wiling Workers by reading the poem, "Old Friends." Reports were made by Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Elza Smith. New officers elected were Mrs. Smith, president; Mrs. Walter Parrett, vice president and news reporter; Mrs. Wilson, secretary; and Mrs. Barger, treasurer.

There will be no meeting in July, but a picnic is planned for 6 p.m. August 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Hidy.

AIRPORT NEWS

By SANDY WOODMANSEE

Hi from the Fayette County Airport.

This is my first try writing a newspaper article so please bear with me. As most of you may know, my husband John, and I have taken over operations here the first of June. Believe me, its been an exciting and busy first few days. To catch up on some previous activity, last Saturday, we had two gliders land and were interested to learn they were members of the Soaring Society of Dayton and were taking part in the Wright Memorial Glider Meet. The pilots told us there were more than thirty entries from as far away as New York, Tennessee and Pennsylvania. This was a two-day event and that day's contest involved distance. They had been in the air for approximately five hours. The pilots were Tom Stoops and Tom Hansen both from the Waynesville area. It was quite a thrill to see thse gliders flying and also landing. Their wives drove in a short time later hauling the trailers which they loaded the planes into to drive back to home base.

The day before, a Beechcraft Stagger Wing from Pennsylvania, vintage 1941, stopped in for oil on his way to Hamilton, Ohio.

ON MAY 31st, two gentlemen flew in from Elyria, Ohio in a Cherokee 150 Warrior under IFR conditions (instrument flight rules). Columbus Flight Service vectored them in on radar right to the airport.

A twin engine landed from North Carolina and discharged passengers for a meeting at Mac Tool here in Washington C.H.

Now a little news on our local pilots - Jim Adair made his first solo flight on May 26th. His wife, Peggy was here rooting him along. Congratulations, Jim! Mike Putnam completed his first dual cross country and Tom Pfaff also completed his. Tom is our line boy out here and we really appreciate all the help he's given us. Maurice Hopkins (also known as "Hoppy") is one of the early birds completing his bi-annual flight review. Eddie Pendergraft has also completed his bi-annual.

Bob and Helen Woodmansee flew to Alabama Memorial Day weekend. They took Bob's mother and dad, Mabel and Everette Woodmansee of Sabina along with them. Bob was working on his long cross country flight which is part of the training required to obtain his Commercial rating.

Randy Smith soloed on June 3, 1974. Good for you, Randy! Walt Gooldin took his mother-in-law, Mrs. Emegene Swain of Gallopolis, Ohio for her very first plane ride. Walt said she really loved it. Bill and Judy Dennis have been real busy with their agriculture spraying business.

The column heading which you see above was designed by Robert E. Forrest of 385 Rose Avenue, Sabina. Bob donated the "smiling airplane" to the Pilot's Association and everyone is very appreciative of the work he's done. It is fast becoming our motto out here and I don't think we could have a nicer one. Many, many thinks Bob for contributing your talent to us.

In closing, John and I would like to say "thanks" especially to Judy and Bill who've been a tremendous help to us in getting started. We also appreciate all of you who've contributed to our first few days. Thanks again to everyone and hope to see you next Thursday.

'Age of Golda' lives on in Israel

By MARCUS ELIASON
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM (AP) — It may not go down in Israeli history as the golden era, but Golda Meir's five-year premiership already is being termed "Eidan Golda" — the Golda Age.

No living Israeli is likely to forget her.

Some called her "Grannie"— she is a grandmother, and others less charitably referred to her as "the old lady"—she is 76. A politician likened her to a kindergarten teacher who treated her people as though they were brats. She once taught school in Milwaukee, Wis.

Admirers found an enticing parallel in the Bible — Deborah the Prophetess, who "arose, a mother in Israel," and led the Israelites to victory over the invaders of the Promised Land.

Mrs. Meir came to power in the heady wake of Israel's lightning defeat of the Arabs in 1967, but left in controversy over the costly and sobering war last October.

Writing of the public protest that led to her resignation, a columnist commented, "Golda Meir deserved better than to go down ignominously to the shouting under her office windows."

One of her outstanding talents was to cut complex questions to total simplicity.

While international debates continued for years over trying to start Israeli-Arab peace talks by procuring a Western or a United Nations guarantee to protect Israel's borders, Mrs. Meir responded by asking simply, "But why is that necessary if true peace exists?"

She wanted straightforward peace treaties or nothing and her rigidity may have delayed the peace prospects now in sight via the compromise methods of U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

She was called out of retirement in March 1969, as a compromise premier to replace the late Levi Eshkol. She was ailing and nervous about leading the country, but she was too strong-minded to be a lame duck leader.

She began by choking off the arguments in Israel over how much to surrender in return for peace with the Arabs.

"The Arabs don't want peace," she would say. "So there is no point in the Jews arguing about it."

She refused to deal with Palestinians. To her, "there is no such thing as Palestine. I once had a Palestinian passport when Britain ruled this area. If there is a Palestine, where are its leaders? Why don't they step forward and negotiate with us?"

The answer was a bitter upsurge of guerrilla activity, culminating in the slaughter of Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympic games in 1972.

Israel's reprisals, approved by Mrs. Meir, were relentless.

Her thesis on war and peace was simple:

"When we came to the Jordan Valley — in the 1930s — did we want war with the Arabs? Were we sinning a great sin because we didn't want the valley any longer to be covered in marshes and malaria? We bought and paid for the land.... We said to the Arabs, 'Move over a bit, give us some room as well. Can't we live together in peace.'"

The strength of her personal convictions resulted in government policies that may last for years.

When the United Nations and others demanded that Israel relinquish Arab East Jerusalem, captured in 1967, she made it plain that the Holy City was now a permanent part of Israel.

The memory of the Jews as an oppressed people — the pogroms in the Russia of her childhood, the Nazis in World War II — governed her thinking.

She had forged a healthy relationship with President Nixon, assuring Israel of arms supplies, and she would later call this one of her greatest achievements.

Reliance on the United States has become a mainstay of Israeli policy. Israel's new premier, Yitzhak Rabin, said the relations Mrs. Meir developed with Washington were a key part of his government program.

In the Golda years, Israel enjoyed the greatest prosperity in its short history. With foreign investment and immigrants pouring in after the triumph of the 1967 six-day war, business boomed, exports leaped, and Israelis who remembered eating grass during the 1948 siege of Jerusalem started eating steaks. The boom was due to circumstances, not Mrs. Meir, but it came while she was in office.

With the prosperity came leisure and comfort, however, and many Israelis became more interested in television and acquiring pedigreed dogs than in the Zionist ideals of building the state. Mrs. Meir and her generation bemoaned the new thirst for materialism.

Even with inflation and the economic slump that followed last October's war, the appetite for the good life grew.

While Mrs. Meir was engrossed with foreign affairs, the country was faltering domestically. Few Israeli leaders — certainly not Mrs. Meir — were noticing the social ills likely to result from the young nation's industrial boom. No one accused Mrs. Meir of malpractice, but she was widely criticized for having left domestic affairs slide.

"She had unconditional faith in her finance minister, and she was hypnotized by the quantitative growth of the economy, so she ignored completely its side-effects," says Yitzhak BenAharon, a former labor union chief who dubbed her "Queen Victoria."

It took the October fighting to bring to a boil the discontent that had been building even as she triumphed in foreign affairs. And for the first time, the grievances were thrown directly at her.

But although she was blamed for Israel's war failures, she rose to what many consider her greatest in "those dark hours when we thought we might lose." An inquiry into the war concluded that she worked "with decisiveness and healthy sense of responsibility."

Today she admits "I will never be the same again" after the war.

Perhaps this is the reason why the time for retirement had come to the lady with a preference for blue dresses and cigarettes.

She put it as simply as ever, "I am exhausted. I can no longer carry the burden. I have reached the end of the road."

Golda's road goes on, however, and the country is likely to follow it for some time to come. In a 19-page speech to parliament on the plans of his new government, Rabin outlined hardly a new move that had not been charted by Mrs. Meir.

Mrs. Meir's public presence is regarded in some quarters as one that provided years of calm and confidence that permitted Israel to build itself beyond the dreams of the early settler. Admirers say her steely determination helped the country survive when the calm ended.

Traveling nurse substitutes for doctor in rural area

By MIKE SILVERMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In Kansas' Elk County, a 650-square-mile stretch of wheat and cattleland, there have been no doctors for 15 years. Just "Murphy" the traveling nurse.

"Murphy," as Ruth Murphy, R.N., is known affectionately to Elk County's 3,700 residents, figures she has made about 4,500 house calls a year since she set up a series of free clinics in 1957 with a $10,000 grant from the county.

Mrs. Murphy, 54, is being honored by the American Nurses' Association convention here today with the first Honorary Nurse Practitioner award. The award is to be given every other year to a registered nurse who has done an outstanding job in providing direct patient care.

"When I started in 1957, we had three doctors in the county," Mrs. Murphy recalled Tuesday. "But then two of them died and one moved away.

"I'd go to make a prearranged house call and find 12 patients there waiting to see me," she said. "That's when I knew something had to be done."

Elk County, 90 miles east of Wichita in southeastern Kansas, lack doctors. It also has no hospital, no X-ray unit, no public transportation. Nearly one-third of its residents are over 65. The nearest hospital is 50 miles away, in Independence.

She set up her main clinic in the courthouse building in Howard, where she lived with her husband and four children. She devotes one day a week to house calls, although she makes emergency calls at any time of day or night. She also began bringing a portable version of the clinic to the county's other towns.

A few years ago, federal funds enabled Mrs. Murphy to increase her budget to $24,000 and hire another nurse, Barbara Kitchens. She would like to hire at least one more nurse and still dreams of attracting a doctor back to Elk County.

"The last time one came by who was interested a couple of years ago, I told him we could refer him 500 patients the first day," Mrs. Murphy said. "We never saw him again."

2 brothers drown in swimming pool

The bodies of Billy Becker, 8, and Chris Becker, 6, were found at the bottom of the pool. They were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Becker of Westerville.

Marietta honored

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — "The historical importance of Marietta to the growth of what became the State of Ohio is tremendous," Gov. John Gilligan said Wednesday in designating Marietta a national Bicentennial City.

Gilligan presented officials with a Bicentennial Flag and a plaque during ceremonies singling out Marietta for recognition as the nation approaches the 200th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

"The New England settlers who founded this community foresaw that it would play a vital role as a river port and shipbuilding center for the whole Northwest Territory," the governor said.

"The pioneer spirit which established Marietta as the first settlement in the Northwest Territory lives today in the growth and vitality of this part of Ohio," he added.

Appeal dismissal of electrical suit

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — The Butler County Citizens Committee Wednesday appealed the dismissal of their suit to block the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. from running steel towers and transmission wires from Cincinnati to Seven Mile.

Butler Common Pleas Court Judge Fred B. Cramer dismissed the suit saying the 247 property owners still could protest when the utility seeks to acquire land through eminent domain.

The property owners claim the lines would harm the esthetics of the area. The appeal was made to the First Ohio District Court of Appeals.

Career perhaps hereditary for new police dispatcher

By MARK THELLMANN

In a law enforcement career hereditary?

Maybe so, for Rick A. Williams, 18, the newest addition to the Washington C.H. Police Department. Two of his relatives have followed the law enforcement path previous to his becoming a police dispatcher.

Williams admitted having his interest spurred by relatives who are Ohio Highway patrolmen.

"I have always been interested in working with people and serving society. Joining the Washington C.H. Police Department is enabling me to do this. It presents a challenge and I don't think I'll ever be bored," he explained.

He graduated from Hillsboro High School in 1973 and worked in a grocery store for a year while studing criminology at the Ohio University branch campus in Chillicothe.

He has been a farm boy all his life and still retains an active membership in the Future Farmer's of America organization. Williams also enjoys the sport of basketball and played during his high school years.

WHEN ASKED how he landed the dispatcher job, Rick said, "A couple friends in the Washington C.H. Police Department told me about the opening and I jumped at the chance. I'm really glad I got it!"

He lives with his mother, Mrs. Naomi Williams, in Hillsboro, but will move to Washington C.H. in the near future.

Also employed as a police dispatcher recently was Joe A. Downs.

He is a 1973 Washington Senior High School graduate who went on to study criminology and police scence at Sinclair Community College in Dayton and the Ohio University branch campus in Chillicothe.

While in high school, Downs played basketball and worked as a dispatcher for the Fayette Conty Sheriff's Department through the distributive education program at Washington Seniro High Schoo.

The 20-year-old Downs resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Down at 811 S. Main St.

When asked why he selected a law enforcement career, he replied, "I've known a lot of good people throughout my life and I felt it was time to meet some bad ones to maintain a balance. Seriously though, I enjoy working with people and my job offers a lot of exposure to people from every walk of life. This is very interesting."

Walk across Ohio planned by teachers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four teachers from New Hampshire's Timberlane School District will walk across Ohio June 15-24 as part of a crosscountry hike to dramatize the longest teachers' strike in the nation's history.

The Ohio Education Association said the striking teachers will enter Ohio at Conneaut and plan to walk to Chicago for the June 28-July 3 meeting of the National Education Association.

Teachers in Timberlane, a regional district serving Atkinson, N. H., and other communities, walked off the job Feb. 26 in a dispute with the board of education.

GOP leadership gives Perk shove

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Dissatisfaction among national Republican leaders with Cleveland Mayor Ralph J. Perk's race for the U.S. Senate against John Glenn could lead to the campaign's losing its "key district" label, the Plain Dealer said Wednesday.

The newspaper quoted a source on the national Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee that Perk could lose the committee's financial and technical backing if the campaign does not gain some "forward movement."

"We're not going to support losers. The campaign is going to have to demonstrate it's flying," the source said.

The Perk-Glenn contest has been one of the national committee's eight key races. Last year, the committee gave eight candidates up to $75,000 each.

The Plain Dealer said Perk was warned last week by Buehl J. Berentsen, executive director of the campaign committee, that his campaign could stand improvement.

Buehl declined comment and Perk denied it.

"I think it's going great," Perk said of the campaign.

However, Perk's campaign manager Robert T. Bennett admitted the campaign was a month to six weeks behind schedule. He blamed money problems.

"We feel it will take another six weeks to get it rolling, and we will," Bennett said.

Bennett said the GOP already has supplied two thirds of the $30,000 the Perk campaign has received toward a budget of $750,000. Bennett said no real fund-raising effort has been mounted, yet.

Ohio GOP Chairman Kent B. McGough said Perk's campaign was as well organized as any in the state except that of Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Perk's staff claims 11 fulltime workers and an office in Columbus. Offices are scheduled to open this summer in Cincinnati, Akron, Canton, Dayton and Youngstown.

State land farming boost eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Mental Health Director Kenneth Gaver is expected to present to Gov. John Gilligan a plan for expanding farming operations on state lands, a spokesman in the governor's office says.

The proposal appears to reverse the position taken by the administration last year in backing sales of state farm lands, including those at the Mansfield Reformatory.

But the spokesman said the plans were being prepared at Gaver's initiative and the governor apparently had not been consulted yet.

Possible plans for "an intensified farming operation in future years" were revealed in two letters dealing with proposed production at the Osborn Farm in Erie County.

One, written by Gaver to Sen. Paul Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, said the Department of Mental Health and Retardation was reviewing the status of both its own lands and those of the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction.

Pretty plants taken by thief

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Joanna Williams, 78, didn't know the identity of the pretty green plants she so carefully tended. But police say they bet the person who stole them did.

"I was just waiting for them to bloom to find out what they were when someone stole all of my plants," Mrs. Williams said Wednesday after learning she had been a marijuana farmer.

Mrs. Williams said the plants were left behind by a young tenant who moved.

Baby boy injured in tenement fall

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — An 11-month-old baby boy remained in serious condition today after plunging four stories from a tenement bedroom to the concrete sidewalk Wednesday.

Police said Glenus Lee Isaac's bed was only six inches below an open window. They speculated that the tot climbed up to the window sill and fell.

Brenda Sawyer, 12, the babysitter, had fallen asleep in a nearby bed, police said.

Discrimination said more sophisticated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Blatant discriminatory practices of a few years ago now are sophisticatedly camouflaged by persons who seek to evade equal opportunity standards, a federal housing official said Wednesday.

Thomas O. Jenkins, acting deputy assistant secretary for equal opportunity in the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said new stumbling blocks are cropping up in each of the 10 regions nationwide.

In Ohio, he said equal housing is more of a problem in sales than rental opportunities.

"We've discovered some local ordinances that do away with for-sale signs," he said. "We have to be aware of that kind of thing so we can change our approach."

Jenkins held a news conference at the start of a six-state seminar which will conclude Saturday.

He said HUD agencies do not want to be policing units. "But where we do not get the kind of voluntary action we seek . . . we will enforce the laws." He said equal housing opportunity is not interpreted at HUD to dictate integrated housing.

"We want the minority person to have the choice in housing options . . . to have the right to live where he wants to live," he said.

Jenkins refuted the idea that requirements for equal job opportunities for minorities amount to quotas in hiring.

"If there is a federal contract or a business is working with HUD, they have to agree to do the same thing we're trying to do," he said.

He said governments and business, professional and civil rights groups from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin have participated in the fair housing and equal opportunity sessions.

Traffic Court

Two persons were fined in Municipal Court Wednesday afternoon they pleaded guilty to traffic charges, and six other persons forfeited bond.

Eustace Adkins, 56, of 231 Bell Ave., was fined $100, sentenced to three days in jail and was given a 30-day suspension of his operator's license after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Acting Judge John P. Case, who presided, ordered that an additional 27 days of the jail sentence be suspended. Adkins had been arrested by city police.

Edward Weeks, 21, Cleveland, was fined $60 for driving without an operator's license. He had been arrested by Sheriff's deputies.

Six other persons arrested by city police forfeited bond.

Ricky L. Smith, 18, of 206 Buckeye Rd., $25, improper passing.

Wendell J. Cubbage, 24, Rt. 4, Washington C.H., $25, improper passing.

Leonard J. Robinson, 26, of 521 Gibbs Ave., $25, speeding.

Rhodes, Perk seek GM plant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — General Motors Corp. has been approached by former Gov. James A. Rhodes and Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk about the possibility of locating a major new facility near Ohio's largest city.

Rhodes said in a statement issued Wednesday he and Perk had conferred with GM's president, Edward M. Cole, in Detroit Tuesday.

Rhodes said Cole at that time expressed an interest "in locating a new GM manufacturing operation in the Cadillac Tank plant that is now under the control of the General Services Administration."

The purchasing power of U.S. families nearly doubled in 25 years (taking inflation into account).

More highway funds slated

WASHINGTON—Congressman William H. Harsha today announced that Ohio will receive an additional $21 million from the U.S. Department of Transportation to be applied to existing highway construction projects throughout the state during fiscal year 1974.

Harsha further stated that these funds are derived from unspent allocations to the 50 states that have been returned at the end of the current fiscal period. Ohio will have discretionary spending authority over the monies.

Constitutional changes voted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislative action was completed early today on two proposed constitutional changes which are scheduled to appear on the November ballot.

One would expand the state's revenue bond financing program to include capital improvements for gas and electric utility services.

The other would do away with the one-year limitation on the term of the superintendent of public works. He then would serve at the pleasure of the governor, the same as other cabinet members.

Five auto mishaps checked

A Vine Street man was charged with reckless operation by Washington C.H. police officers and the Fayette County Sheriff's Department investigated four accidents.

Richard A. Jobst, 24, of 625 Vine St., was charged with reckless operation by city police at 8:38 p.m. Tuesday.

Jobst told police he couldn't control his car when it pulled to the right as he headed west on Cherry Street, near the Sycaromore Street intersection.

His car went off the road and collided with the southwest corner of a building at 410 Cherry St., owned by James A. McCoy, 630 W. Oakland Ave.

The building was severely damaged and the car moderately damaged, police said.

The concrete mixer on a truck driven by George E. Montgomery, 26, Greenfield, raised up and knocked down power lines owned by the Dayton Power and Light Co., 101 E. East St., and cable owned by the Court Cable Co., 218 East St., at 9:10 p.m. Wednesday.

The mishap occurred on Ohio 41, one-tenth mile north of the U.S. 35 bypass, Fayette County Sheriff's deputies reported.

Moderate damage was reported to a car driven by Dan D. Ervin, 17, Jeffersonville, when it went out of control and off the right side of Harold Road, 200 feet west of Bookwalter. Wet pavement was blamed for the incident which occurred at 1:45 p.m. Ervin was uninjured, sheriff's deputies reported.

An accident occurred at 1:35 p.m. Wednesday, between cars driven by Thomas R. Edwards, 18, of 1067 Springdale Dr. and Thomas P. Long, 70, Grove City.

Sheriff's deputies reported moderate damage to both vehicles, but no injuries.

A garden tractor came loose and fell off the truck transporting it, driven by John Lyle Crummy, 45, of 159 Holly Dr., at 3:10 p.m. Friday, sheriff's deputies reported today.

The mishap occurred on Prairie Road in Union Township and the tractor, owned by Ralph Stritenberger, Rt. 4, incurred heavy damage when it fell off and struck a fence owned by Robert Hays, Rt. 4.

Energy problems under discussion

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— The most important challenge in finding a satisfactory energy future will be facing the tradeoffs necessary between energy, environment, economy and life styles, the assistant U.S. secretary of commerce for science and technology said Wednesday.

"We must be informed, make the wisest choices we can, and then have the strength of purpose, whether in times of apparent plenty or times of want, to hold to our course," said Betsy Ancker-Johnson.

Mrs. Ancker-Johnson reviewed the nation's energy problems in an address to the Cleveland Engineering Society.

Deaths of Ohioans probed in Mexico

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio attorney says the U. S. consul general in Mexico is helping him probe the deaths of two Ohioans in a Mexican rejuvenation clinic.

Thomas Spellerberg of Tiffin, Seneca County prosecutor, said Consul General Peter J. Peterson is working to find a Mexican forensic pathologist to perform autopsies on the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pepin of New Riegel, Ohio.

Pepin, 68, died May 25. His wife, Gladys, 70, died June 2, the day after she was told of her husband's death, according to Charles Jenkins, 68, another member of the party.

Jenkins' 67-year-old wife was listed in fair condition at Tiffin Mercy Hospital, recovering from temporary blindness which Jenkins said struck her at the clinic.

"It was a nightmare trip," Jenkins said in a telephone interview from his home in New Riegel.

Jenkins, who said he's a freelance writer in health foods and organic gardening, initiated the trip, he said. He and his wife were going to Mexico to do an article on the clinic.

The Pepins, family friends, decided to accompany them as a vacation, Jenkins said. The four left for Mexico about May 15.

"I was resting on the advice of another doctor I know in Mexico," Jenkins said. "He had given me assurance they were a very worthwhile organization."

Jenkins said the clinic offered him and his wife free treatments as a base for the article. He said the Pepins decided to buy the treatment, though it was "relatively expensive."

He said in the first stage of treatment, an anaesthetic is administered and a chemical mask put on the face. Pepin was the last of the four to be prepared, Jenkins said, and was isolated from the rest.

For the next week, he said, when he or the others tried to ask about Pepin, they were told only the doctors "were having a hard time getting him to come out from under the effects of the anesthesia.

"The following Saturday (June 1), they broke the news to us," Jenkins said. Pepin had died a week earlier.

Jenkins said Mrs. Pepin was "extremely upset, naturally, but she was resolute and firm in her conviction that she was going to stay with us. She wasn't going to take a sedative or anything."

But Mrs. Pepin's condition deteriorated that night, Jenkins said, and she died early the next morning.

Penn Central Railroad faces repair demand

LOVELAND, Ohio (AP) — City Manager Ray Niemi was ordered by the city to demand the Penn Central Railroad repair not only crossings in the city but ties, tracks and track beds.

Councilman Charles Hollarn called the tracks the "biggest potential cause of tragedy in Loveland."

Council said it was considering blocking all trains through the city until repairs are made.

New help for stutterers developed by psychologist

CHICAGO (AP) — A University of Chicago psychologist has developed a method of training stutterers to speak fluently almost immediately.

Dr. Israel Goldiamond's program does not attack the underlying cause of stuttering, which may not be known, but produces a new, fluent speech pattern.

All 54 patients who have completed the program since 1967 are able to speak fluently without stuttering. Others dropped out before completion when they developed fluency.

An estimated 1 to 3 per cent of American males have a stuttering problem, outnumbering female stutterers eight to one.

In developing the therapeutic program, Goldiamond experimented with dozens of stutterers for five years. Some required as many as 200 sessions. Now, in 30 or fewer 45-minute sessions, stuttering can be eliminated.

He said patient records show their stuttering disappears almost immediately once they begin the program. Continuation speeds up their speech and reinforces what they have learned, and followups show improvement is maintained over the years, Goldiamond said.

The program, which costs a patient $600, works this way:

The subject sits in a booth and reads as rapidly as possible words projected onto a screen. His voice is recorded and he hears himself simultaneously as he reads, with a delay of a fraction of a second.

To overcome this echo chamber effect, stutterers try exaggerating lip movements, lowering their voices, prolonging sounds or by just not listening.

Goldiamond emphasizes the slower, prolonged speech, since this is the least unnatural change from normal speech. He said he found that even after the delayed feedback of speech was eliminated patients continued to speak this way.

The stutterer then moves to other phases more nearly like everyday situations: Reading plays and conversation with a therapist.

The stutterer also is taught how to juncture his speech—to speak in phases common to the language, pausing at appropriate places.

Goldiamond says, "We have decided that we are not really getting rid of stuttering. We are teaching a new speech pattern."

Cincinnati to appeal housing decision

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati City Council voted Wednesday to appeal a court decision which declared its new housing inspection law unconstitutional.

The law, scheduled to take effect June 28, would require all homeowners to pay for a housing inspection by the city before placing it on the market.

Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge Robert Black said the law was unenforceable, vague and unconstitutional.

New construction booming here

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

Three years ago the Washington C.H. area appeared to be heading toward a downhill economic course when the National Cash Register Co., here closed and left about 500 workers idle.

However, an upswing in the economy surfaced following spirited actions by the city's Community Improvement Corporation, the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, city and county officials and a number of residents.

The progress has been almost phenominal!

NOW at least two industries have selected Washington C.H.'s Industrial Park as the site for new plants, and other building activity here, both commercial and residential, is booming.

Figures released recently by City Manager Dan Wolford disclose that more than $8.7 million in new construction is presently under way in Washington C.H. alone. And the trend promises to continue.

By sharp contrast, commercial and residential developers had less than $700,000 invested in building and remodeling projects during 1973.

The astronomical $8.7 million figure would mushroom if the new construction outside the city's corporation limits was included.

Wolford said the $8.7 million figure includes eight commercial-industrial construction projects and 12 residential building programs.

The bulk of the gigantic construction digit is included in the eight commercial-industrial projects, estimated at $7,940,000. The residential projects are worth $276,000, according to Wolford's figures.

A further breakdown discloses $234,000 in seven multi-family dwellings; $34,800 for room additions and other home improvements; $17,340 for residential garages; $205,000 for new church buildings, and $3,000 for miscellaneous construction, including swimming pools and patios.

Topping the hefty construction list are the two new industries in the city's Industrial Park.

Cor Tec, Inc., Auburn, Wash., is erecting a 60,000-square foot factory building and a 2,400-square foot, two-story office building in the Industrial Park.

The firm, which manufactures fiberglass reinforced panels for use in the construction of trailer vans and marine shipping containers, anticipates and initial employment of 50 persons, with prospects of expanding the work force to 90 later.

The Great Oaks Construction Co., of Washington C.H., will erect the plant and office building. An Armco Steel Corp. building will be used for manufacturing and the office building will be of masonry construction. Both are being constructed on a 29-acre tract of land purchased from Chase Brass, Inc. The location is on Kenskill Avenue, just east of the Mead Containers plant.

RAVEN INDUSTRIES, Inc., headquartered in Sioux Falls, S.D., will be constructing a plastics division plant in the Industrial Park. The company holds a purchase option on 6.072 acres, adjoining property owned by B & H Enterprises.

The plastics firm experts to launch construction of a 17,000-square foot structure soon and will employ 14 persons initially. The firm produces fiberglass and polyethylene tanks for agricultural, industrial and water conditioning us.

However, the two industries are not the only new tenants of the city's Industrial Park.

B & H Enterprises is erecting a 42,750-square foot pre-engineered steel building on a 6.074-acre tract in the Industrial Park.

Modern Sales and Construction Co., a Wilmington-based firm and local distributer of Armco Steel Corp. buildings, is handling the general construction.

No definite tenant has been announced and the building is being constructed in such a manner that provisions can be suited to specific needs of prospective occupants.

Heading the commercial construction in Washington C.H. is the Kroger Co. market and Super-X drug store complex on Clinton Avenue.

The actual building permit, estimated at $6 million, was issued in February to the Breyfogle Construction Co., of Columbus. The permit calls for 46,578-square foot of construction space.

Construction of the large shopping complex included the razing of more than a dozen residence and commercial buildings.

The real estate transaction paving the way for the new super store included an exchange of locations between the Kroger Co., now operating at 238 S. Main St., and Don's Auto Sales, 518 Clinton Ave., which occupies a part of the new Kroger site.

ON THE OPPOSITE EDGE of Washington C.H., a flurry of building activity is progressing.

Developers Diversified, a shopping center development firm headquartered in the Cleveland suburb of Beechwood, is constructing a commercial shipping development which will include a K-Mart department store, operated by the S. S. Kresge Co.

The construction of the K-Mart store is the first in a series of developments on the north side of Columbus Avenue. Estimated cost is $550,000.

The 14.546-acre tract is located just east of a parking lot owned by Carroll Halliday, Inc., and directly across Columbus Avenue from the entrance to the Storybrook Addition. The K-Mark store will be housed in a 39,737-square foot pre-engineered steel structure, manufactured by the Armco Steel Corp. plant here.

Health Care Facilities, Inc., is progressing rapidly in the construction of a new 100-bed, long-term comprehensive health care facility on a three-acre tract acquired from the Courthouse Development Corp. in the Storybrook Addition on Glenn Avenue.

The facility, which will be known as the Courthouse Manor Nursing Home, will have 96 semi-private beds and four private rooms. The facility will have a staff of 60 employes.

McDONALD'S a nationally-known food chain, is constructing a 39,066-cubic foot building on Elm Street at Olive Street across from the Fayette County Bank on land acquired from the Fayette Center partners.

The cost estimate for the building which will be erected by the Miller Construction Co., of Columbus, is expected to be well up in six figures. More than 50 parking spaces will be provided.

Additionally on the eastern edge of the city, preliminary plans have been submitted for the construction of an office-type commercial complex, similar to the Fayette Center structure, on a 5.794-acre tract situated 428 feet east of Elm Street between the Washington Square Shooping Center and land owned by the Washington C.H. Board of Education.

An application to have the land rezoned from residential to commercial has been filed by Donald P. Woods, 133 W. Circle Ave.

Closer to the downtown business district, building activity is also spurting.

The First National Bank of Washington C.H., has nearly completed the expansion of its present property at the intersection of S. North and East streets with a full-service office and increased drive-in facilities.

The estimated $125,000 addition is being connected to the present drive-in structure and will be known as the bank's East Office. The new facility will provide 24-hour banking service.

The new facility will face North Street with drive-in facilities located in the rear. The Boa Construction Co., of Columbus, is the general contractor. The lot will be landscaped.

A NEW 3,000-square foot office building at 402 E. Court Street is being constructed by the Great Oaks Construction Co. for the Federal Land Bank, of Washington C.H. The Federal Land Bank's present location is at 420 E. Court Street.

The one-floor structure will be a 55-by-165 foot Williamsburg style building and a 55-by-100 foot area will be provided for employe customer parking. A brick house on the lot, formerly owned by Bud Brownell, was razed to permit construction.

A new and larger sanctuary is presently in its final construction stages at the First Baptist Church, at the corner of S. North and East streets.

The old sanctuary portion of the church was razed to permit the construction of the new one, which will have confortable accommodations for over 300 persons.

A courtyard will be situated at the corner of East and North streets with a ground level entrance from it facing North Street.

Another church entering into the building flurry is the First Church of God, 610 Harrison St.

The church is erecting a new sanctuary building, at an estimated cost of $70,000, just southeast of the present Fellowship Hall. The sanctuary will have a seating capacity for nearly 250 persons. The present sanctuary, built over 50 years ago, is scheduled for demolition after the new one is completed.

OUTSIDE WASHINGTON C.H., the new construction is topped by the 184-room Days Inn Motel, I-71-U.S. 35.

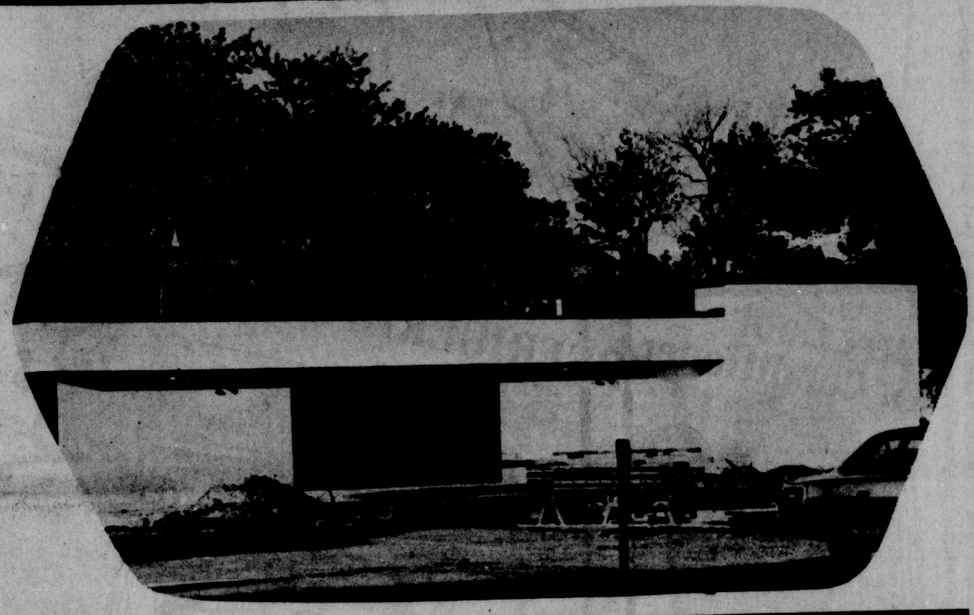

The Imperial Construction Co., Atlanta, Ga., is the general contractor for the budget motel which will have a total of three buildings when all phases of the construction are complete. Two of the buildings will have 62 rooms each and the other 60 rooms. The third building will house a Tasty World Restaurant with a 114-person seating capacity. The cost for the motel is about $1,600,000 and will include a swimming pool and budget gasoline station.

Stock sales by banks harmful

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Trouble is something you seldom get just a little of. When it arrives in your life you may expect more to follow until troubles are holding a convention in your life. Ask a stock broker.

The comptroller of the currency, James E. Smith, has just ruled that banks can continue to offer securities to their customers, in direct competition with brokers, who already feel they are at the bottom of a heap.

It would take too long to list these difficulties, but they include a loss of customer confidence and business, high interest rates that draw money from the market, and a general inability to remain consistently profitable.

The latest action, therefore, seems like just another problem piled upon the others, but it may be far more than it: It pits two entire industries against each other, and there is no question which is stronger. Banking is.

Banks have the assets, the flexibility, the marketing power, the personnel, the accounting techniques, the outlets. Far more important, they already have the customers. Almost everyone uses a bank.

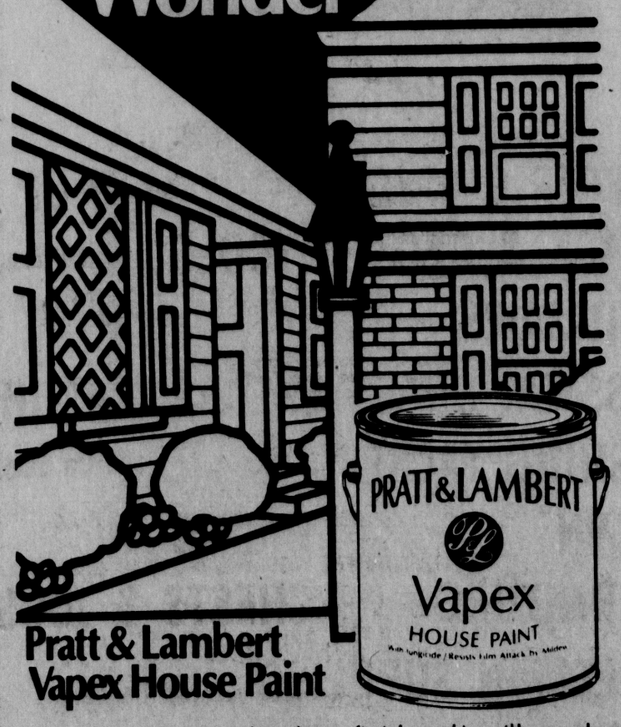

How simple it is therefore, for a bank that already provides a dozen customer services to simply offer another one, as some already have. How simple to transfer $50 from the checking account to the stock account.

The brokers, on the other hand, don't have nearly the marketbasket of products or the financial power of the banks, although this perhaps is not a critical criterion. Banks are restricted geographically, brokers are not.

Nevertheless, a comparison of Merrill Lynch, the biggest broker, with Bank of America, the biggest bank, is revealing. The formr reported assets of $3.7 billion on March 30, 1973. At the close of 1973, Bank of America had $49.4 billion in resources.

If the comptrollers' ruling stands, the operations of mutual funds are likely to be hurt the most. Already their assets are down to less than $45 billion after reaching close to $60 billion.

Four city zoners resign from posts

Four members of the five-man Washington C. H. Zoning Board of Appeals resigned and three new members were appointed to fill their vacancies during the regular meeting of Washington C. H. City Council Wednesday night.

Resigning from the zoning board were Denzil L. Leggett, 1722 Green Valley Road, Elmer N. Reed, 619 Fairway Drive, Carl R. Elberfeld, 426 Rawlings St., and Lee B. Lynch Jr., 1276 Dayton Ave.

Leggett, Reed and Elberfeld cited personal reasons in their letters of resignation to Council, while Lynch resigned since he is being transferred to Texas where he has been assigned to a position with a new Armco Steel Corp. plant. Resolutions expressing Council's appreciation to the resigning members were approved.

The fifth member of the zoning board, Horace L. Jacobs, 123 Clearview Road, was reappointed to a three-year term. Jacobs' new term was effective Jan. 1.

Appointed to the board were Lawrence J. Lehman, 828 Willard St., John F. Morris, 793 McLean St., and Harold R. Ross, 908 Dayton Ave.

Ross was appointed to fill Lynch's unexpired term on the board.

The appointments of Lehman, Morris and Ross leave one vacancy to be filled by City Council.

Leggett and Reed had served lengthy terms on the board while Elberfeld was completing his second term.

Council members also reviewed a number of other miscellaneous matters during the meeting.

ALLEY PETITION

A petition, bearing signatures of 15 businessmen and property owners in the downtown area, was presented to Council requesting that two alleys in the downtown business district be formally named. The petition, requesting that the alley running Fayette Street to North Street and another running from Court Street to East Street be named, was presented by Tom Murray, 235½ E. Court St. Council said it would study the request.

NO PARKING SIGNS

City Manager Dan Wolford reported that no parking and 25 mile per hour signs will be posted in the near future on Millikan Avenue at the girls softball diamond in an attempt to clear recent traffic problems in the Eyman Park area.

MUNY COURT REQUESTS

Council reviewed two formal requests submitted by Municipal Court officials. One request dealt with the purchase of a window-type air conditioning unit for the office area in the court. Council will repair a unit in the courtroom. The request was approved. Council tabled a request by Municipal Court officials to purchase a insulated steel safe, priced at $565.95. The safe, according to Judge Reed M. Winegardner, will be used to secure evidence and cash.

MAINTENANCE COMPLAINTS

Wolford said Glenn Tatman, city inspector, is presently checking incidents where weeds have grown tall at residences in the city. Tatman is serving weekly notices to the property owners to remedy the situations.

SEWER ODOR PROBLEM

It was reported that city sewer treatment plant personnel are attempting to mask foul odors from the facility. Wolford explained that the plant uses bacteria in its treatment process and the operation requires large amounts of oxygen. He said when the bacteria die, because of a lack of oxygen, the odor results. He also reported to Council members that the plant handled over 170 million gallons of flow during the first three months of the year which is equivalent to a population of 31,500.

LESS FIRES HERE

Washington C. H. Fire Chief Maynard L. (Joe) Denen told Council members that there were less fires here in the first half of this year than last. He cited enforcement of the no burning ordinance and the wet season as the primary reasons. Denen also reported on a disaster preparedness meeting held recently at the fire department. Over 100 persons attended.

STOP SIGN REQUEST

Councilman Hugh S. (Bud) Patton said that Oak Street residents have requested a stop sign at the intersection of Oak and Harrison streets. Council approved the request and decided to prepare legislation dealing with a recommended four-way stop for the intersection.

GAS PRICE POSTING

Council member Joseph O'Brien queried Gary Smith, city solicitor, about the prospect of drafting an ordinance to deal with posting gasoline prices on pumps at service stations in Washington C. H. Smith said he is presently waiting to receive a copy of a similar ordinance from Columbus so that he can pattern the city's after it. The city of Columbus recently enacted legislation on posting gas prices.

TRUCK REROUTING

A request was presented by Councilman Ralph Cook to reroute truck traffic on U.S. 22-E over the U.S. 35 bypass to prevent the trucks from traveling through the city. Cook also requested that the city check into the possibility of erecting signs to assist motorists to I-71.

PARKING METER REQUEST

Methodists support amnesty

LAKESIDE, Ohio (AP) — A supporter of blanket amnesty for draft evaders says he is satisfied with the stand of the West Ohio Conference of the United Methodist Church favoring conditional pardon.

"We moved in one year from no amnesty to conditional amnesty," observed Dr. Paul Vandegriff of Toledo.

The proposal adopted by the conference Wednesday calls on President Nixon and Congress to create a selective review board for impartial hearings.

The board would be empowered to recommend amnesty, immunity, conditional amnesty or prosecution.

The Rev. Harold Vermillion of Madisonville, who said he served as a chaplain in Vietnam, offered the proposal after the Church-and-Society Section of the conference had voted to endorse unconditional amnesty.

Highlight of today's conference activities was to be the ordination tonight of more than 90 persons into the ministry by Bishop F. Gerald Ensley.

Bishop Ensley will announce changes in ministerial assignments Friday.

Wednesday night the conference was told by Bishop James Armstrong, who heads the denomination's Dakotas Area, that Christians are under a mandate to change the structure that allows the rich to get richer and the poor poorer.

But he said nothing will happen until local churches take action.

"It's time to quit selling the poor for a gun, a tank, a nuclear warhead," Bishop Armstrong declared.

Demo committee nearly doubled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 46 elected members of the Ohio Democratic Executive Committee expanded their ranks Wednesday night by naming 45 at-large members.

The committee renamed 27 old members and 18 new ones.

Gone from the committee is former Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King, still a Democratic National committeeman, and one of his chief backers in his unsuccessful fight to retain his labor job, James N. Iafelice of Cleveland.

State Democratic Chairman William William A. Lavelle said many of the spots were filled because of the positions held. He said labor officials, who got nine spots, were among them.

New AFL-CIO President Milan Marsh did not seek a spot on the committee but he designated six persons who were selected.

Lavelle passed out to the committee a list of names he screened. All were elected, despite some grumbling there weren't enough women represented.

"The county chairmen of the 12 metropolitan counties are automatically members," Lavelle said. "If there were women among them their names would have been there."

Lavelle said the 45 spots had to be taken from a list of 200 names that had been submitted. "There was just no way I could make everybody happy," he said.

The committee elected 12 vice chairmen, a largely honorary post. John Weithe of Cincinnati was elected first vice chairman and the others followed in numerical order.

State Rep. C. J. McLin of Dayton was elected secretary; Harry Heyman treasurer, and Barbara Hagy, assistant treasurer.

Gov. John J. Gilligan and several other state officials did not seek a spot on the committee but did recommend somebody for election.

Gilligan selected Eugene "Pete" O'Grady, former state chairman who now heads Gilligan's re-election campaign. U.S. Senate nominee John Glenn designated his campaign manager, William White.

U.S. Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum selected his law partner, Harold Stern of Cleveland.

The party names the extra members in order for the committee to represent as broad a spectrum of Democrats as possible, Lavelle said.

The original 46 members were elected in the 23 congressional districts in the May 7 primary, a man and woman from each district.

Telephone cable project finished

LEESBURG — Completion of a major cable addition for growth in the Leesburg exchange was announced today by the General Telephone Co. of Ohio.

Thomas R. O'Neil, Wilmington customer service manager, said the $22,100 project was designed to upgrade present services and for future growth in the area.

Initial construction on the project was started last November. Where possible the new cable was buried. Portions of the new cable will replace existing facilities for maintenance reasons.

"Cable and equipment additions of this size are made according to needs indicated by our studies and forecasts," O'Neil said. "This enables the company to have facilities available for customers when needed."

The Leesburg exchange serves 1,035 telephones in a 56.4 square mile area of Clinton, Highland and Fayette counties.

Washington C.H. City Council Wednesday night approved the appointment of Bill Duncan as superintendent of the city street department.

Transit tax authority wins approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Financially troubled big city transit systems apparently will get the chance to ask local voters one time to impose a piggyback sales tax on themselves.

The legislature approved and sent to Gov. John J. Gilligan Wednesday an emergency bill aimed specifically at problems of the beleaguered Cleveland Transit System.

Cleveland legislators worked long and hard to secure passage, but they pointed out it could be of help to transit systems in other areas of the state.

It permits a county or regional transit system, with voter approval, to levy a piggyback sales tax of up to 1½ per cent for use either for operating expenses or capital improvements. The issue could be submitted to voters only in the November election.

Backers who said Cleveland's system lost $13 million over the past five years asserted it would give mass transit "a new tool." Revenues from the tax could be used to obtain matching grants of 80 per cent federal with 20 per cent local funds, they said.

The House watered down the Senate version of the measure, introduced in March by Sen. Paul R. Matia, R-25 Westlake. But it apparently was the only way to get the measure passed.

Big labor unions, especially the Ohio AFL-CIO, objected to an original provision that would have enabled a transit authority to enact an income tax of up to 1 per cent, in addition to the piggyback sales tax.

Retained in the measure was another provision that permits transit authorities to levy up to five mills on real estate. Existing property tax levies for transit purposes are limited to 1 per cent.

Boys State now open

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP) — Buckeye Boys State, largest of the citizenship schools conducted by the American Legion in all 50 states, opened at Ashland College with some 1,360 high school seniors registering for the nine-day program.

Participants were expected to begin campaigning immediately for Saturday elections for city, county and state offices.

A number of prominent speakers will appear before the boys at evening assemblies, including state Legion Commander David A. Cropper tonight, Ohio Supreme Court Chief Justice C. William O'Neill on Sunday, Gov. John Gilligan on Monday and Lt. Gov. John Brown on Tuesday.

Key personnel from top state offices and departments also will participate in the workshop in government.

Boys State will close with graduation ceremonies Friday, June 21.

Reds bop Montreal, 3-1

MONTREAL (AP) — Shortstop Dave Concepcion admits his eyes are on the major league All Star game and he hopes to be the first Venezuelan since Luis Aparicio to be selected to play.

His game-winning single to center field in the fifth inning gave the Cincinnati Reds a 3-1 victory and salvaged one of three games in the series with the Montreal Expos Wednesday night.

"I don't even know what kind of a pitch I hit," said Concepcion, who was unable to play last year after being selected to represent the National League in the All Star game. He broke his leg.

"It means a lot to me. I want to be there," he said. "You get more respect, other people get to know you.

"And the people at home in Venezuela, they get excited. After Luis Aparicio, nobody from Venezuela made the All Star team."

The hit boosted Concepcion's batting average to .279.

"Aparicio, he was my hero. When I was a little kid I see him play. I go see him play maybe three times and he was just 27 then, still good."

Aparicio was released this spring at age 40.

Clay Kirby, 5-3, scattered seven hits in eight innings before asking relief help in the ninth inning. He said he injured his back.

Manager George "Sparky" Anderson said he had told all his pitchers before the game that the starters were going to stay in unless they were hurt. The bullpen is overworked, Anderson said.

Montreal's only run came in the fourth inning on Bob Bailey's double, a wild pitch by Kirby and Jim Cox' single.

The Reds put four hits together in the fifth inning, a single by Dan Driessen, a double by Terry Crowley and two more singles by Cesar Geronimo and Concepcion making the score 2-1.

Johnny Bench doubled in the sixth, moved to third on Tony Perez' single and scored on a sacrifice fly by Driessen.

The Reds play an exhibition game tonight at Detroit with the Tigers then return home Friday for three games with Philadelphia.

Little League sex barrier falls

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—Women have broken another sex barrier—Little League baseball.

If a gal can play shortstop better than she knits or cooks, there is a place for her in Little League's 9,100 leagues.

It all happened Wednesday when Little League Baseball, Inc., announced that because of "the changing social climate" girls can play on its teams.

The announcement was made by the organization's board and the trustee of the Little League Foundation, headquartered here.

The new policy is effective immediately.

The board said it has petitioned the U.S. House Judiciary Committee to introduce appropriate legislation to amend Littl League's federal charter under which it has operated since 1964.

The decision should end the numerous actions in American courts seeking to break Little League's sex barrier.

In a statement issued by Peter J. McGovern, board chairman and chief executive, the Little League said: "In reaching a decision on an issue of landmark significance, the board has taken the position that it would be imprudent for an organization as large and universally respected as ... Little League Baseball to allow itself to become embroiled in a public controversy. Implication that the program is unwilling to change or incompetent to solve its own problems is simply not true...."

Whether girls play would depend on managers and coaches of individual teams, the statement said. "The girls would have to prove equal competency in baseball skills, physical endowments and other attributes scaled as a basis for team selection."

McGovern said acceptance and screening of young girls should be done locally, and "in good faith and without prejudice."

He urged settlement of local squabbles by civil rights or human relations hearings.

Such groups as the National Organization for Women (NOW) and the American Civil Liberties Union have challenged the Little League in courts of nearly a dozen states.

The Little League began in 1939 in Williamsport with three teams and has grown to 9,100 leagues for 2.5 million youngsters in 31 nations. It is a private corporation operating under a federal charter. It has steadfastly opposed the sexual integration of its baseball program.

A New Jersey appeals court ruled in March that state Little League teams must let girls play. About a week later, the executive board of Little League, Inc., voted to appeal the ruling to the New Jersey Supreme Court.

Little League officials have attacked the female challenge on two fronts—legality and the safety and psychological needs of children.

Based on a decision in November 1973 of its Civil Rights Division, New Jersey became the first state to order Little League baseball teams to permit girls to play.

Later, Martha W. Griffins, D-Mich., said she planned to introduce legislation to amend the Little League charter to include the words "and girls."

McGovern said the 35-yearold Little League also would retain its separate and optional program for girls of Little League age. The Little League now has a program for 50,000 girls in the United States.

Herron key to Ashland title hopes

ROB HERRON

As Ashland College battles for honors in the NCAA College-Division Golf Nationals in Tampa, Florida this week, one of the main ingrediants to the Eagles' title chances is Rob Herron, a 1972 Washington Senior High School graduate.

Playing as the third or fourth man on the squad, Herron has been setting a torrid pace on the links with a 78.9 stroke average per 18 holes this season. He has helped Ashland to a 5-0 record and victories in three tournaments.

Ashland has several veterans in the lineup from teams which have placed 12th and 8th in the national tournaments during the past two seasons. The Eagles were third halfway through the national tournamment last year before hitting a slump over the last two days.

Ashland golf coach Bill Jones, said Herron is a big key to his team's performance and he must continue his consistency in the nationals. "His game should be perfect for the South Florida University golf course since the fairways are narrow and long," Jones stated.

Herron enjoyed an outstanding golf career with the Blue Lions. He won South Central Ohio League medalist honors in 1971 and 1972, while placing high in several other tournaments. He led his team to 10th place in the state finals in 1971. His record in matches was 93-20-1.

Rob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herron, who reside at 617 Oakland Ave.

World Cup play begins

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Soccer's World Cup, labeled by some the greatest show in professional sport, kicked off Thursday amid massive security and a lot of questions.

Reigning champion Brazil faced Yugoslavia in the opening match, a potential classic pitting Latin skills against European method. The 61,500-seat Wald Stadium in the woods outside Frankfurt long has been sold out.

West German police, fearful of terrorist attacks of the kind that brought tragedy to the Munich Olympics in 1972, assigned 10,000 men to security and crowd control for the 38-match tournament. Of these 10,000, some 1,200 will be watching the two final matches in Munich July 6 and 7, when U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is expected as guest of honor at the spectacle watched throughout the world by satellite telecast.

The questions over the tournament, apart from security, cover matters of tactics, soccer style and even the future shape of the competition itself.

The 16 teams in the finals, besides West Germany and Brazil—automatic qualifiers as host country and reigning champions—are survivors of regional competitions that started in 1972. They are Chile, East Germany, Australia, Scotland, Yugoslavia, Zaire, Holland, Sweden, Uruguay, Bulgaria, Argentina, Haiti, Italy and Poland.

This year's competition is played under a league system which eliminates the sudden death knockout-rounds employed in most previous World Cups. This could put a premium on cautious, defensive play. And that, the experts fear, would blunt the brilliant goal scoring which was a feature of the 1970 competition in Mexico.

Thus Italy, Uruguay and Argentina may figure high in the final reckoning—even though the bookies currently make West Germany and Brazil the favorites.

Italy has not conceded a goal in its last 11 international matches. The Italians were losing finalists in 1970, beaten 4-1 by Brazil.

Mac Phail sustains Cleveland forfeit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Indians had their day in court but still feel their forfeiture to the Texas Rangers was unfair.

Ted Bonda, Indians executive vice president, and Phil Seghi, general manager, traveled to New York Wednesday to present their protest views to American League President Lee MacPhail.

MacPhail turned them down.

Youth league roundup

Washington Little League

Downtown Drug and the Jets had little trouble in recording victories in the Washington Little League, Wednesday night. Downtown Drug defeated Mustangers 10-0, as Steven Pirtchet hurled a no-hitter; and the Jets blasted Charge-A-Checks 17-3.

Only two walks prevented Pirtchet from having a perfect game. He struck out 12 batters, as his teammates played errorless ball behind him.

Clark Lee, the home run leader in the Major League, belted his seventh homer of the season in the Jets' 14-run win. Brad Knisley added a pair of doubles to the attack for the Jets and Greg Bentley hit his second homer of the season for the losers.

In the Minor League, K of C nipped County Bank 12-10 and Roller Haven stopped Sagars 10-5.

Hitting two triples and a double, Brian Davis led an 18-hit attack for K of C. Tim Redman tripled and doubled and Mark Bentley doubled twice for the winners. Jeff Hollar homered for County Bank.

Ten walks and 18 hits aided Roller Haven's victory. Tracey Noel doubled and tripled for the losers.

Post 25 falls 3-1 to Post 757

BY LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor

CHILLICOTHE — It was just a matter of which team could make the best use of its four hits when Washington Court House Post 25 visited Chillicothe Post 757, Wednesday evening. Post 757 came up with three runs in the bottom half of the fourth inning to defeat Post 25 3-1 in South Central Ohio League American Legion play.

Except for one bad inning, Washington's Jeff Green and Chillicothe's Randy Hill were locked in a tremendous pitching duel throughout the contest. Both pitchers struck out seven batters, as Green walked four and hit one batter and Hill gave up two bases on balls during the contest.

One of the four hits yielded by Green was a towering home run hit by Post 757's center fielder Ron Rutherford. Rutherford's circuit came with one out in the fourth frame and the ball easily cleared the 385 foot marker in centerfield.

Rutherford's homer was one of two hits allowed by Green during Post 757's three-run uprising in the fourth frame. Following Rutherford's shot, right fielder Jim Whaley drew a walk and John Hernstein was hit by a pitch. Left fielder Jeff Allen brought Whaley and Hernstein across the plate when he lined a triple to dead right-center field. Although Allen was stranded at third base, Post 757 had all the runs they needed.

Steve Haines scored Post 25's lone run in the top of the sixth frame. Haines dropped a bunt down the third base line for his second infield hit of the contest. Center fielder Mark Johnson advanced Haines to second on a ground out and Haines stole third. Mark Scherer's sacrifice fly to center allowed Haines to score the only run of the game for Washington Court House.

Both teams threatened to score additional runs in the later innings. However, both attempts were thwarted.

In the bottom of the sixth, Rutherford walked and Whaley singled to put runners on first and second with no outs for Post 757. Rutherford was caught napping at second base when Post 25 catcher Paul England fired a perfect strike to cut him down. Jeff Wright popped up and Whaley was caught stealing to end the threat.

With one out in the final frame, Washington attempted to start a rally. Pat McNaughton singled into left-center field and pinch-hitter Gregg Cobb represented the tying run at the plate. Cobb drilled a two-strike pitch back to the warning track, but Rutherford hauled the ball in for the second out. Hill then buckled down to strike out pinch-hitter Mark Fisher for the final out of the game.

Both teams were playing the game short-handed. Post 25 was without the services of two of its players, while Post 757 had three regulars missing from the lineup.

Randy Reiber and Geoff Smith missed the trip to Chillicothe. Reiber, who pitches and plays left field, injured his shoulder while making a diving catch in the first inning against Greenfield. Smith is out with a leg injury and has yet to play this season.

Post 757 missed the services of shortstop Mark Bayless, second basemen John Shoemaker and catcher Steve Chester. Bayless is presently preparing for the North-South Ohio High School All-Star basketball game, while Shoemaker and Chester are playing in the East-West Ohio All-Star baseball game.

Post 757 is 5-2 in the SCOL. Post 25, which travels to Portsmouth for a doubleheader Saturday afternoon, is now 2-2 in the league.

Leo Hayden arrested on bad check charge

CHICAGO (AP) — Leo Hayden, former Ohio State football star, was released on bond Wednesday, and ordered back to St. Louis to settle charges that he wrote at least one check without sufficient funds.

Hayden was arrested earlier by FBI agents at the tryout camp of the Chicago Fire of the World Football League in Lake Forest.

Michael Geace signs with Reds organization

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Michael Grace, 17, a third baseman from Pontiac, Mich., has signed a contract with the Cincinnati Reds and has been assigned to the Reds' Billings, Mont., farm club.

Grace, selected second in the major league free agent draft by Cincinnati, batted .435 for Waterford Mott High School this season.

In his final game in the regional tourney finals in Michigan he hit a grand-slam home run.

Air Force increases co-ed jobs

RANDOLPH AFB, Tex. (AP) — There is a significant increase this year in jobs for enlisted women, according to officials at the U.S. Air Force Recruiting Service headquarters here, who have announced that the Air Force has openings for 77,882 men and women for the new fiscal year starting July 1.

The fiscal year 1975 goal for enlisted women is 10,000, a 25 per cent increase over last year, and half of the new enlistees will be recruited for technical jobs such as jet engine mechanics, electricians, missile mechanics and heating systems specialists.

Air Force recruiters will be looking for 1,328 officer candidates with college degrees. There are openings for 956 men and 372 women to enter Office Training School for Air Force Commissions.

Initial indications are that the Air Force will admit 1,500 personnel with prior military service if they meet the requirements of age and possess a skill that is in demand.

There are openings for 899 general duty nurses, an increase of about 200. The increase in opportunities for Air Force nurse duty stems from a relatively new program of using them as Nurse Practitioners, a role in which they assume more responsibility to help ease the workload of physicians.

Opening lead — eight of hearts.

Here is a fine hand played by Jim Jacoby of Richardson, Texas.

He got to three notrump and West led a heart. East won with the king and returned a heart to the ace. Jacoby played a low club from dummy, East rising with the ace and returning a heart to the queen to establish the suit.

Jacoby now cashed the K-Q-J of diamonds ending in dummy to produce this position:

The ace of diamonds was led from dummy and East had a choice of three discards he could make.

He could not afford to part with a spade, which would permit declarer to cash the ace, play a club to the king, and score the queen of spades for his ninth trick.

Nor could East spare a club, for that would permit declarer to win the rest of the tricks by playing a club to the king and a spade to the ace.

So East discarded the nine of hearts instead, apparently leaving himself in full command of the situation. But Jacoby countered with the extraordinary discard of the king of clubs on the ace of diamonds!

When he then led the jack of clubs from dummy, East could cash a club and a heart but had to yield the remaining tricks to dummy. And so, Jacoby made three notrump.

Diagnosing Appendicitis

We live in a rural area and we do not want to impose on our doctor for every slight complaint.

How can a mother distinguish between an ordinary stomach ache and appendicitis? This is such a common problem with our two pre-teen children.

Mrs. T.R.B., Ohio

Dear Mrs. B.:

Physicians and surgeons readily admit that the diagnosis of appendicitis, is difficult even with many years of experience.

The reason is that symptoms of appendicitis can be confusing and often resemble conditions far removed from this organ.

For example, it is not unusual for children to complain of abdominal pain when they have an ordinary sore throat and swollen glands. Associated with this can be the swelling of tiny glands in and around the intestines, producing a stomach ache.

You can readily see that it is virtually impossible to tell even the most astute and observing mother how to differentiate between a stomach ache and appendicitis.

When the stomach ache is associated with nausea, vomiting and fever, a doctor's advice is imperative.

The use of laxatives and enemas at a time like this can be hazardous if appendicitis is brewing.

For people in rural areas, telephone communication with the doctor can offer the assurance parents need. Doctors have a remarkable "ear" for the telephone evaluation of the potential seriousness of a condition.

I have a painful spur on my heel. Is this an early form of arthritis?

Mr. R. K., Tex.

Dear Mr. K.:

Spurs are deposits of calcium in the tendons of the muscles of the heel.

They are not a forerunner of arthritis. They can be exceedingly painful unless they are thoroughly protected by foam rubber sponges.

Surgery for this condition is safe, relatively simple and effective.

How to avoid future shock.

Tomorrow won't take care of itself. And, deep down, you know that. So you'd better do something about your future money needs today.

There's a painless way. Simply start building your nest egg a little at a time. It's easy when you buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

You can save as little or as much as you want. Just specify the amount. And it'll be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy Bonds.

Then, when the future arrives, you'll be better fixed to face it. Because Bonds are the best shock absorber around.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Columbus youth is arrested on shoplift charge

A 17-year-old Columbus youth was charged with shoplifting by Washington C. H. police officers at 8:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Terry D. Miller, of Columbus, was observed by an employe at Buckeye Mart, 100 Washington Square Plaza, while apparently stealing an eight-track tape.

Miller was followed from the store and started to run away. He was chased and caught.

Sgt. William R. Crooks of the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, happened to be at the scene of the disturbance and notified the Washington C. H. Police Department, which dispatched Ptl. Mike Stritenberger to the incident.

A search of the weeds where Miller was apprehended revealed the discarded, stolen tape. Miller was placed under arrest for shoplifting and later released to his uncle, pending a hearing in Fayette County juvenile court, according to the report.

Workhouse escapee held here after auto towing incident

A Cleveland man who repossessed his car from Bell's Shell garage, 703 Columbus Ave., before paying his tow bill, got much more than he bargained for.

The vehicle was towed back to the garage and Weeks was brought to county jail and charged. He appeared in municipal court Wednesday found guilty and was fined $60.

A teletype check on Weeks revealed he wasn't Edward Weeks at all, but James O'Keefe, who was wanted by the Cuyahoga County Sheriff's Department, because he was an escapee from the Cuyahoga County workhouse, where he had been sentenced on an undisclosed offense.

Pilots review annual fly-in

The Fayette County Pilot's Association met Tuesday night to discuss a number of the association's activities and projects.

A report on the annual fly-in showed that the affair grossed $482 which will be added to the airport improvement fund. The fly-in was termed a success even though the number of pilots participating was somewhat disappointing. The uncertain weather dissuaded a number of pilots who had expressed a desire to attend.

Despite the treat of rain, some 25 pilots made their way to the airport. The fly-in was well attended by local residents and was supported by a number of local merchants.

THE PILOTS voted to sponsor a booth at the Fayette County Fair. Jack Sanders, association president, was selected to chair the committee planning the booth. Proceeds from the endeavor will be added to the airport improvement fund.

The association decided to order new membership cards, and jacket patches. It was noted that the new stationery ordered by the association had arrived.

In place of the regular July business meeting, members of the organization and their wives will have dinner in Columbus prior to touring Port Columbus International Airport. The group will visit the control tower, radar room and flight service station.

A new member, Marlin Overly, was welcomed to the association, and Sanders reiterated that membership is open not only to pilots, but to any individuals who are interested in the affairs of the airport or interested in aviation.

County Commissioner J. Herbert Perrill, who was a guest at the meeting spoke on behalf of the county government as he expressed appreciation to the pilot's association for the placement of the signs in front of the airport and the Fayette County Children's Home.

A Danish journalist estimated that, during the 1972 Olympics, "The people of Denmark gained a total of 2,000 tons in weight, just from munching snacks before their television sets."
